WOMAN'S BODY FOUND IN PARK RESERVOIR

Two Horses in 200 Years.
Poland Goes Ahead.
The Jury Sang Hymns.
Never Praise Moderately.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

TWO NEW YORK peddlers accused of cruelty to horses were warned by Magistrate Greenspan, speaking in Yiddish, the Jewish dialect:

"You know your Talmud teaches kindness to animals. Two hundred years from now you might return to earth as horses if you treat those animals mean."

The peddlers, deeply impressed, promised to be more humane. The judge was praised.

If those peddlers SHOULD come back as horses, two hundred years hence, they would be lonesome, for in 2134 they would be the only two horses in New York. And, as great curiosities, they would be extremely valuable, only, as horses, they could not spend the money.

THE REINCARNATION idea, excellent as a warning in this case, it something harmful.

In Egypt superstitious mothers allow flies to destroy the eyes of their children because a grandfather or grandmother may reside in one of the flies. They do not dare disturb the insects that destroy the sight of thousands of babies.

POLAND, WITH newly recovered national existence, leads in its birth increase, which is three times that of Germany, double the increase in Italy, four times the British increase, more than eight times the increase in France.

The figures will worry Mr. Hitler, with his Polish corridor problem, and please France with her Polish alliance, carefully financed. In France the births exceed the deaths only slightly, but when you have the biggest fighting air fleet you don't depend on mere numbers.

If those new little Poles have the qualities of Kosciuszko, who made freedom shriek when he fell, or Poniatowski, who jumped with his horse into the river and to death to get at the enemy, Poland is to be congratulated.

INTERESTING MURDER case in Scranton, Pa. Alex Zielinski, who killed Diamond Glaros with a shot in the back, is pronounced guilty of second-degree murder.

The judge said it should have been first-degree murder, with the death penalty, and criticized as "sob sisters" jurors that sang hymns before reaching their verdict, including "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah."

The judge quoted Jehovah, in words addressed to Cain, "Thy brother's blood crieth from the ground," adding:

"The remark of Jehovah to the first murderer is still applicable to every murderer."

What about the lady who drove a nail into the brain of the enemy general and other killings, highly praised in the Bible?

THE FRENCH say that to praise moderately is a great sign of mediocrity. In French, if you are interested, minus three acute accents, it goes thus: C'est un grande signe de mediocrite, que de louer modoreement.

Growers of tobacco think it would be a horrible sign of mediocrity to praise otherwise than enthusiastically President Roosevelt's tobacco arrangements.

J. B. Hutsen, of the administration's tobacco production section, says growers of flue-cured tobacco will get this year one hundred and ten million dollars, two and one-half times as much as in 1932, besides twenty-one million dollars in government bonuses for farmers in the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia and Florida, who agree to reduce production next year.

A JURY convicts Mrs. May Henson of pouring gasoline over her former husband as he sat in his automobile, applying a lighted match and calmly watching him burn to death.

You wonder at the fluctuations in punishment when you read that the woman in this dreadful case was sentenced, not to death or to life imprisonment, but to fourteen years in prison.

Jealousy perhaps entered into the case, and if jurors and judge had read the Bible definition of jealousy, which hath a most vehement flame, that may explain the moderate penalty.

FLYING IS real, at least for the Lindberghs. They return from a five months' flight investigating airways across the Atlantic. The journey took them to Canada, Greenland, Iceland, Denmark, Finland, Russia, Estonia, Sweden, Norway, England, France, Spain, Portugal, Azores, Spanish Gold Coast, Cape Verde Islands, British Guiana, Brazil, Trinidad, Porto Rico and San Domingo.

In all, they flew more than 20,000 miles and without trouble. An airplane seems to do what Col. Lindbergh wants it to do.

BETWEEN CHRISTMAS and the New Year, a new infant is expected in the Japanese imperial family.

In hundreds of Buddhist temples and other worshipping places, at the shrines of the imperial ancestors and in millions of Japanese homes, prayers are offered that the new baby be a boy. The imperial children thus far are all girls and no girl can inherit the throne.

Prayers offered are admirable proofs of faith, but, of course, the sex of the small baby was settled, irrevocably, long ago.

It would be unreasonable to ask Buddha or the Shinto gods to change what is settled so definitely. That would be a difficult miracle.

Mystery Man Held in Dentist Murder

NOTES SHOW MANY LOVES OF VICTIM

Jilted Woman Linked In Sphinx Slaying By Society Girl

International News Service.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 18.—A suspect whose name was not revealed was taken into custody today for questioning in the "sphinx murder" of Dr. Leonard Siever. Police Chief Charles Kelly said:

"We'll either eliminate him, or important developments may be anticipated immediately."

In a slim, black box reposing in the safe deposit vault of a Los Angeles bank, police today sought the solution to the bizarre "sphinx murder case."

They planned to open that box—the safe deposit box of Dr. Siever, some time today.

And from that locked receptacle police hoped to take information vital to the case, perhaps the real reason why the handsome Russian-born dentist was shot down last Tuesday night.

GIRL GIVES CLUE

Detectives seeking to solve the murder today continued to backtrack over Dr. Siever's tangled love affairs.

Dr. Siever, in whose rooms were found letters and diary notations indicating romantic rendezvous with many women, several of whom were married, was shot and killed last Tuesday night under the stone gaze of two great sphinxes that guard the entrance portals of the Scottish Rite Cathedral here.

HOLDS VICTIM 'HOUNDED'

The society girl told officers that a sweetheart Dr. Siever had discarded had hounded him and in a jealous rage had threatened to kill him. She may have been the "purple secret" Dr. Siever had told associates he feared, detectives believed.

This sweetheart, once high in the Pasadena social strata, had recklessly let it be known it might be dangerous for any woman "to pick up with Dr. Siever where I left off."

As Dr. Siever's voluminous correspondence, copies of which he had carefully kept since he was an undergraduate at the University of Michigan, had indicated numerous affairs of the heart, detectives renewed their energy toward "finding the woman" and solving the mystery of the dashing dentist's death.

A second woman also was sought for questioning. She was in Dr. Seiver's office a few hours before his bullet-riddled body was found beside his automobile, but mysteriously disappeared about the time the body was found.

Pennington Urged for Police Job

Pittsburgh ministers, asked by Mayor-elect William N. McNair to propose a name for Director of Public Safety in the new administration, have agreed upon John D. Pennington, former Prohibition Administrator here.

This became known today when eight clergymen, headed by the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton appeared in Council and asked repeal of an ordinance passed in 1902 requiring department heads to have had five years' residence here before appointment.

At this afternoon's session of City Council, Councilman W. Y. English introduced an ordinance amending the 1902 measure to read: "These directors, or appointees shall reside in Pittsburgh during their time in office."

The Rev. Dr. J. Alvin Orr, of the the First United Presbyterian Church (N. S.), said from correspondence with Pennington he felt assured the former dry administrator would accept appointment.

While several members of the delegation expressed belief their recommendation would be accepted by McNair, they added they had no positive assurance.

CITY PROPERTY SAVINGS URGED

Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, representing Mayor-elect William N. McNair in a study of city finances, today recommended to City Council a 47 per cent cut in the 1934 appropriation for the Bureau of City Property.

The proposed reduction amounts to $146,896 and is largely in salaries and wages.

Mrs. Smith suggests the work of cleaning the City-County Building be let on a contract to a competent janitorial service company at an annual saving of $26,554.

Mrs. Smith, studying the hours of city employes, has discovered that cleaners making $1,122 a year work five hours a day, making approximately 75 cents an hour.

URGES 8-HOUR DAY

If the city continues to do the work with its own force, the cleaners should be put on an eight-hour basis and the work now performed by 35 cleaners should be done by 22, she says. The laborers and two watchmen might also be eliminated, she states, and the jobs of the chief clerk and super-

Queen Marie was here for the birth of her granddaughter. King Carol, of Rumania, and former King Alfonso, of Spain, telegraphed their congratulations.

CHILD LABOR BAN DOOMED BY G.O.P.

Other Social Measures Slated for Slaughter In Legislature

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—The Republican organization has passed the word to kill the Fitzgerald minimum wage bill and ratification of the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution.

It is somewhat on the fence in its attitude toward the program of housing legislation for the eradication of slums, with today's tendency being to bury the whole program sponsored by Representative John J. Kane, Pittsburgh Democrat, and approved by civic organizations throughout the state.

It believes it has the votes to smother Gov. Pinchot's proposal for governing the size and movement of trucks on highways during week-end traffic.

The only social legislation bills certain of approval are the half-loaf old age assistance bill, pensions for the blind and the soldier bonus.

G. O. P. AUTHORITY

All of these bills have passed the House and are in the Senate for action.

To be included in the prospective slaughter are bills abolishing the coal and iron police and the privately-paid deputy sheriffs.

Labor groups have offered conciliatory amendments to the minimum wage bill, eliminating the Department of Labor and Industry as a factor in the establishment of minimum wages, but they have been turned down. The bill

9 NUNS TESTIFY IN VOTE TRIAL

Nine nuns of the Roselia Maternity Hospital, Cliff street, testified to having voted the straight Democratic ticket in Federal Court today at the trial of the first vote fraud case.

They were the first of more than 50 witnesses, First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh told the jury, wdho would be called to testify to having so voted.

Marsh saaid the government would show only nine straight Democratic ballots were found in the ballot box. Fifteen others showed markings for Democratic nominees, he said.

On trial for the second time are Mike Wendell, judge; Carman Bosco and Charles P. Betters, inspectors; James Stuhlfire and Louis D. Petty, clerks, and George Taylor, election Constable.

STATE LISTS HIGH PRICES FOR LIQUOR

Control Board Fails To Make Reductions Anticipated

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania today announced the prices it will charge for whisky and wine when the state liquor stores open January 2.

And with the list were dashed the hopes of those who were looking for substantial reductions in the high prices of booze.

The state prices are, roughly, the same now being charged by hotels, restaurants and clubs. In fact, the announcement of the prices, made by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, seemed to contain an apologetic note.

BONDED WHISKY

Here are the prices:

Domestic blended rye whisky—a price somewhere between $1.85 and $3.25 per quart.

Bonded whisky—$6.50 to $8 per quart.

Champagne—$6.50 to $8 per quart.

Gin—$1 to $1.75 a bottle.

The Board said:

"Prices of liquor in state stores next month will be as low as the present chaotic conditions of the liquor and wine industry permit. In quality the merchandise will only be the highest."

There was a vague promise of reductions later in this statement:

"As increased importations and the settlement of the do-

Dawes Again Puffs Underslung Pipe

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Maybe times are getting back to normal. At any rate Gen. Charles G. Dawes is smoking that famous underslung pipe again—the pipe that made so many persons sit up and take notice in the "Hell and Maria" days when he was Vice President of these United States.

One-Pound Baby Born in Ohio Town

BORICH WINS IN HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Frank Borich, an alien living at Pittsburgh, was granted a review by the Supreme Court today in his fight to prevent deportation for radical activities.

The Department of Labor charged he was secretary of the National Miners' Union, which, it is alleged, had declared adherence to the principles of the Red International of Labor Unions, and that he had been active for the Communist party in America.

Borich denied the government's charges.

Borich came to this country in 1913 and was arrested on a deportation warrant issued March 31, 1932. The decision of Federal Judge Robert M. Gibson, of Pittsburgh, upholding the deportation order and dismissing a writ of habeas corpus Borich had brought against W. H. Marshall, director of immigration in the Pittsburgh district, was affirmed recently by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, Philadelphia.

Heflin Plans Race For Congress Seat

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Alabama's Democratic executive committee barred Negroes from the party primary next May, officially ignored a pre-convention proposal for a liquor referendum and then adjourned to hear former Senator J. Thomas Heflin formally announce he would run for Congress next year.

In setting up qualifications for next May's primary, the committee restricted voters to qualified white electors who voted the straight Democratic ticket in the 1932 general election.

2 Women Drowned In Plunge of Auto

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Trapped in an automobile which plunged off a Delaware River pier, two women drowned early today. A third, flung from the rumble seat of the car, was rescued.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Rose Havel, formerly of Astoria, N. Y., and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Catherine Havel.

WOMAN IN TUB SAVED IN FIRE

Trapped in a burning house at 5576 Wilkins avenue, three women were rescued today by three unidentified men who burst into the house and carried them to safety.

A maid, Catherine Gillessie, 18, discovered the flames in a hallway on the first floor. Panic stricken and blinded by smoke, she ran to the third floor of the house, leaned from a window and called for help. A passerby climbed up the outside of the building, hauled her out the window, and deposited her safely on the ground.

Mrs. Aaron H. Tenenbaum, who was taking a bath at the time, and her daughter, Rhea, in bed, were also carried out of the house unharmed wrapped in bathrobes.

Firemen estimated the damage at $1,000.

Playboy M'Cready Makes Stage Debut

Harrison McCready, the playboy, today made his debut on the, er—legitimate stage. The habitue of hospitals, courtrooms and night clubs opened, with a midnight show, a week's engagement in the Variety, burlesque theater. In a night-club scene he played, with practically no rehearsal, the part of a playboy.

Stricken Priest Dies in Ambulance

An ambulance speeding to Pittsburgh from Latrobe lost a race with death today. The Rev. Vladimir Korntowski, 60, pastor of the Greek Catholic Church of the Assumption at Latrobe, died en route to Mercy Hospital.

The priest collapsed after conducting services in his church this morning. A physician examined him and ordered that he be sent at once to the hospital here.

Kreuger's Brother Sentenced to Prison

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Torsten Kreuger, brother of the late Ivar Kreuger, self-slain Swedish financier was found guilty of fraud by the Supreme Court today.

He was sentenced to 12 months' imprisonment at hard labor and ordered to pay 1,500,000 kroner (about $390,000) to the stockholders of one of his concerns.

Hat Held As Key To Reservoir Mystery

WATCHMAN DISCOVERS MYSTERY VICTIM

Floating Hat Draws Highland Guard To Scene

An embroidered white handkerchief, a small black velvet turban fastened with two crystal rings, and the diminutive size of her emaciated figure were the clues on which police today sought to identify the body of a woman, about 70, found floating this morning in Highland Park Reservoir No. 1.

The tiny figure of the woman was a familiar sight to watchmen at the reservoir, where almost every day last summer she came for solitary walks. She had not been seen, however, in several weeks until today.

WATCHMAN FINDS HAT

Martin L. Wigginston, watchman in the tower near the main gate to Highland Park, discovered the body after rowing out to the hat, which he noticed on the water. The body floated near the surface below the hat.

Using an oar, Wigginston towed the body to the bank of the reservoir and called police.

The body, it was found at the morgue, was almost frozen. This accounted for its excellent state of preservation, deputy coroners explained, though it appeared to have been in the water for not more than three or four days.

The body is that of a woman who weighed about 80 pounds, according to the Coroner's report. It is 4 feet 5 inches in height.

WORE SPECTACLES

Except for a few streaks of dark, the woman's hair was white. She wore black-rimmed spectacles. There was an upper plate of artificial teeth, but no teeth in the lower half of her mouth. The body bore no signs of violence.

In addition to the black velvet hat she wore a black pony fur coat, a black knitted sweater and a black silk dress. In the pocket of the coat police found the handkerchief in a corner of which was embroidered the letter "A." Also in the pocket was a 50-cent piece and several pennies and a ring with five keys on it.

An autopsy at the County Morgue, where the body is being held awaiting identification, showed death to have been caused by drowning.

No woman fitting the description of the body has been reported missing, a check of records in the Missing Persons Bureau showed.

Lindys Soaring Home to Baby Son On Last Lap of 28,000-Mile Journey

Light to Burn All Night in Morrow House on Hill

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Headed for New York to spend Christmas at home with their infant son, whom they have not seen for five months, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off from here today on the last leg of their 28,000-mile aerial swing around the North and South Atlantic Oceans.

Fully restored following their arrival here Saturday on a 900-mile flight from San Pedro, Dominion republic, the fliers took to the air in their seaplane as a crowd of spectators stood on the docks and waved a farewell.

Whether the Lindberghs planned to fly non-stop to New York, or land at some intermediate point, was not revealed by them. They carried sufficient gasoline to take them to their destination—approximately 1,200 miles away.

Arising early, the Lindberghs ate a hearty breakfast at their Miami Beach hotel and then motored to the airport, reaching there at 8:30 a. m. Their low-wing monoplane had been placed in the water an hour before.

Lindbergh was dressed in a dark suit—the only one he had with him on the trip—while Mrs. Lindbergh wore brown flying togs.

A Coast Guard seaplane and two blimps were in the air to provide an escore, but they soon were left far behind and the Lindberghs, traveling at a high speed, disappeared in the distance.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Dec. 18.—The massive white door of the Morrow house on the hill will not be locked tonight, and a subdued light will burn in the hall.

Sometime between darkness and dawn a son and daughtetr of the house will slip quietly in, and make their way upstairs to a familiar wing.

The homecoming will be quiet.

But friends will pour in for Christmas, probably. Mrs Evangeline Lindbergh, the colonel's mother, will come from Detroit, as usual; the two Morrow children, Constance, a Smith College girl, and Dwight, Jr., at Amherst, already are at home for their vacations. Only Elizabeth, now living in Wales, will be absent from the family group.

Mrs. Morrow is very happy about the homecoming, and deep in Christmas plans. It will be Baby Jon's first real Christmas, for he was too young last year to distinguish the tree.

Actress Asks Divorce, Calls Mate 'Lazy'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Accusing her husband of "laziness and profligacy," Miriam Jordan, film player, has filed a suit for divorce against Joseph Davis, of New York and London.

Records of the Domestic Relations Court disclosed today the action was filed under the family names of the principals, Miriam Ruby Davis and Joseph Davis. The couple married in London on April 14, 1926, separating on October 1, 1929.

The actress said she supported Davis for three and one-half years and finally separated from him. She said he often told her in the presence of others that he had no desire to work.

Miss Jordan, a native of London, won attention as the beauty queen of the Wembley Exposition, an all-British Empire trade fair. She played on the stage and then went into films. Among the screen vehicles she has appeared in were "Six Hours to Live," Sherlock Holmes," and "Dangerously Yours."

The petite blonde had kept her marriage a secret in the film colony and always was regarded as a single woman.

ADMINISTRATION OPPOSES RECOVERY ACT AMENDMENTS

WAGNER SEEKS LABOR BOARD RULINGS

Auto Industry Asks Extension of Code Until Sept., 1934

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Government officials have decided, after six months' trial of the Industrial Recovery Act, that they would prefer not to reopen it to amendment at the coming session of Congress.

Unless conditions then demand it, consequently, they intend to ask no changes. One exception, however, may develop from the desire of Senator Wagner (Dem.), of New York, to get down in black and white the powers of the National Labor Board, which he heads.

The men who have administered the NIRA do not consider the law perfect. They believe it contains some inconsistent and even contradictory provisions, but hope these will not prove of sufficient importance to warrant reopening the entire structure.

AUTO INDUSTRY

Meanwhile the automobile industry has filed with NRA a request that its code be extended until September 1, 1934, and Hugh S. Johnson said today:

"It will be granted."

The present code expires December 31, having been, like that of the steel industry, submitted and approved for a trial period only. Steel men last month asked and obtained continuance to next May, and pronounced themselves highly pleased with operation of the pact.

It had been expected that the automobile men would do likewise. The request was for renewal of the entire code, unchanged.

The NRA yesterday modified the Blue Eagle voluntary re-employment agreement or blanket code to permit all employers under it to work their help overtime at the year-end for inventory purposes.

GENERAL ORDER

In a general order, issued at the recommendation of the National Compliance Board, Gen. Johnson gave permission to all under the voluntary agreement to break the limited work hours of their employes for two weeks, provided, however, that all such overtime is paid for at least at a rate of time and one-half of what the workers are now getting. Most industries under permanent codes already have this privilege.

LOANS TO INDUSTRY

Difficulties experienced by industry in obtaining bank loans for meeting payrolls were said again today to have led to serious consideration by the administration of the advisability of asking congress to permit RFC loans for this purpose.

An effort along this line was made under the NRA loan plan, designed to assist subscribers to the various codes, but the prohibition against direct RFC loans was said by Chairman Jesse H. Jones today to have made it impossible to spread these funds as rapidly and as far as needed.

As a result, he is studing means of meeting the situation and will report to President Roosevelt. Indication are that when he does he will recommend direct loans.

KEYS MYSTERY AT VOTE PROBE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 18.—Washington County's probe of alleged vote fraud today became the mystery of the keys as Mrs. Johanna Simms, minority inspector of the third precinct of Chartiers Township, took the stand to deny testimony of other witnesses that the keys she was given fitted the precinct ballot box.

Mrs. Simms testified that one set of keys she was given failed to open the box lock. A locksmith had to be called to open the lock, she said. A second set of keys which Mrs. Simms said was for the boxes used in the primary election. These keys unlocked the general election box.

Attorney Alfred Reed objected to a move by the Washington County district attorney to call in the locksmith. The court overruled the motion, however, on the ground that the district attorney represented the public and not one of the political factions.

Whether the locksmith will appear on the witness stand could not be learned.

MURDER TRIALS OF TWO BEGUN

A man and a woman were placed on trial on murder charges today as two homicide cases started in Criminal Court.

Attorneys were addressing the jury in the case of Miss Colleen Nanns, 23, former waitress, of 5451 Penn avenue, accused of shooting to death in her apartment on September 29, Rodger J. Casilio, 38, a policeman, of 73 Elm street.

Detectives say the victim had been living with the girl, and that she shot him during a quarrel.

A jury is being picked in the case of Policeman Hiram McAbee, formerly of Mt Washington Station, charged with killing Lawrence O'Malley, 21, of 16 McLain street, by hitting him on the head with his mace. O'Malley is said to have been intoxicated and to have taken a shrub from the front lawn of Dr. J. S. Stewart, 611 East Warrington avenue.

When he resisted arrest, McAbee is alleged to have struck him.

COUGHLIN ENDS MONEY TALKS

Universal Service.

ROYAL OAK, Mich., Dec. 18.—Declaring he had concluded his series of talks on the monetary situation because "with the almost indescribable moral support of the common people, President Roosevelt has won his first battle against the money changers," the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin devoted his regular Sunday afternoon radio hour to a sermon on "The Advent of Christ."

The radio priest warned people to continue their support of President Roosevelt, whom he compared to George Washington as a man of aristocratic birth and upbringing who "spoke the language of the forgotten man." He said the war against the "money changers" could never be stopped.

He said he would resume his money talks when Congress convenes in January.

The radio priest said this Christmas finds more peace, less financial disaster and more promise for real prosperity than any period since the depression began.

Valentino Estate Sued for U. S. Taxes

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—More trouble today dogged the tired spirit of Rudolph Valentino, filmdom's greatest shiek, whose body lies in a borrowed tomb in Hollywood cemetrey.

The federal government filed against his estate and against the Rudolph Valentino Productions, Inc., seven income tax liens seeking payment of $55,573 for the years 1926, 1927 and 1928.

POLICE GUARD STORE TRUCKS IN STRIKE

Labor Board's Bid for Truce in Downtown Walkout Fails

Two dozen motorcycle, radio and mounted police were detailed to guard trucks making deliveries for Kaufmann's Store today as a precaution against trouble as a result of the drivers' strike.

The shift of policemen that ordinarily reports at 2:30 p. m. was ordered on duty at noon, until the strike situation clears.

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, chairman of the Pittsburgh Regional Labor Board, has referred the rejection by the strikers of a recommendation to return to work pending negotiations for settlement, to the National Labor Board.

The regional board asked the men to go back and allow 10 days from December 16 for arranging a settlement satisfactory to both sides.

Phillip Gottie, secretary and treasurer of the drivers union, made this statement:

"On Saturday at 6:30 p. m. Kaufmann's Department Stores, Inc., submitted a proposal for settlement of the strike of truck drivers and helpers of that company, to the General Chauffeurs, Teamsters and Helpers Local No. 249 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

"This proposal was drawn up by Edgar Kaufmann at a meeting held Saturday night. The men voted to accept the proposal of Mr. Kaufmann so as to comply with the decision handed down by the Regional Labor Board Saturday afternoon. After the meeting we notified Edgar Kaufmann that we were willing to accept the proposal submitted by him.

"He informed us that he would have to wait until Wednesday to sign the contract. However, during a previous conference with him he signed an agreement that was unsatisfactory to us. It is the intention of our organization to comply 100 per cent with the President's National Recovery Administration.

"We have not asked for a wage increase nor have we asked for a betterment of working conditions at the present time. We have only asked for recognition of our union which labor is entitled to under the act. There are 140 drivers and helpers of Kaufmann's Store out on strike. Spear & Co., and Friend & Co. have signed up and the men returned to work Saturday morning."

SMITH PRAISES ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Speculation as to whether Alfred E. Smith and President Roosevelt are on friendly terms personally had received a new twist today as a result of a speech made by Smith Saturday night at the Manhattan Club.

In the speech Smith gave the President credit for the final thrust that brought about prohibition repeal. Smith said:

"The one man who put over repeal now is the President of the United States."

Some saw in Smith's assertion an indication that his opposition to some of the President's policies was based on principle, rather than on personal grounds.

WEIRTON WAITS U. S. ACTION ON POLL

U. S. Attorney General Weighs Charges of 'Illegal' Election

With the next move in the dispute between the National Labor Board and the Weirton Steel Company over the method of electing employe representatives in the company mills up to the federal government, there was no indication today of what that action might be.

At the company offices here, it was said Weirton officials are "marking time" pending government action. The matter is in the hands of the Attorney General in Washington.

Inquiries concerning the results of the election in the mills at Weirton and Clarksburg, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., brought a response from the company that the details of the voting were not known here. At the mills, members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers asked:

"Who cares?"

Edward W. Miller, international vice president of the Amalgamated, said here that the men were ignoring the election and added:

"The company couldn't lose. Since they controlled the election and had the keys to the ballot boxes and no one but company union men on the ballots, the results don't matter."

Miller said that while there was danger last week that the Amalgamated men would strike in protest of the company union plan of electing the representatives in collective bargaining, he believed that danger was past in view of the prospect of federal intervention. If that fails, he said, he could not be certain what the men will do.

The Labor Board has indicated it will seek an injunction and conduct another election with candidates chosen by petition of the workers instead of by secret ballot, the company union's method.

CWA WORKMEN GO ON STRIKE

MONESSEN, Pa., Dec. 18.—What is believed the first strike under the CWA was on here today.

Five stone masons who had been trimming and setting stones for a rustic wall in the city park refused to return to work.

They had been receiving 75 cents an hour and said they read in the newspapers that skilled labor would receive $1.10 an hour under the CWA. The same men had worked for the city for 65 cents an hour.

C. W. Anderson, district CWA engineer, communicated their complaint to county headquarters in Greensburg.

SLUMP HALTED, ROPER SAYS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Revival of world-wide trade plus definite halting of the depression's downward swing at home were cited today as salient developments of the last fiscal year in Secretary of Commerce Roper's annual report to President Roosevelt.

Roper's report, covering the fiscal year ending last June 30, conceded that business volume—domestic and international—had declined during the year but that a distinct upward trend was apparent at the close of the period.

Citing governmental steps to combat business recession, the report added:

"In the United States signs of resistance to further contraction appeared in the first half of the fiscal year and by the final quarter the tide of deflation definitely was stemmed.

"Confidence was greatly strengthened by decisive governmental action. Business activity quickened and by the end of the year substantial progress had been made."

pouring into the United States from Papeete. Now suddenly prohibition repeal ends prosperity.

The French ship, Marechal Foch, sailing from Papeete with several thousand cases of whisky, marked the end of good times. It means, however, better times in this country, let us hope.

OTHER WHISKY news tells you that New York's speakeasies are feeling disastrously the effect of repeal.

Decent people prefer to do decent drinking in decent places. Respectable hotels and restaurants are patronized instead of speakeasies, with their low lights, lower customers, higher prices.

Giving Up Harry

MARY McCORMIC

MARY M'CORMIC, BANNISTER PART

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The romance between Mary McCormic, opera singer, and Harry Bannister, divorced husband of Ann Harding, is ended. Tearfully, the singer said:

"We had temperamental difficulties. We decided it would be better to break up now than go through with the marriage and find unhappiness."

On December 8, Miss McCormic announced she and Bannister would be married January 29, sighing:

"I have found the man I should have married in 1923. He is the one great romance of my life."

MUSEUM SEEKS WRIGHT TRUCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Smithsonian Institution today moved to close a long-standing breach with Orville Wright in an effort to bring back to the United States from England the world's most precious aviation relic—the original Wright airplane.

Charles A. Lindbergh, as he sped northward today on the last lap of his 28,000-mile flight, carried with him its request to act as a mediator in the case.

As a peace move, authoritative sources said, the Smithsonian Institution was prepared to assure Wright that his plane would be given the most prominent spot in the National Museum's aviation section—a location immediately front of Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis."

M'NAIR REFUSES TO POSE WITH MAGEE

Peace Meeting Brings 'Indifferent' Success

The peace meeting which mutual friends arranged at the Hungry Club luncheon today between Councilman-elect William A. Magee and Mayor-elect William N. McNair had only indifferent success.

REFERS TO CARD

When McNair, as chairman of the meeting, arose to introduce Magee as the speaker, he didn't trust to memory but read a thumb nail biography of the one-time Mayor from a postal card announcing the meeting.

Magee talked on problems of the coming administration emphasizing utilities and the Railways company. Of the recent action of council in fixing the tax levy the same as this year, he said:

"City Council—I think without protest from any other than me (glancing at McNair)—has passed a tax levy providing two million dollars; less than the tax money needed. I look for a deficit in our budget next year of about five million dollars."

RAILWAYS' PLIGHT

Magee declared the Pittsburgh Railways Company was in worse financial condittion than the city. Its reveenue had fallen from 22 million dollars to 11½ million in 10 years and would "probably collapse" in a few years, he said.

Cutting bus fares would only take customers from the street cars and result in a higher trolley fare, Magee asserted.

To justify a five-cent trwolley far, car riding would have to increase 60 per centt, the former Mayor declared.

CITY PROPERTY SAVINGS URGED

intendent of buildings combined.

The 11 city comfort stations, the report states, should be operated on a contract at a saving of $59,400 a year.

The North Side Market House should be leased to an operating group along lines similar to the Diamond Market at a yearly saving of $36,163, she urges.

Other suggestions are: Leasing the Stephen C. Foster Memorial Homestead to a tenant who will set aside one room as a memorial; closing the North Side Municipal Hall for organization meetings; eliminating two watchmen and three laborers at the wharves and eliminating four elevator operators, a steam-fitter, an engineer and an elevator maintenance helper at the City-County Building.

TWO BUDGET PROBLEMS

Fortified by a week-end respite the Allegheny County Commissioners and Pittsburgh's City Council today tackled anew the problems of balancing budgets for 1934.

City Council faced the stupendous task of slashing two million dollars from the budget requests of department heads. The Commissioners faced the problem of keeping their figures within the income from the present tax millage in the face of a declining percentage of tax collections.

M'NAIR OFFERS TAX CUT PLAN

Three items essential to obtaining tax relief were given by Mayor-elect William N. McNair in an address before 400 members of the Hill District Taxpayers' Association in the Grand Theater, Center avenue, yesterday. They were:

Try to cut the cost of government; try to get the utilities to pay some taxes; try to get some revenue from the economic rents in Pittsburgh.

The next Mayor said in part:

"There is some talk of taxing incomes to relieve real estate of part of its burden. I am in favor of an income tax if you can't get some of that economic rent. A bill was put into the Legislature to make utilities pay taxes on their property, but it was 'killed.' What you people ought to do is find out who 'killed' it, and at the next primaries 'kill' his name on the ballot. But that's your worry; I'm not going to fret over the next primaries. Police and firemen can vote any way they want. I'm not going to give them any orders."

KELLY URGES NRA SUPPORT

Congressman Clyde Kelly urged support for the NRA at a meeting yesterday of 300 persons in the East Pittsburgh High School. The meeting was sponsored by the East Pittsburgh NRA Compliance Committee and was also addressed by Judge Benjamin Lencher and John S. Pavlio, Jr., of East Pittsburgh, a member of the Notre Dame debating team.

During an address in Versailles Township Saturday night, Congressman Kelly was interrupted by a big-shouldered mill worker, who took objection, it was reported, to a story about a perfect brick-making machine used to explain technological unemployment. The would-be heckler was prevented from continuing by friends who escorted him home.

Bank Teller Pleads Guilty, Wins Parole

John W. Taylor, 502 Griffin street, was paroled for 18 months by Judge Sylvester J. Snee when he pleaded guilty today to embezzling $840 from the Colonial Trust Company December 21, 1932.

He had been employed as teller at the bank for 10 years. Bank employes said all the money had been refunded, and joined in a plea for his parole.

FIVE NAMES UP FOR CWA JOB

Officials of the Federal-State Employment Bureau here expect Gov. Pinchot tomorrow to name a successor to Maj. Harold F. Bucher, ousted last week. Five personnel directors of industrial organizations are being considered by the Governor, it was said by close friends. The job pays $3,000 a year.

Two representatives of war veterans and the American Federation of Labor will be named this week to have a voice on all job assignments to the CWA, it was said, in an effort to prevent repetition of charges that union men and veterans are being discriminated against when jobs are handed out.

A. W. Motley, of the State Employment Bureau, Harrisburg, in charge of the Pittsburgh district pending appointment of a successor to Bucher, said the bureau, now carrying on CWA work in Allegheny County, will accept applications from 8:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. daily, excepting Saturday, when the office will be closed to job applicants, but will be open for other business.

Baboon-to-Man Chain Bared by Scientists

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service.

PEIPING, Dec. 18.—The mystery of a chain of life from the baboon through the Peking man to modern man confronted scientists today as a result of archeological discoveries in the famous caves of Choukoutien, a few miles from here.

These caves, it is revealed, served successively as home for the baboon, the Peking man, and a modern type of man, forerunner of the modern Chinese.

The discoveries were made by Dr. Davidson Black, noted Canadian scientist, and Dr. W. C. Pei, youthful Chinese archeologist and finder of the skulls of the now-famous Peking man. They disclosed details of life on earth more than one million years ago.

Working with funds partly supplied by the Rockefeller Institute, the two scientists unearthed several teeth and limb bones of the baboon.

In the same caves, but in layers of rock belonging to a later age, were found two almost complete skulls, identified as belonging to the immediate descendants of the Peking man.

Evidence of the life of the later modern man was plentiful. The new work thus links these ages, chronologically far apart, through the single Chinese caves.

Gov. Moore, Troopers Find Boy's Lost Dog

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Adolph Gioia, Jr., 11, needs little more to make his Christmas a happy one. His dog, Rex, is home again.

After he and Rex had been reunited last night, he wrote Gov. A. Harry Moore:

"I just got my pal Rex back and I want to thank you because you found him. It's the best Christmas present I'll ever get and I'll never forget what you did."

Gov. Moore was hardly less pleased than Adolph. Relating a conversation he had held with Capt. William Nichol, of the state police, after Rex, half-starved, was found yesterday by Mrs. Ruth O'Donnell at Dunellen, he said:

"I told him to bring the dog over to the boy, fix him up and make him happy."

For eight days Rex had been missing since Adolph took him to visit his aunt, Mrs. Mary Conti, at Lincoln, a few miles from Dunellen. Last week Adolph wrote the Governor begging for aid. The Governor ordered the state police to find the pup which is part chow, part police dog.

EXTORTIONISTS PERIL CHILD OF EX-GOLF CHAMPION

GANG ESCAPES TRAP SET BY U. S. AGENTS

Murder of Gardner's Son Threatened If Cash Is Not Paid

International News Service.

LAKE FOREST, Ill., Dec. 18.—Police and federal agents were guarding the home of Robert A. Gardner, wealthy former national amateur golf champion, today following an attempt to extort $10,000 from him on the threat of murdering his 11-year-old son, Henry.

One letter, crudely scrawled in pencil, was the only clue authorities had by which to trace the extortionists. An attempt to trap the plotters failed when they presumably grew suspicious and refrained from retrieving a decoy package of bills placed at the appointed location at the entrance to Mellody Farm, country show place of the late J. Ogden Armour.

Gardner, wealthy partner in a Chicago brokerage house, received the extortion note last Friday. It was written in pencil on cheap paper and sealed in an envelope addressed with purple ink.

The former golf champion communicated immediately with authorities and a guard was placed about his home to protect Mrs. Gardner and their three children. Gardner's wife is the former Kartherine Keep, who inherited approximately $1,500,000 on the death of her father, Chauncey Keep, capitalist, in 1929.

The note read:

"Mr. Gardner: You have a lot of the Keep money. You put $10,000 in $100 in bills in a can at the entrance to the J. Ogden Armour drive at Deerpath avenue and Waukegan road before 12 midnight December 15. If you don't we will take your little boy, Henry, for a ride, and we'll also blow up the Casino Club, where you're having a party for your daughter, Mary. If you tell anybody about this they will be shot on sight at the Armour place, right in the road."

PLANE CRASHES, PILOT SAFE

Forced down in a muddy field along the Perry Highway, four miles south of Zelienople, about noon today, Lieut William M. Reid, of Langley Field, Va., crashed when his ship nosed over in landing. The pilot was not injured.

Lieut. Reid, a reserve pilot on active duty, was flying from Erie to Bolling Field, Washington. He was returning from funeral services for Lieut. Norman H. Dunlap, of North East, who was killed last week at Langley Field in the crash of two planes in the air.

Rodgers Field received a message that he was en route here, having left Erie at 11:40 a. m. A mechanic's crew was dispatched to the scene to bring in the ship.

M'Keesport Aviatrix Joins Endurance Hop

Miss Helen Richey, 21-year-old McKeesport aviatrix, will take off in an attempt to break the women's endurance air record with Miss Frances Marsalis, nationally known aviatrix, at Miami, Fla., today or tomorrow.

Miss Richey was invited by telephone on Saturday to take the place of Miss Viola Gentry, Miss Marsalis' partner, who was stricken with appendicitis on Friday.

Mail Flier 'Chutes Down 6,000 Feet

DETROIT, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Carl Day, 37, of Buffalo, flying the mail from Buffalo to Detroit, abandoned his plane and leaped 6,000 feet with his parachute early yesterday when heavy fog made landing impossible. He landed unhurt near Wayne County airport.

Day was near the end of his gasoline supply when he jumped.

MENCKEN NABS 2 INTRUDERS

BALTIMORE, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Henry L. Mencken can nab a couple of disturbers and get them into police court but he cannot testify against them. The constitution of Maryland, he pointed out, provides that to testify under oath, one must believe in a God who damns sinners forever, and the Sage of Baltimore said:

"I don't."

Well, Mencken did not testify against J. R. Coe, of Washington, and Thomas C. Pinkerton, of Baltimore, yesterday, but he had them sign releases in consideration of dropping of charges of disorderly conduct and assault.

Mencken, fiery man of letters; his guest, Alfred A. Knopf, the publisher, and members of the Saturday Night Club were holding their usual meeting in a rear room of Schellhases' Restaurant, discussing Bach and drinking beer.

Their deliberations were interrupted by the intrusion of Coe and Pinkerton. The approach of the two was stopped by Dr. H. E. Buchholf, secretary, major domo and sergeant-at-arms of the club, but he was felled by a blow to the ear, which gushed blood. There was more blood, tables were upset and beer was spilt.

Mencken chased the intruders into the street, nabbed both of them and then turned them over to the police.

VANCE'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner, expressed the opinion today that the death of Louis Joseph Vance, author, was accidental.

Vance's body was found Saturday on the charred remains of a burned upholstered chair.

A city toxicologist reported after an examination of Vance's brain today that the author was intoxicated at the time of his death. Dr. Norris explained the presence of a partially filled can of benzine, saying the fluid had been used by Vance to soften adhesive tape used on an infected jaw.

Roosevelt Pictured Without Complexes

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Jo Davidson, who spent three days in the White House last week modeling President Roosevelt in clay, said he found the President to be without eccentricities.

Every other contemporary personality he has modeled, from George Bernard Shaw to the Mahatma Gandhi, the sculptor said, has had some subconscious oddity.

MONACO TO SUE MISSISSIPPI

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Principality of Monaco today asked the Supreme Court for permission to file suit against Mississippi to force payment of $574,300 alleged to be due on $100,000 of Mississippi bonds presented as a gift to the principality. Monaco operates the gambling establishment at Monte Carlo.

The court took the motion under advisement and is expected to announce January 8 whether permission will be granted.

The bonds were presented in September, 1933, by Mary Euphemia Elliott, Dudley Churchill Marjoribanks, Baron Tweedmouth and Giovanni Deldiago.

They, as individuals, could not bring suit against Mississippi in the Supreme Court, and it has been suggested that the gift was made to the principality to bring the test suit.

The bonds were issued in 1831, 1833 and 1838, and are said to have been in default since 1841.

SUES HUSBAND OVER SUPPORT

Her husband told her he had a million dollars, but he has given her only $1,400 since last May, Mrs. Dorothy McAlister, 43, of the Royal Yorke Apartments, testified today in seeking a limited divorce from Raymond P. McAlister, automobile dealer, of 1401 North Highland avenue.

They disputed the cost of supporting her, Mrs. McAlister testified, the husband claiming it was $1,000 a month, but refusing to show his accounts.

McAlister is not contesting the action, but he was called as a witness as testimony was taken to determine his financial status. He said he had $40,000 in his own name in two banks. L. C. Stephens, auditor, testified that the husband's share in the firms of McAlister Brothers and McAlister Brothers, Inc., was valued at $699,000 and its actual worth $479,000.

Son of Slain Oil Man Re-Enacts Death Scene

28-Mi. Trip Boy Made With Corpse Being Retraced for Police

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Carrying the shotgun that killed Clark Winthrop, Kennerdell oil operator, officers left today with Walter Witherup, 19, expecting him to show how his father died and his body was taken 28 miles to Little Canoe Creek.

Witherup admitted shooting his father, but told officers it was an accident. The gun was discharged into the elder Witherup's head while the boy was trying to dislodge a shell in the gun, he said.

Corp. J. Brooks, of Butler, Sheriff E. M. Voorhies, of Venango County and other officers said before they left they intended to go to the cabin where the Witherups were staying and place the gun in 19-year-old Walter's hand.

After re-enacting the slaying, they expected the youth to escort them over the road he used when he took the 52-year-old oil man's blanket wrapped body to Little Canoe Creek in Clarion County where it was found.

The gun in the case came into state police's possession yesterday. It was owned by H. R. Truitt, of Crafton, who had gone to the shack last week and took it home with him. He later turned it over to officers.

Truck Kills Aunt Of Murder Suspect

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 18.—As police gathered at the Barkeyville-Clintonville crossroads today to take Walter Witherup over the "death trail" he took his father over a week ago, "Aunt Sally" Martin, 90, stepped behind a passing auto and was killed by a truck.

6 DIE IN CUBAN OUTBREAKS

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Havana counted six dead and 13 wounded today in the capital's latest bloodshed and disorders.

More than 100 Spaniards were rounded up and taken to old Cabana Fortress during the night, charged with having participated in the outbreaks.

While soldiers massed to prevent new violence, preparations were made to receive Jefferson Caffery, President Roosevelt's representative who will pick up where former Ambassador Sumner Welles left off in efforts to bring a settlement of Cuba's political strife.

Shooting broke out yesterday afternoon with the sacking and burning of the offices of the newspaper El Pais because they considered the Spanish newspaper unfriendly to the government.

LOVE NEST QUIZ POSTPONED

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Walter S. Halliwell, 46, and Mrs. Helen D. Williams, 32, formerly in George White's Scandals, were continued in $1,000 bail today pending a hearing Jan. 4 on the charge that they are fugitives from Connecticut justice.

Magistrate Greenspan, who was informed that they are wanted in Litchfield, conn., on misconduct charges, continued bail when he was assured they would appear January 4.

The two were arrested in Halliwell's Park avenue penthouse December 9. Halliwell is the son of the late Charles E. Halliwell, a vice president of the American Tobacco Company from whom he inherited a considerable fortune. He is married to the former Lillian Richter, Connecticut officers said. Mrs. Williams was descibed as the wife of Albert Williams, of Baltimore.

ADRIFT HOURS, AIRMEN SAVED

MARSEILLES, France, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Four men who had been adrift aboard their crippled seaplane for more than 20 hours in the stormy Mediterranean were rescued at dawn today by the steamer St. Marguerite.

The heavy snowfall which had hampered the visibility of four ships steaming blindly around the plane in an agry sea stopped during the night.

At daybreak the St. Marguerite sighted the stricken craft at a point about 80 miles south of Marseilles.

The cold and weary occupants of the plane were taken aboard, along with the mail carried, and the ship steamed for Dizerta, Africa.

The plane was abandoned.

HELEN KELLER IN HOSPITAL AT GLASGOW

Famous Blind Scholar Undergoing General, Dental Treatment

International News Service.

GLASGOW, Dec. 18.—Helen Keller, world-famous blind and deaf scholar who has been in retirement for many months devoting all her time and energy to her lifelong friend and teacher, Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, was located in a nursing-home here today.

She is undergoing a general and dental treatment, her doctor revealed. Mrs. Macy also is a patient at the institution owing to a generally run-down condition.

Dr. James Keir Love, a friend of Miss Keller for many years, told International News Service:

"Miss Keller's friends in America should not be alarmed.

"She has been receiving dental treatment, and otherwise her health is not impaired. After receiving general treatment here she will be in much better health when she returns to America than she has been for several years."

Miss Keller was traced to Glasgow from a little village in the hills of Rosshire, where she went in an effort to nurse Mrs. Macy back to health and coach her in the Braille system.

She left the United States when she learned that Mrs. Macy's eyesight was failing rapidly. Confronted with total blindness, she decided to learn the Braille system, which she herself had taught to Miss Keller many years ago and had since forgotten.

Dr. Love said:

"I expect both Miss Keller and Mrs. Macy will be able to leave the nursing home by the end of the week."

BLIND 21 YEARS, MOTHER SEES

International News Service.

GREEN BAY, Wis., Dec. 18.—Mrs. Thomas Naylor unwearily today viewed with her own eyes the things and persons she had known only by her other senses during 21 years of sightlessness.

"It's all so wonderful!"

This was her exclamation as her eyes explored the landscape and neighboring dwellings. She added:

"Many of the people I know, and the outdoors, too, are not as I had pictured them. The world seems even more beautiful than when I was a girl. But my children look just as they had been described to me."

Since blindness overtook her during an attack of scarlet fever, Mrs. Naylor had married her childhood sweetheart and they have had two children.

A fortnight ago a surgeon performed an operation upon Mrs. Naylor's eyes to remove an obstruction disease had brought. Its success was not known until 48 hours ago when the physician removed the last bandage.

Mrs. Kelly's Peke Offered for Sale

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Pekingese which Kathryn Kelly left behind when she went to federal prison to serve a life sentence for the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, was advertised for sale here today.

Shortly after the trial, it was reported an offer of $100 for the dog had been refused by her father, J. S. Brooks.

INSULL RUINED HER AND MATE, DIVA CHARGES

Removed From Opera For Not Buying More Stock, Raisa Says

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Rosa Raisa, grand opera star, said today that Samuel Insull, Sr., persuaded her and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, baritone, to invest their life savings and their earnings in now virtually worthless stock of his utility financing companies.

When they refused to buy more, she said, they were ostracized from the Insull controlled Chicago Civic Opera, and "life made a hell for us." Their stock was not delivered to them until after the crash, she said, and then only with the stipulation that they would not sell it.

Mme. Raisa said that at one time Insull showed her she had "paper profits" of $500,000 and assured her that she would be "a very, very ruch woman."

She said a "very prominent Chicago businessman" came to her in 1926 as Insull's representative and asked her to buy Insull stock. At that time, she was at the height of her operatic career. She said:

"I felt very honored that Mr. Insull should send his confidential man to me. Everyone looked upon Mr. Insull at the god of American business.

"I went to Mr. Insull's private office and gave him a check for $100,000. He told me I would become very wealthy. Every year after that my husband and I put $50,000 or more, all my earnings, into the stock.

"One year, I don't remember which one, he asked me for more money to invest. I had no money, but told him I had $50,000 in Liberty bonds. He smiled and said: 'Good, good; they are just like gold.' So I invested them, too."

The opera star said she and her husband invested more than $500,000. She came here, on expense money advanced, to appear with a revived civic opera company.

CHARGE INSULL PLOTTED 'FALL'

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull, Sr., supplied the name of the complainant company that started receivership proceedings against the Middle West Utilities Company, was the testimony today of an attorney who represented the Insull companies.

The witness was John E. Wing, member of the law firm which was counsel for Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Wing said he drafted the bills of complaint that threw Insull Utilities Investments, and Middle West Utilities, into receivership.

His testimony was given before Federal Judge Evan A. Evans at a hearing of objections made by Samuel A. Ettelson, representing his wife as a stockholder, to allowances of fees to receivers and their attorneys. Ettelson charged that the receivership was the result of a collusion between Insull and his creditors and that the receivers and their attorneys were hand picked by Insull.

Girl's Suicide Laid To Thwarted Love

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The body of Harriet Gercas, 19, was found early today just outside Soldier Field. Police said the girl apparently had committed suicide. A note found in the pocketbook beside the body and another found at her home told of a thwarted love. Both notes were intended for a soldier friend, the dead girl's sister said.

Christmas Mail Unharmed in Pitcairn Postoffice Fire

down flames in the Salyard apartment building, in which it's located. The water-drenched Pitcairn postoffice today after firemen put

CARRIER D. J. JAMISON SETTING TO RITES MAIL HURRIEDLY CARRIED AWAY FROM FLAMES

Mail hastily carried out of the Pitchairn post office today as firemen fought fire in the building also occupied by several apartments on the upper two floors. These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

Sisters Overcome Saving Yule Mail in Postal Fire

Two sisters, clerks of the Pitcairn postoffice, were overcome by smoke today in saving Christmas packages and other mail from flames that swept the Salyard Apartment building, a three-story brick structure, at 536-538 Broadway avenue, Pitcairn.

Louise Graham, 25, and her sister, Helen, 30, joined in hurriedly placing valuable mail in sacks and boxes while others carried them to a vacant lot in the rear, as smoke filled the postoffice on the first floor. They had succeeded in removing most of the mail when they were overcome and had to be assisted out of the building by fellow-workers. They were sent home.

Fourteen persons ran from apartments on the second and third floors. Two babies were carried out.

Three boxes of dynamite and several boxes of cartridges in the basement of the M. D. Salyard hardware store were taken out by volunteer firemen.

The blaze originated in the basement and was attributed to an overheated furnace or defective wiring by Fire Chief R. I. Crowell, of the Pitcairn Volunteer Fire Department. Trafford firemen aided in subduing the blaze. Crowell placed the damage at $30,000, mostly to the Salyard hardware store.

AGONY OF FEAR TOLD BY WIFE OF RACER

As a part of the campaign to dismiss death and danger on automobile speedways and to make race promoters liable for the care of dependents of those killed on the tracks, there is herewith presented a series of three articles written for the Hearst newspapers by Mrs. Cliff Bergere, wife of one of the best known drivers in the country. Mrs. Bergere tells an impressive, dramatic story of what it means to be the wife of a racing driver.

By MRS. CLIFF BERGERE
Written for Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 18.—Here they come streaking down the stretch—100 miles an hour and more—side by side—fighting for a lead of inches—

The crowd rises and roars.

I shut my eyes and say a quick, silent prayer.

The roar dies down. I look around me. People are breathing heavily. There is a strange light in their eyes. A man gasps:

"That was a close one, all right. Gosh! It looked like a real smashup that time."

He had seen death reach out its clutching hand for the one most beloved by me; had seen my silent little prayer answered; had seen my husband dart through death's fingers once more.

Once more—but how many times more.

WIDOW-IN-WAITING

I am one of the widows-in-waiting—the wife of an automobile racing driver and I am to tell the story of what that means.

Let me describe my experience at Indianapolis; a scene that still haunts me; that may give you some idea of the dread fear that freezes the hearts of the wives of the drivers.

The smell of burning castor oil was in the air; an odor which is to the race track what the smell of grease paint is to the theater. The cars lined up on the track. The one-minute gun sounded and the pacemaker's car was ready to start. On the stroke of 10 they were off. Off to fame, fortune, death or disaster. For 500 miles they must maintain a gruelling speed.

Slowly, surely, Cliff made his way to the front. Fifteenth place, tenth place, seventh place and just when it seemed that nothing could hinder him, something did.

NOVICE IS MENACE

On the track that day was an inexperienced driver. Twice he had been flagged in for erratic driving. He had been warned to stay on the inside of the track and get out of the way of the faster cars.

We—the wives of the drivers—were in a box at the starting line—a tense, silent, fearful little group, each ready to say that quick silent little prayer.

We saw this car go down the straightaway with Cliff 50 feet behind, trying to get by. Woodbury was behind Cliff. He swung to the inside and passed both Cliff and the inexperienced driver.

The novice was about to cut down speed for the turn and as Woodbury passed him he became confused, applied his brakes and swung sharply to the right—into Cliff's car.

The impact flipped his car into the air and it flew over Cliff's head. The driver was thrown out on the track.

I had not seen the accident, for it occurred a half mile from the starting line. But the roar of the crowd told me something had happened.

Everyone was standing up. In a box below me was a man with a pair of binoculars. I begged him:

"What color is the wrecked car?"

Around me I heard voices:

"He is dead."
"His body is on the track."
"He ran over the body."
"Why don't they get it off the track?"

Whose body. I MUST know. The man with the binoculars just looked at me with big, startled eyes. Perhaps he knew who I was. I begged him:

"Please tell me what you see."

TAUNTED FOR FEAR

Out of the confused muttering of the crowd a cruel voice shouted:

"Say, if you're the wife of a racing driver, you should smile until they bring him to you in a coffin."

I should smile until they brought him to me in a coffin!

Well, I was a driver's wife, but I did not smile.

All I could say was:

"Please, tell me. Tell me."

Then—could I believe my eyes?—there was Cliff slowly driving to the pits.

Was that blood on his face? Straining my eyes to see, I started for the pits. Yes, it was blood. I jumped from the grandstand and ran toward him. He was unhurt except for a stone cut on his face and when I had returned to the grandstand he was in the race again.

He finished to win $1,500. But what was that prize money worth compared to the agony I had endured in those horrible moments when I did not know whether he had been killed or maimed for life?

Fess Describes NRA As Sound in Theory

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Terming the National Recovery Act as "sound in theory but difficult in practice," United States Senator Simeon D. Fess, former Republican national chairman, says the United States cannot hope for recovery without "a more orderly program of conservative legislation."

In an address to members of the Young Men's Christian Association yesterday, Fess said the NRA has done nothing except dispense relief.

Conductor Makes Debut as Singer Between Runs

CINCINNATI, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Nat Metzger, a Pullman car conductor, made his debut as a singer between trains here yesterday.

He pulled in from New York at 2:30 p. m., on the Diplomat of the Baltimore and Ohio road, ushered his passengers on their way and scurried to a music studio in a downtown hotel.

There in a rich baritone he sang in his first public recital numbers by English, French, Italian and German composers.

At 9 o'clock he was back in the trainshed, crying "All aboard" for the train back East.

MERGING HOME MAGAZINES

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Announcement was made today by R. E. Berlin, general manager of the International Magazine Company, that Home and Field, one of the Hearst magazines, had purchased the magazine House Beautiful from the Atlantic Monthly Company, of Boston.

The two magazines will be merged with the January, 1934, issue, as House Beautiful combined with Home and Field. Publication offices will continue at 572 Madison avenue, New York City, the present offices of Home and Field. Stewart Beach, editor of Home and Field, will remain as editor.

Both publications are directed toward the interests of the home, covering architecture, interior decoration and furnishing, and gardening.

Home and Field began publication in January, 1930. House Beautiful was founded in 1896 and purchased by the Atlantic Monthly Company 18 years ago, at which time its publication offices were moved from New York to Boston.

NOTED GOTHAM RECTOR DIES

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Rev. William Stephen Rainsford, 83, militant former rector of fashionable St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church here, died of pleurisy last night at Roosevelt Hospital.

The late J. Pierpont Morgan was responsible for Mr. Rainsford's ministry in New York. He used his influence to have the rector called here from Toronto.

Later, the two disagreed over church policies, but the rector had his way. He and Morgan were fast friends.

The rector threw open the doors of the church to all who would enter. He insisted seats be free. At times, as a consequence, even Morgan had difficulty finding a seat.

Ex-Fireman Saves 3, Perishes in Flames

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—A court officer and former fireman, Oscar Baird, was burned to death in his home after rescuing his wife and two sons. He was 52.

Twice he plunged back into their fire-swept apartment yesterday to lead the others to safety. Then, overcome by smoke, he collapsed and perished before firemen could reach him.

Princess Mdvani Sails, But It's Not Barbara

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—With 22 pieces of luggage and two maids, Princess Alexis Mdivani sailed on the Ile de France Saturday. The name of the sailing list caused a flurry among ship news men, who thought they saw in it a crash of the story-book romance of Barbara Hutton, Woolworth heiress.

The mystery was solved when reporters were admitted to the princess' suite, and greeted by the former Louise Van Alen, of Newport, who divorced Prince Alexis, husband of Barbara, last year.

By permission of the Dutch court which granted the divorce, Miss Van Alen can continue to call herself Princess Mdivani.

PRIEST WARNS ON BIRTH RATE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Recurrent economic problems attendant upon a declining birth rate were forecast yesterday by Monsignor John A. Ryan, of the Catholic University of America, Washington, D. C., in an address at the Cleveland Community Religious Hour, unless America experiences a revival of religion.

He cited statistics intended to show that the birth rate in large cities had failed to maintain the population level since 1922 by approximately 25 per cent, that it had failed in smaller cities by from 10 to 15 per cent, and that the deficiency was between 2 and 4 per cent for the nation, adding:

"Authorities estimate that the present decline will make our population stationary some time between 1945 and 1960, when it should reach a total of approximately 150,000,000. It should remain stationary for about a decade, when a decrease in the total will begin."

2 Die as Cars Run Wild at Coke Plant

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 18.—Two men were killed when a trip of cars ran away in the Rosedale coke plant of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, here, late last night. Peter Zanghi, 50, and Thomas J. Ferguson, 33, Negro, were working with three others unloading a car of coal when the runaway cars crashed into it. Both men were thrown through the hopper onto the rails.

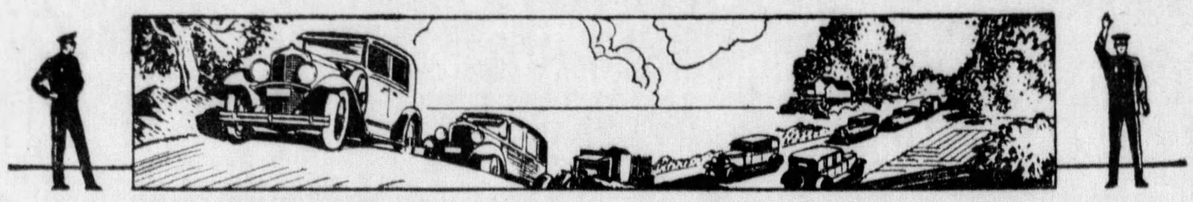
THE NEW LAW
goes into effect Monday, January 1st!



UNDER THIS LAW AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE GIVES YOU TWO-FOLD PROTECTION:

1 Protection against suspension of your driving license and car registration, under this law.

2 Protection against claims and judgments for injury, death or property damage.

DO YOU realize the additional responsibility placed upon you as a driver and owner by the new Pennsylvania Uniform Automobile Liability Security Act?

Under this law you may be barred from the roads as a driver, or owner of an automobile, until you give proof of financial responsibility:

1. If you violate certain motor vehicle laws.

2. If you fail to satisfy—within 15 days—a final judgment, in excess of $200, rendered against you for damages on account of personal injury or death, or because of damage to the property of others, arising from the operation of a motor vehicle by you, your agent, or any other person with your consent.

The law further provides that if you are barred from the roads for failure to pay such a judgment, your registration certificate and driver's license will not be reinstated until you satisfy the judgment and furnish evidence of future financial responsibility.

3. If, when you next apply for a driver's license, you have had two or more accidents with damages totalling $200 or more within the twelve months preceding application, such application may be denied until you show proof of future financial responsibility.

The minimum amount of financial responsibility required is as follows: $5,000 for injury to, or death of, one person; $10,000 for injury to, or death of, two or more persons, and $1,000 for damage to the property of others.

The best—and most economical—way to provide financial responsibility is a certificate of insurance from an insurance company licensed to do business in Pennsylvania.

Right now is the time to buy good Automobile Liability Insurance . . . before an accident occurs! Right now is the time to provide yourself with adequate proof of financial responsibility . . . for no one can tell at what moment the necessity for showing such proof may arise.

The Travelers writes more Automobile Insurance than any other company, and protects more than 500,000 automobile owners.

The Travelers has 1,265 salaried employees in 194 main claim offices strategically located in this country and Canada to render prompt service wherever you travel.

In 1932 alone, The Travelers paid $9,150,766.61 to its Pennsylvania policyholders!

What a Travelers Policy Does for You

1. Protects you against damage claims arising out of the death or injury of another person, or out of the damage to his property caused by your automobile.

2. Investigates the accident and determines who was to blame.

3. Clears your name if you were not responsible.

4. Settles the claim amicably, out of court, whenever possible.

5. Acts in your defense if a fraudulent, exaggerated or unjust claim makes court action imperative.

6. Pays court costs and legal fees.

7. Pays the award, if one is rendered, up to the limits of your policy.

8. Protects, up to the limits of your policy, everything you own against being seized, sold or attached to satisfy a damage judgment arising out of an automobile accident.

9. A Travelers policy will meet all requirements of Financial Responsibility Laws in all other states in the United States and the Provinces of Canada, where financial responsibility may be met by a certificate of insurance.

CHILD JOB CURB DOOMED IN STATE

is in the Senate Judiciary General Committee, of which Senator Charles H. Ealy, of Somerset, is chairman.

CHILD LABOR 'TRICK'

"Strenous opposition" has arisen to the child labor amendment, the Republican Representatives' spokesman said. But the death of this proposal is to be accomplished, according to organization plans, through a system which will permit all members to say they voted for it.

The House has passed a resolution by Mrs. Lillith Wilson, Berks, for ratification. The Senate tonight will pass a resolution by Senator Samuel Salus, Philadelphia, to the same effect. The plan is to bury the House bill in a Senate committee and the Salus bill in a House committee.

The same system was tried in 1929 on bills curbing the coal and iron police, but was frustrated when the late Senator M. G. Leslie forced the Musmanno House bill from Senate committee. In self defense, the organization brought from a House committee the Senate bill of Senator William D. Mansfield, and both were passed. Former Gov. John S. Fisher signed the Mansfield bill.

MUSMANNO IN BATTLE

Judge M. A. Musmanno, of the Allegheny County Court, plans to ask whatever Senate committee receives the Kane coal and iron police bill to report it out for a vote. He will be in Harrisburg tonight. The bill passed the House Thursday after the Senate had adjourned, and it is unknown what Senate committee will get it.

Though the housing bills have been amended to confer condemnation through the right of eminent domain on Common Pleas Courts rather than a state board, Republican organization leaders today planned to kill them, as was done in the last regular session.

The Harris permanent registration bill is in the House Elections Committee, having passed the Senate. It was this committee which emasculated a similar measure last session to such an extent that Gov. Pinchot vetoed it at the request of its sponsor.

There was some discussion today that an effort might be made to discharge the committee if the bill is not reported at tonight's session.

Pinchot Threatens Senate On Five P. S. C. Nominees

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Pennsylvania's legislators swing tonight into what they hope is the final week of the special session, but threatening complications cast forbidding shadows across their path.

Both branches are pledged to adjourn sine die at noon, Thursday, but Gov. Pinchot says he will keep the Senate in session unless it acts beforehand on confirmation of his five nominees to the Public Service Commission.

STATE PRISON DEPARTMENT PROPOSED

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—Declaring other states had "outdistanced Pennsylvania in developing a state penological program," Gov. Gifford Pinchot's committee investigating the recent riots at Eastern Penitentiary, Philadelphia, today submitted a lengthy report featured by a recommendation for creation of a state department of corrections.

The committee recommended the department be headed by an official of cabinet rank with powers and functions to take over all administrative work of the state's penal system with a "mandate laid upon it to develop a program of individual treatment."

Because of a wide variance of opinion among both prisoners and others questioned, the committee failed to reach any decision on placing of blame for recent riots at Cherry Hill Prison. The report, however, discussed the most important complaints at length, adding:

"It is extremely difficult, in fact impossible, to determine the exact effect produced by each of the factors enumerated in bringing about riots. Some no doubt contributed very little, but others were extremely influential. Taken together they constituted the powder which was finally set off."

In releasing the report, Gov. Pinchot issued a statement characterizing the findings as a "sane, sensible, scientific statement of facts together with specific recommendations for improving and removing the condition that resulted in the recent riots."

Gov. Pinchot pledged that everything this administration can properly do to carry out these recommendations will be done, and and done immediately."

WOMAN FACES GALLOWS

FRANKLINTON, La., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Allie Mae Purvis, 38-year-old grandmother, today faced death on the gallows for allegedly bribing her Negro yard boy to push her husband into a river on a fishing trip and drown him.

A jury which received the case near midnight Saturday brought in a verdict of guilty as charged yesterday. The verdict automatically carries the death penalty.

The Negro servant, Loys Richardson, said in an alleged confession that Mrs. Purvis promised him a new suit and a pair of shoes to "get rid of her husband." He is also charged with murder, but has not yet been tried.

Attorneys for Mrs. Purvis announced that an appeal would be taken to the State Supreme Court.

DAMAGES BALK BOQUET ROAD

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—Damages coincident to widening Bouquet road leading into Tarentum are prohibitive and are thwarting any effort to improve this highway, secretary of highways Samuel S. Lewis said today. He said:

"The damages, estimated at $450,000 by Allegheny County Commissioners must be paid by the county commissioners and the Borough of Tarentum, before the highway department can plan to widen the road."

The highway department, Lewis asserted, is ready to make the necessary improvements as soon as some settlement is reached on the property damage phase.

The West Penn railways, whose tracks run parallel to the highway, is reported asking $200,000 for its right-of-way.

Should Modern Brides Have Business Experience?

Should brides have jobs . . . and be expected to furnish pay checks, as well as "love and kisses?"

And are their boy friends justified in refusing to marry them, in case they haven't, or won't?

"Yes!" said J. C., in answer to all three questions.

J. C. himself was considering marriage. She was a lovely girl—pretty, smart, sweet, devoted. But there was one drawback—

She was "just a home-body!"—could give no financial help.

Wild about him, she was—ready to cook and sew, scrub and iron, raise a dozen babies if need be.

"But that isn't enough qualification for a wife in these times," said J. C. sadly. "It's too great a risk for a young fellow to take . . . marrying a helpless girl like that! I love her, but I'm afraid we could never make a go of it. I'll have to get a girl who can be counted on to do her share financially."

Didn't the Gang agree with him? We asked 'em. Here's one of the answers. Do you like sizzlers? Then don the good old gas mask—and listen in!

Dear Miss Robinson:—

Just a few remarks to J. C., who thinks it's risky for a young man to marry a girl unless she can promise to help support him.

If you're a sample of the bridegrooms of today, J. C., I'm ashamed to belong to your generation. And I certainly pity the wife you do get.

You're not smart or modern. You're just a lazy, selfish coward, who wants all the fun of marriage without its responsibilities. A "risk" indeed! It's the girl who'll be taking the risk, and not you, if you marry!

DIFFERENT OPINIONS

Have you ever thought of the girl's side of the case? Perhaps you think that the modern girl risks nothing, when she gives up her own independence and freedom and assumes the possibility of motherhood, with the chance of an unemployed husband and father who may fail her in her hour of worst need.

If you think life is harder for the modern husband, how about life for the modern wife, who exchanges all her new-found liberty for old-fashioned drudgery, and usually does it willingly and gladly?

Perhaps you don't realize that a wife "does anything" or "contributes anything" to the family, when she manages the home, bears and raises the children and does all the chores. Yet you want her to promise to take care of you, too, before you marry her! You ought to be ashamed of yourself. You're a disgrace to your sex!

SAM FELTON.

That's telling 'em, isn't it? And probably you're agreeing with Sam. But here's a correspondent who doesn't, and, oddly enough, it's a girl!

Dear Miss Robinson:

I suppose a great many people will criticize Mr. J. C. sharply for feeling the way he does about modern marriage. But personally, I think he is very sensible—and I know it took a lot of courage to say what he did, in the face of all those who will sneer at him.

Modern marriage is a terrible risk, for both a man and a woman. And any intelligent girl would appreciate his reasons for wanting a trained wife, with practical experience, instead of the old-fashioned kind who was left helpless if her husband fell sick or died.

FAVORS PROFESSION

If a wife has no children, it is much safer for her to be working than staying idle. There isn't enough work in any modern apartment to keep a childless woman busy, and you know the old saying about the "devil will find mischief, still for idle hands to do." And if a woman has children, she certainly needs a profession to fall back on, for their sake, in case anything happens to her husband.

So I, for one, believe that a modern woman, as well as a modern man, needs practical training. And if I were a young man seeking a wife, I would certainly want one who had business experience, and a job if possible.

ESTELLE ARNOLD.

Both sides of story. Now that you've read them, what's your verdict?

Should—or shouldn't—a modern bride have business experience and a job?

Is—or isn't—the modern husband taking a dangerous risk, if he marries an "old-fashioned home-body" who knows nothing of business life?

And if you were a modern man, which sort of wife would you seek?

Women Guard Secrets of Loves and Friendships, Believes Fay King

By FAY KING

A woman, once a famous beauty, about whom there were interesting rumors, was asked recently if she intended to write her memoirs.

Her answer was emphatically "no," and her reason that one could not write of certain matters, and the rest would be just another useless book.

Countless men have left the most intimate memoirs, but few women have left even letters to betray the devotion of great men.

"You are asking me about the man and I remember only the Emperor," said one of Napoleon's loves after his death.

A woman's first thought is to protect herself and those of whom she is fond.

What wouldn't collectors and historians give for letters women have destroyed!

But women have outwitted them!

Madge Enlists the Aid of Young People

Marion's eyes were fairly dancing as she held me off, after impetuously embracing me, and asked if she should summon Carolyn and Ronald and Bob at once, so that I might tell them what service I wished of them when Avis Arlen should arrive at the farm house.

"Yes," I told her, smiling at her pretty enthusiasm. "Have them come to my little study off the library at once. I'll be there as soon as I have arranged about meeting Avis at Patchogue."

"You couldn't let the four of us meet her?" Marion asked, with mischief in her eyes. "I'll bet we'd have her tamed by the time we got her here. She'd be so scared she wouldn't be able to open her trap for a week."

"She would never arrive here," I retorted. "Instead, we grown-ups would have a hurry call to a hospital, if not a morgue. No, no, my dear, I can't let you go for Avis, but you can help me greatly when she gets here. So run along and get the others."

"On the wings of ta-ta-ta-ta I fly," Marion paraphrased it with an impudent moue at me, as she danced over to Ronald, who had been watching her with adoring eyes.

"Come along, lad," she adjured him. "We are going to enlist for the duration of the war, and we have to pick up the rest of the recruits."

SEEKS ADVICE

She tucked her hand into the curve of his arm and rushed him across the living room, while I went in search of Lillian, finding her and Harry in a corner of the library. Lillian's keen eyes met mine comprehendingly.

"May I serve you, madam?" she asked, rising in the fashion of an attendant in a candy shop.

"You may," I told her, laughing in spite of my uneasiness. "I want advice, and plenty of it."

"You've come to the source of all wisdom," Harry Underwood drawled lazily. "If Lil's somewhat limited intellect falls down, be assured that mine will function in your service, willingly, nay, cheerfully."

"That's the thing Harry does best—give advice," his wife said with a comradely grin. "Whether anybody can understand it or follow it—that's a pony of another color, probably piebald."

"Never mind the bouquets," her big husband said. "Let the Lady Fair get what's eating her offen her chest."

"I can tell you in very few words," I said. "Avis Arlen is at Patchogue, waiting for someone to come after her and drive her out here. She suggested that Noel be the gallant cavalier."

"Well! I'll be—" Harry Underwood began.

"Never mind prophesying a sure thing," his wife cut in. "What did you tell her, Madge?"

"I pretended the telephone had gone bad," I said, "and said only one thing over and over—that she was to stay at the station until someone came for her. When she finally answered 'Yes,' I hung up the receiver."

MADGE'S TASK

Lillian sprang to her feet, spread her skirts and swept me a low court bow.

"Lady, take my watch and bracelets," she intoned. "But how you can keep your calm face is more than I can tell. I know I shall bite that girl when she gets here. I feel the urge in my back teeth.

"Have you thought of anybody to meet her?" she asked me.

"No," I answered slowly, "except that it will have to be some of us older people. The youngsters detest her so heartily that I am afraid to have them go."

"I don't blame you," Lillian said. "But, darling, much as I hate to say it, there's only one person who can handle that young woman, and that is yourself. When will you have to start?"

"Almost at once."

"And it is almost dinner time, and you're hostess and Dicky's host. Of course he'll want to go with you, but you can imagine his mother at this last dinner before Mary's marriage if Dicky isn't presiding. Of course, it isn't strictly family, with the Brixtons and Bob here, but she's going to raise ructions, nevertheless, unless—you'll have to tell her just what Avis Arlen is trying to do."

"Oh, no!" The words escaped me involuntarily.

"Oh, yes!" Lillian said firmly. "Do you see any other way out?"

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

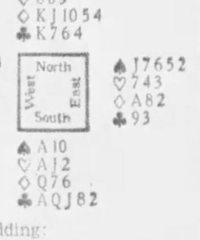
Playing a Notrump Contract

There is no more generally common mistake made by Bridge players than the tendency to play a great number of hands at notrump on the theory that it is easier to take nine tricks than 10 or 11. There is no objection whatever to the play of hands at a notrump contract, but, generally speaking, such a contract should only be reached when the other avenues to game have been explored and the fact demonstrated by the partners in the bidding that suits in which adversaries hold length are at least doubly stopped. This, of course, is especially true when the long suits in the closed hand and Dummy are not solid and hence require establishment.

Duplicate Bridge is a great test of theories, and comparative results attained on any board may be used to point out errors in bidding and thus possibly prevent their recurrence.

The hand below, played in a recent Duplicate game in New York City, is an example of preferring a minor suit game to notrump because the bidding disclosed that the North and South players held but a single stopper in the long spade suit bid by the opponents.

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



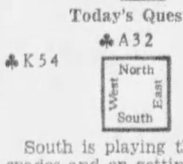
The bidding:

South	West	North	East
			Pass
1 ♣	1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♠
2 N T	Pass	3 ◇	Pass
5 ♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

The bidding above is both precise and correct. South, after North supports his Opening club bid, should offer his partner an opportunity to play in the shorter game—namely, notrump—but North, with a singleton in the adversely bid suit, would be extremely unwise to permit this without further divulging his hand pattern to his partner. Therefore, North's response of three diamonds to the bid of two notrump is quite correct and, with this further information, South also acted wisely in contracting at once for game in clubs.

The play of the hand, while simple, requires care. West's Opening lead was the heart King, and now, if South should mistakenly win this trick, the contract of five clubs must be defeated. The proper procedure is to refuse to win the first heart. This play, known as the Bath Coup, effectually prevents West from continuing the heart suit and now, regardless of the suit to which he may shift, South can draw the adverse trumps, drive out the diamond Ace and fulfill his contract of five clubs.

Today's Question



South is playing the hand in spades and on getting in at the first trick leads the Queen of clubs. What card should West play, and why?

Answer: West should not cover the Queen. If South is a reasonable player he must hold the Knave as well. By covering the first round West can therefore gain nothing, and will lose if South holds Queen-Knave-nine and finesses the nine on a lead of the second round from North. Of course, if South follows with the Knave, West must cover.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Emotion Is a Factor in Digestion

Emotion is an important factor in cases of nervous indigestion. Anger, hate, fear, or excitement of any kind, may be the contributing cause to discomfort after eating. Unless a person is absolutely calm before and after eating, indigestion will probably result.

Dr. Copeland

When one becomes excited, the muscles of the stomach "tighten up" to such an extent that digestion ceases for a time. Just how long the condition will last depends on the intensity of the emotion. Due to this peculiarity some excitable persons tend to become constipated. Others under strain have a reversal of the functions of the digestive system and are subject to vomiting spells.

Very few are absolutely immune to nervous indigestion. There are some who show no signs of disturbance when things go wrong, but the majority, unfortunately, are upset even by trivial things. Babies are probably more affected by this ailment than are adults.

In babies fright is often the cause of acute indigestion. The sudden sight of a dog or a cat, or of a person who has frightened the child before, will sometimes throw the infant into a state of high tension. It will cry and yell and if it has just eaten does not retain the food. The cause of the outburst must be removed at once and the child quieted. Then after a sleep of an hour or so the youngster will have forgotten the incident and be ready to devour anything placed before it.

Even the young boy or girl who "moons" around the house and refuses to eat, may not be in the proper state of mind to digest food. Being emotionally wrought up by an affair of "puppy love," or something of a similar nature, may cause nervous indigestion.

Do not treat such young persons harshly. This will only tend to make them worse. If left alone they will soon forget their troubles and raid the kitchen in search of food.

Older people should be most careful. They usually have more worries, work harder and sometimes play harder than youngsters. They forget that with increasing years the human body is less and less able to take care of even the more simple disorders.

There is no need to worry if you follow a few simple rules. Before eating you must give yourself mental preparation for the meal. Do not hurry. Put aside your angry feelings, seek congenial company in pleasant surroundings and you probably will never be bothered with nervous indigestion.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Luncheon Without a Maid

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to have a bridge luncheon in a few weeks and I would like some advice about serving. I will have to do the serving myself.

1—I am going to have tomato juice cocktails, plate lunch, biscuits, baked apples and coffee. Will you please suggest some other kinds of cocktails or is tomato juice cocktails all right for lunch?

2—Should I serve the tomato juice at the table, then remove the cocktail glasses and plates and serve the luncheon plate?

A.

1—Tomato juice cocktails are an excellent choice of cocktails for the first course of your luncheon, for most people enjoy them. Clam juice cocktails are often served, but I have noticed that not so many people like this kind of cocktail as like tomato juice cocktail. Sometimes, too, half and half is served, half tomato juice and half clam juice. Sometimes, too, fruit juice cocktail, such as the popular pineapple juice.

2—Often, before luncheon, the tomato juice cocktails are served in the living-room, or we may serve a choice of tomato juice cocktails or small glasses of orange juice. With these are served a simple canape, or the simplest of crackers, toasted (and buttered) saltines or butter-thin crackers. Usually, however, the tomato juice cocktail is served at the table, as the first course. The cocktail glass must be served on an underplate, and after this first course, the plate and the glass are removed together. If a service plate is used, this service of glass and under-plate is removed with the service plate.

MERCY SLAYER KILLS MOTHER AND SELF

International News Service.

WALLINGTON, N. J., Dec. 18.—"He may have done wrong in the eyes of the law.

"But in the eyes of God, who knows the devotion he gave mother, he is forgiven."

So the four brothers and two sisters of 23-year-old George Dolack today sorrowfully condoned his "mercy killing" of their aged, bed-ridden mother.

With one bullet from a .22-caliber rifle he bought for $5.90, Dolack ended the suffering and poverty his mother had endured for several years and with a second he ended his own life, convinced he had "done the best thing for her."

TELL OF SUFFERING

Mrs. Dolack had suffered agonizing pain from asthma in recent years, members of her family said.

Since her husband was killed in an explosion in a munitions factory in 1914, the family fortunes had been at low ebb. Seeking to keep her little home and provide for her seven children, Mrs. Dolack worked herself to frailty.

George, youngest of the children, had been the chief support of his mother and an unmarried sister for several years. His heart wrung by his mother's illness, he had often told the other children she "would be better off dead."

Friday he purchased the rifle, his mind made up to put an end to his mother's pain and his own grief. He spent another 20 cents for cartridges. He waited for a day and a night, to steel himself for his effort.

Late Saturday night he came to the little frame cottage where he lived with the mother and sister. Mrs. Dolack was reading her Bible.

FIRES FATAL SHOTS

The son stepped through the doorway and fired one shot. The bullet struck Mrs. Dolack in the heart. Instantly, George turned the gun on himself and sent a bullet crashing into his temple.

Rushed to a hospital, where he lay semi-conscious for nearly 24 hours before he died, George revealed to police his firm conviction he had "acted as God would want me." He gasped:

"She was dying and it tore my heart to see her suffer so. There was nothing to eat for her and for all the seven children she had taken care of since father was killed. She often told me we would be better off dead. I believed she was right.

"That's why I shot her. It was better for her. And that's why I shot myself. All I want now is to die."

FORGER GETS 8 TO 16 YEARS

Harry E. Swiger, 34, of 350 Kaercher street, was sentenced to from eight to 16 years in the Western Penitentiary today by Judge Sylvester J. Snee in Criminal Court after he pleaded guilty to forging 47 checks totaling about $700.

Swiger, who admitted he served a year and a half in Washington County for embezzlement and part of a five-year term in West Virginia for forgery, said that he was out of work and funds.

Judge Snee asked his wife, who was in court:

"Has this man supported you?"

"He didn't have much chance, judge. We'd been married only four days when he was arrested November 16."

Turning to the defendant, Judge Snee said:

"Apparently you can't resist the impulse to forge checks, in spite of the fact that you've served two sentences for it. For that reason I shall impose a heavy sentence."

Al Smith Honored As Catholic Leader

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Education of Catholic children in Catholic schools was urged last night by Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith in his speech of acceptance of a medal from St. Bonaventure's College, Alleghany, N. Y., as the layman who had performed the great "Catholic Action" in the year. Smith said:

"Catholic action to my mind, means also that we support to the last degree our Catholic schools. The place to educate Catholic children is in a Catholic school."

SALES TAX, RUM LEVY TO BALK GANGS URGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Serious consideration of a sales tax plus phraseology in the law giving President Roosevelt the right to raise or lower liquor taxes to stamp out bootleggers was urged upon Congress today by the National Association of Manufacturers.

James A. Emery, general counsel for the association, warned the House Ways and Means Committee that its sub-committee recommendations showed "a startling tendency toward predicating income taxes on gross, rather than net incomes." Then he said:

"Entering a fourth fiscal year of deficit and enlarging public debt, we urge, in the face of the demonstrated unreliability of income taxation as a major source of income, the serious consideration of a gross federal sales tax with exceptions for food, clothing and medicine, as a substitute for the many existing special sales taxes and the emergency levies' repeal.

BACK PROPER RUM LEVY

"We urge a levy on fermented liquor and spirits at such rates, having in mind state and local taxation, as will assure additional reliable revenue without encouraging illicit competition. To afford opportunity for a trial, particularly to determine the most workable rate for spirits, we suggest the committee might consider the adoption of a definite Congressional standard of taxation which would permit an administrative finding of fact by which the rate could be flexibly adapted to experience."

The manufacturers' counsel also asked application of the electrical energy tax to public plants; elimination of governmental competition with private business; rejection of the recommendation to decrease "25 per cent over a three-year period" the present depreciation and depletion allowance, and disapproval of the proposal that foreign income taxes not be credited against domestic levies.

CONSOLIDATED TAX HIT

A majority of the House Ways and Means Committee today indicated in their questioning of witnesses on the proposed general revenue bill that they were determined to eliminate consolidated income tax returns by corporations.

Representative Sam Hill (Dem.), of Washington, chairman of the sub-committee that made the proposal, demanded of Emery:

"Don't you think that each corporation should stand on its own feet?"

"It will increase the cost to the taxpayer."

"It is fundamentally sound. According to its gain as a business enterprise, each corporation should pay its tax separately."

It was contended the reason "corporations continue to file consolidated returns," despite the 14¾ per cent tax as against the 13¾ per cent for single corporations, was because "it reduced the amount of taxes they have to pay."

SEES CHEAPER, BETTER RUM

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—Reduced prices for liquor and an improved quality were promised today by Dr. James O. Doran, supervisor of the Distilled Spirits Code Authority, as he answered criticism of the present status of the liquor business.

Doran attributed the rather low quality of many brands as due to confusion, misunderstanding and the great demand rather than the greed on the part of producers and distillers. Doran said:

"The present confusion will be only temporary. The upset condition is readily understood when, despite some measures of preparation, there was an enormous demand suddenly created with the ratification by Utah.

"All of these questions will work themselves out. I refer especially to price and quality."

WARNS AGAINST WINE 'LEGGER

A plague of wine bootleggers which will surpass the activities of the prohibition bootlegger, today was predicted by Dr. Samuel B. Ross, of Carnegie Institute of Technology, authority on foreign wines. The wine bootlegger will work secretly and will be more elusive than the outlawed bootlegger, Dr. Ross said. Since there will be no demand for watered wines, he will be more of a parasite than the old-time bootlegger, who at least gave his customers what they wished.

Citing that France employs a large force of police to safeguard lovers of good wine, he said:

"A similar force will have to be set up in America unless the government is to close its eyes to an illegitimate trade which will foist 20-cent Burgundy table wines on American buyers for $3 a quart under revered names."

Chain Store Tax Upheld by Court

DETROIT, Dec. 18.—(INS.)—Michigan's chain store tax was upheld today in an opinion given by Judge Robert M. Toms, of Circuit Court.

The law, passed by the last Legislature, provides for levies ranging from $10 each for the second and third stores to $250 for each store in excess of 25.

Battle Brewing On 'Nightmare' Liquor Job Test

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Protests over the type of examinations given some 35,000 applicants for state liquor store jobs poured into the capitol today to be aired in the Legislature.

The examinations were held in 35 cities Saturday and barely were completed before state officials and legislators began receiving complaints.

The examinations were assailed as a "nightmare" by State Senator John W. Howell in Scranton, who added:

"Believe me there will be plenty done around Harrisburg this week when the legislators get back to their jobs and, in my opinion, they should rock the commonwealth."

TYPE OF QUESTIONS HIT

The objections revolved principally around the type of questions asked. For example:

"A boy's father's father is what relation to him? 1—Uncle; 2—Cousin; 3—Grandfather; 4—Brother; 5—Father."

The capitol was asking today what was meant by "him" in the original question. Does "him" mean the boy? Or does it refer to his father?

Then there was this one:

"2, 4, 6, 8, 10, 11. What numberal is wrong? What should it be?"

Some contended none of the numerals is "wrong." One number—11—is out of place in the 2-4-6-8-10 sequence and if that is what the question intended to bring out, the answer would be that "11" is out of place and it should be "12."

STATE LIQUOR PRICES LISTED

ORDERS NOW PLACED

These orders, the board explained, are based on orders already placed for delivery as soon as warehouse locations have been chosen by the board.

These warehouses already have been selected in Pittsburgh and Erie.

No prices were announced for wines other than champagne, cordials, brandies and rum.

To date the board has licensed 3,319 places to sell liquor by the glass. Until the stores open, these places are allowed to sell bottled goods. Some 500 of them are in Allegheny County.

The board turned down 61 applications for liquor licenses.

The board said the places either have been involved in violations of the prohibition laws or else did not meet specifications of the law. Those refused included:

C. R. Schaum and Richard Dummings, North Side, Pittsburgh; Parlak Cafe, Braddock; Grill Inn, New Eagle; Yellow House Restaurant, Robison Township; Union Beer and Sandwich Shoppe, Duquesne; Tellinger Lunchroom, McKeesport; Mike Holoka Restaurant, Conemaugh Township; Siek's Restaurant, Washington; Louis and Anna Boskovic, Pittsburgh; John Hornak Beer Parlor, McKeesport; Paul Stofesky, Duquesne; Joseph Yagatich, Pittsburgh; German Beneficial Union, District 56, New Castle; Old Well Cafe, Pittsburgh; John's Restaurant, Pittsburgh; Somerset House, Meyersdale; Stanley's Restaurant, Monessen; Bernardo Ferreris, Arnold.

Blended Whiskies Pure, Doran Shows

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—(AP.)—Blended whisky was described today by Dr. James M. Doran, distillers' spokesman, as a "product of high purity." Explaining there had been "widespread misunderstanding" as to the constituents of blended whiskies, Doran said use of the term "alcohol" in connection with the blends is a misnomer. He said:

"No ordinary alcohol is used in these blends. Neutral middle rum spirits, which is the purest distillate obtainable, is used for blending."

$9,111,173 RUM TAX IN 12 DAYS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The government collected $9,111,173 in liquor taxes during the first 12 days of December.

The Internal Revenue Bureau said today that $3,174,338 was derived from stamp taxes on distilled spirits and wines. Another $3,565,180 was collected on beer of more than 3.2 per cent.

While repeal did not become effectvie until December 5, officials explained that heavy stamp sales began December 1 in anticipation of the day, and consequently in gauging the first returns, officials took the days immediately preceding repeal.

Other taxes included in the total were $2,126,792 on 3.2 beer, $191,148 on retail liquor licenses, $49,564 on wholesale licenses, and $4,100 on rectifiers.

The tax on beer exceeding 3.2 per cent is $6 a barrel, while that on 3.2 beer is $5 a barrel.

COURT TO RULE ON DRY CASES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The Supreme Court today set for hearing on January 15 a test case brought by the government to determine whether pending litigation, charging violations of the national prohibition law, can be prosecuted or must be dismissed.

Every possible effort will be made by the high court to expedite its decision.

There are pending in Federal District courts throughout the country thousands of indictments charging prohibition violations.

The case set for hearing was against Byrum Gibson and Claude Chambers, charged with conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition law in Rockingham County, N. C.

Jane Addams Raps U. S. 'Self-Righteousness'

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The recently-repealed prohibition law was spawned by "national self-righteousness," Miss Jane Addams, 73-year-old sociologist, told the Sunday Evening Club last night.

The same attitude was responsible for American tariff walls, neglect of the welfare of immigrants and policies on war debts and disarmament, Miss Addams said, as she traced it back to religious sects which settled the Atlantic coast "and were naturally convinced they bore witness of the highest truth and were therefore the chosen people."

She said:

"Historic manifestation of the spirit of superiority so easily turned into self-righteousness may be discovered as early as 1830 in a national attitude toward European immigrants, who formed the bulk of the wage-earning population.

"As our cities developed overcrowded tenements, sweating systems, a high infant death rate and many another familiar aspect of hastily organized and unregulated industry became associated in the public mind with the immigrant."

This attitude led to the formulation and passing of the prohibition law, she said. She continued:

"Because the simon-pure American did make an exception of himself—what was good for the immigrant was not necessarily good for him—he exempted himself from laws which he would like to see enforced upon others."

ORANGE MARMALADE BREAD

One-half cup water.
One cup milk.
Two tablespoons shortening.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
One cake compressed yeast.
One-half cup lukewarm water.
Four and one-half cups flour.
Three-fourths cup thick orange marmalade.

Heat water and milk to boiling point. Pour over shortening and salt in mixing bowl. Mix crumbled yeast with lukewarm water. Add to first mixture after it has cooled. Add enough sifted flour to make a stiff batter. Beat until smooth. Add marmalade which has been stirred with egg yolk until well blended. Add remaining flour until stiff enough to handle easily on floured board. Turn out and knead until dough is smooth and soft. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in bulk (about three hours). Knead again on floured board, enough to break down the dough and shape it in a greased bread pan. Cover and let rise until double in bulk (about one and one-half hours). Bake in moderately hot oven until firm and brown. About one hour.

MISS SIBYLLA NAISMITH,
6705 Thomas boulevard.

CABBAGE CAKE

One large head cabbage.
One pound ground beef.
One pound ground pork.
One tablespoon of salt.
Pepper.

Separate all the leaves of the cabbage by cutting out the veins. Put into large pot and cover with cold water, add teaspoon of salt and a little pepper. Boil 10 minutes, drain and save liquid. For filling, mix the pound of ground beef and the pound of ground pork, one egg, teaspoon of salt, pepper and a small onion, and three slices of bread which were softened in water. Mix thoroughly. Use a plate that will fit into cooking pot in which the cabbage has been boiled and place a layer of cabbage on the plate followed by a layer of the meat; another layer of cabbage, of meat, and then another layer of cabbage. Each layer should be about one inch thick. Use a piece of cheesecloth about 18 inches square. Tie it around the cake and plate securely in order to preserve the cake form when boiling it. Place it back in the pot in which the cabbage leaves were boiled. Boil for one hour. After the cloth is removed you will have a cake different from any you have ever had before, and a very inexpensive meat dish combined with a vegetable. This is very good served with mash potatoes.

A sauce may be made by placing a spoonful of butter blended with a tablespoon of flour, a little salt and pepper and two cups of the liquid from the cabbage. A dash of nutmeg may be added according to taste.

MISS LOUISE C. MOSSO,
Irwin.

One lemon rind, chopped fine, or
One small bottle lemon extract.

Beat the above, except farina, together well. Place on fire and stir it occasionally. When it reaches the boiling point (do not let boil) stir in the farina gradually, stirring it constantly so it does not form in lumps. Cook until it loosens itself from the sides of the pan, turn out on a buttered dish, and smooth out. Brush top with a small amount of butter or olive oil. When cold cut in diamond shaped pieces, and dip in egg white, slightly beaten, and then in cracker meal and fry in butter. A little olive oil may be added to the butter when frying. Sprinkle top with sugar. These are delicious either warm or cold.

MRS. S. C. MAURICE,
Clarksville.

CHICKEN ROLL WITH CREAM SAUCE

Prepare a short biscuit dough, roll it into a rectangular sheet and spread over it two cups of finely chopped boiled chicken moistened with a nicely seasoned white sauce which may be made in part from the liquid left from boiling the chicken. Roll the dough up securely like a jelly roll, brush with milk and bake in a hot oven. Serve with a white sauce to which a few canned mushrooms or a teaspoon chopped parsley have been added. Buttered peas make a nice accompaniment to the rolls.

MISS M. V. FRIEDMAN,
Apt. No. 4, 5641 Phillips avenue.

CHOCOLATE CAKE WITH FRUIT FILLING

Four squares of bitter chocolate.
Three tablespoonfuls of sugar.
One-fourth cupful of boiling water.
One-half cupful of shortening.
One and one-half cupfuls of sugar.
Three eggs.
One teaspoonful of vanilla.
Two cupfuls of cake flour.
Two teaspoonfuls of baking powder.
One-half teaspoonful of salt.
One-half cupful of milk.

Cut the chocolate into small pieces, add the sugar and boiling water, and melt over hot water, stirring occasionally. Cream the shortening and sugar together and stir in the chocolate. Separate the eggs, beat the yolks and add. Then stir in the vanilla; sift the flour, which has been sifted first and then measured with the baking powder and salt, and add alternately with the milk. Lastly fold in the egg whites beaten stiff. Bake in two layers for 25 to 30 minutes at 325 to 350 degrees. When cool turn out and spread with the following:

FRUIT FILLING

Three-quarter cupful of evaporated milk.
One-fourth cupful of water.

One-fourth cupful of figs, chopped.
One-fourth cupful of raisins, chopped.
One teaspoonful of vanilla.
One-half cupful of nutmeats, chopped.

Mix the evaporated milk and water in a double boiler and add the sugar; stir until the sugar is dissolved, then add the fruit and cook until thick; cool, add the vanilla and the nutmeats and spread between the layers. Frost the cake with either a boiled white icing or a chocolate fudge frosting.

GOLDEN GLOW ICE CREAM

ALEX. R. McDONALD,
534 Hill street, Sewickley.

HAM BUNNY

Take two small slices of ham, sliced thin (about one-half or three-fourths inches) spread one side of each thinly with prepared mustard. Put bread dressing on one piece and top it with the other, skewering or sewing the two slices of ham together. Put in roasting pan with small amount of water and bake about one hour, basting occasionally. The bread dressing is the same as that used in stuffing poultry. This is particularly good with sweet potatoes which may be roasted with the meat.

JUNIOR PATROL

That doesn't leave us much time to do good—collect toys to give to poor children or to get money to give to the Welfare Fund and other agencies who are trying to do good this winter weather.

Nor does it leave us much time to get our Christmas fun ready, fellows. We are going to have a wonderful time this week, buying and writing Christmas cards, and buying and wrapping up gifts for others. And there are going to be some wonderful parties. Almost every Junior Patrol is going to have a Christmas party.

Here's the first letter today from Gloria McKinley, of 6920 Bennett street, Pittsburgh. She says:

"I am sending pledges for nine members. I really ought to have 10 but I didn't have a chance to see the girl that I wished to sign the pledge for my Patrol. I am sorry because I wanted to have 10 members. I am going to send in more pledges later on. We have meetings every Monday. And last Monday we had a meeting and elected Helen Hozapfel, secretary, and Audrey Miller, treasurer. The dues will be two cents weekly. All my members enjoy your programs and your comic strip in the paper very much."

Boy, that's fine, Gloria, and we will send you an armband just as soon as we get one more pledge from you. Be sure to remind us that you sent in nine pledges today when you write again with more pledges. We are sure that you are going to have a successful patrol, and that you will have a lot of fun. Get your members to tell you what books they like best, and have contests every week or so. And when you find a new game to play, write and tell us about it.

COLDS ARE NOW REACHING OUT FOR VICTIMS!

Be Wise—Be Careful—Adopt This Simple Precautionary Measure!

Colds are increasing. In some sections Influenza is breaking out. Don't be alarmed, but don't be careless.

A cold is much easier avoided than cured! Do the sensible thing and adopt the ounce of prevention policy. Stay out of crowds as much as you can. Avoid coughers and sneezers. Dress warmly, keep your feet dry and sleep in a well-ventilated room.

Every morning and night take a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This will keep the bowels open and combat infection by cold germs.

Millions know Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as an excellent cold remedy, but not enough know it is an equally excellent preventive. Learn its efficacy and keep a package handy all winter long as your "safety first" measure.

If you have already caught cold there is nothing better you can take than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It doesn't merely suppress the cold—it drives it completely out of the system. At the same time, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

For more than forty years, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Now in two sizes—30c and 50c. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet. Reliable dealers will not try to sell you a substitute.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Into the last school days before Christmas vacation Winchester School girls are going to squeeze a fashion show—all for the benefit of the Welfare Fund.

They'll stage their review of the mode tomorrow night from 8 to 9:30 o'clock at the school.

The fashion committee includes Eleanor Hay, Joan Kuhn, Helen Lyne, Nancy Langfitt, Leaugeay Stevenson. And models will be Betty Brooke, Mary Griffith, Peggy Perlman, Anne Roberts, Martha Smith.

Taking care of that important part of any party, refreshments, will be Mary Curry, Helen Cocken, Mary Lou Laufman, Betty Ralston and Harriet Zeller.

College Girls to Be Home for Yuletide

Among the Winchester graduates who'll be home from college for Christmas vacation are Alice Cohen, from Bryn Mawr; Josephine Bygate, Connecticut College for Women; Elizabeth Kunkle, Vassar.

Students to Arrive From Sweet Briar

Home from Sweet Briar will come Alice McCloskey, Betty Thompson, Betty Bryce, Mary Pringle and Aline Stump; from Mt. Holyoke, Jean Davis, Lyndis Johnston and Tracy Forney.

Wellesley will send home former Winchester students Margaret Hildebrand, Virginia Hose, Jean Davison, Jane Humes, Jean Morton, Betty Jane Sheaffer, Lucile Robson, Bernice Steinberg, Catherine Lilley.

Others returning will be Gertrude Stephenson and Jane Worthington, from Wells; Mary Emma Dull, Williams University; Katherine Rendleman, Wilson; Caroline Hankey and Mary Reif, University of Michigan, and Jane Bryce, University of New York.

Dr. and Mrs. George J. McKee are expecting their son, Robert L. McKee, home the latter part of the week from Harvard. During part of the holidays the McKees will have as their house guest a friend of their son, Warren Bloss Daly, son of Dr. and Mrs. Warren Daly, of Rochester, N. Y.

Roberta Speller Bride at Wedding

The Frank N. Spellers' daughter, Roberta, was a bridesmaid at the marriage, in Princeton Saturday, of Charlotte Shields Stockton and Richard Webster Warfield. She wore, like all the bridesmaids, a bugundy velvet gown, and carried a velvet muff, on which were pinned orchids, and wore a velvet hat to match her own.

An aigrette of seed pearls, worn by her great-grandmother at a ball given in Philadelphia for Marquis de Lafayette, was used to arrange the veil of the bride. At that historic ball, her ancestress and her grandmother's side of the family opened the ball with the great French hero. And ever since on this occasion, brides in the faimly have worn the aigrette.

The bride is the daughter of the Richard Stocktons, of Princeton; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ridgely Warfield, of Baltimore. The ceremony was performed in Trinity Episcopal church in Princeton. The bride's own was of ivory satin with a short train also worn by brides in her mother's family. Antique Chess lace and seed pearls trimmed the train. Her flowers were Lilla lilies.

New York Society Sees Junior League Players

NEW YORK—Society subscribed in large numbers for a performance Saturday by the Junior League players at the Heckcher Theater. The play was "Toad of Toad Hall," A. A. Milne's dramatization of "Wind in the Willows." Miss Alida Livingston, member of one of New York's oldest families, plays the part of the toad.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

Rebecca and Virginia Doyle had a struggle at the Giotto fresco production at the Twentieth Century Club. They had miles of rolled-up programs in their arms, and the rolls kept slipping and slipping.

* * *

Mrs. Jacob S. Payton remarked "fresco night" that she was willing to do anything to help, but be a fresco.

The downpour after the program that night found many unprepared — particularly Mrs. William Christopher Robinson. She had left her wrap in the car. And her car didn't come, and didn't come. As soon as some friend had contributed half her wrap or a scarf, along would come the friend's car!

The Robinsons have a most attractive huge sun room at "Franklin Farms," their Sewickley Heights place. It's modernistic in decoration with fountains and vines and plants galore. In the picture at the top of the page, you can see a corner of it, where a trio of the committee for the Allegheny General Hospital benefit supper-dance, to be held Tuesday night in the Chatterbox, went to plot.

Added to the season's loveliest evening wraps—a shimmering white velvet one with a deep cape collar, trimmed with two bands of white fox—the owner, Mrs. William L. Standish, III, of Sewickley.

Miss Marleigh Kramer To Wed Polo Player

NEW YORK.—One of the year's most important engagements is that of Miss Marleigh Kramer, daughter of A. Ludlow Kramer, of Picket Farm, Westbury, L. I., and Robert Livingston Gerry, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry, of New York and Delhi, N. Y. Miss Kramer made her debut a few years ago at one of the most brilliant balls on Long Island.

Mr. Gerry, one of four brothers who play polo as the Aknusti team, is a member of one of New York's most distinguished families. His grandfathers were the late Commodore Elbridge T. Gerry and the late Edward H. Harriman. His mother is the former Cornelia Harriman.

GAY SOMBREROS CROSS THE BORDER

The giddy, youthful cartwheel above is typically Palm Beach in effect. It is coarse straw covered with finely stitched crepe in banana color, with a belting band of brown and Paddy green.

Fancy this hat being plaid taffeta, when it looks so much like straw! The matching scarf is stitched all over, too.

Off-the-face hats are headed even for the beaches, as this synthetic straw model shows. The crown is very sombrero, and so is the red and green twisted cord that is looped around it.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

PEOPLE WHO never saw Mexico are wishing that they could, these days, for there is a great to-do about sombreros, much of which claim to hail from that colorful country.

It's a delicate question as to how many hats of this type are really to be seen below the Rio Grande, but there is no doubt about it that they look a lot better up here, anyway.

Nothing could be more becoming to a tan, however, than one vivid tropical coloring, and in of the big cartwheel hats of the sunlight of American beaches above the border, they will look very much at home. A palm tree is a palm tree, and a pretty girl is a pretty girl, whether they go for Spanish or for New Yorkese.

The patriotic colors of Mexico are green, yellow and red. There is a local feeling in tawny orange shades, and of course the heady dark shades of red are repeated over and over again in tropical flowers and fruits.

All of these have been introduced into the hats and embroideries that Mexico has inspired, and all that a Gringo girl has to do to adopt them is to remember that plain white will set them off beautifully, and combine them with her sports clothes, her simple afternoon frocks and her dinner dresses, as she will.

Sniffing up the Christmas scents again . . . proving that we're hot on the trail, and growing better every moment!

This time our nose brings us a new odeur—Le Mien, a nice exciting Christmas smell bottled by De Seghers and selling for $1 instead of the regular $3.50. (This for a whole ounce!) And also a new exotic perfume known as Khus-Khus . . . special at 78c (for a regular $1.50 bottle).

Quick as a cat can wink its eye . . . that's how quickly you can ice a cake now that some bright soul has thought up this new "dry" icing.

It comes in eight-ounce packages . . . in all flavors and requires but a little water to make it ready to use. Practical too . . . since if you have any left, just putting it into a jar will keep it for weeks on end! 15c package.

Winking up at one with a glint in their eyes . . . that's the new vanity mirrors for you! They know they're smarties, with their etched glass and gold or silver metal frames (untarnishable!) . . . and they know that "the girls" everywhere can always manage to use one of them on a dressing table! $1.00.

Our private opinion is that THIS piece of news will all but make history in Christmas shopping circles! For it's not often than . . .

You find lounging pajamas of corduroy like these for $5.95! With wide, "trous" flapping 'rounud your graceful props, and finger-tip length jackets wrapping your middle and tying nicely with a belt. And with what colors! The jackets are plain color . . . the trousers the same . . . the trick is that they are DIFFERENT plain colors. And the jackets wear contrasting bandings . . . with the result that you can feel gayer than gay.

We can't go into all the violent details here . . . but DO see the one which uses orchid for its jacket . . . mousey grey for the trou . . . and bandings of mouse, fuchsia, and turquoise on the jacket! Quite the Frenchiest combination we've ogled in moons! Sizes 14 to 20. AND THEY ARE WASHABLE! (P. S. We understand that men are practically standing 'round with their tongues hanging out waiting to buy them for lady fair!)

And for those whose bones are given to rattling in wintry breezes we suggest . . .

One of the robes a certain store is literally throwing out their doors at $2.95 apiece. For some reason we can't fathom! Two-toned rose ones (this is the only shade, so little rose-lovers, harken!) . . . with notched lapels . . . fringed belts . . . two pockets and a breast pocket with medallion! All wool flannel . . . just wear them and stick out your tongue at Winter!

For these nighties were good little nighties when they should have been wearing $5 price tags, And now they are better-than-ever ones because they wear only $3.50 price tags—and every one of them is handmade! Just the sort that guarantee sweet dreams to every girl who wears them. In pink, or tearose . . . with hand-drawn work, embroidery, or lace . . . sizes 15, 16, 17.

Gone are the days when half your time at the theater was spent wiping off the lipstick which had gone wrong when you made stabs at yourself in the dark! For the new compact with the electric lights are godsends to any feminine gender.

These have indestructible mirrors and containers which will fit any of 8 different makes of cosmetics! In black, green, blue, and red with silver trim. And what a "find" as a Christmas gift! $2.95.

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

You can't get awey from the Christmas spirit. You may grumble at the rushing around or you may complain because you have to do this, or that, and there isn't enough time to do it in, or you may try to throw yourself into the blues because you have no money, but you won't get away with it. Christmas is a time when we must think of others and not spend hours and hours feeling sorry for ourselves.

Mrs. Sallie Ball is thinking about the Mayor-elect, Mr. McNair, who has been quoted as saying that he hasn't had a real dish of schnitz and knepp in Pittsburgh, and that would be the nicest thing Santa Claus could bring him.

Well, if Mr. McNair will consider Wilkinsburg, for culinary reasons, a part of Pittsburgh, he can get the swellest dish of that Pennsylvania Dutch delicacy he could ever hope to see set before him. Mrs. Ball has been making the aforesaid schnitz and knepp every week for 30 years and says:

"I feel that my schnitz and knepp is as good as my mother's or any other Berks County Dutch mother's."

You and Mrs. McNair are invited, Mr. Mayor-elect. The address, 1508 Marlboro avenue, Wilkinsburg.

I want to acknowledge the Christmas letter from Nancy.

One globe trotter, to his surprise has been called, facetiously perhaps, a hoarder. He purchased merchandise and tendered a gold certificate. Now he wants to know whether his remaining one is worth more than $10.

Our financial editor advises that keeping a ten-dollar gold note is not hoarding and that it is worth no more than any other kind of a ten-dollar bill. It has no special value. The government, since we have been off the yellow metal standard, won't pay out in gold coin anyway.

Mrs. Kay Horetsky, Glassport, dropped in the other day with a quilt that was made from the patterns printed in the paper. Four generations of the family worked on it and it is called the Globe Trotter's Bouquet Quilt.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

Dear W.: I understand that something definite is supposed to break within a few days on the missing Judge Crater thing . . . Barbara Hutton's pop is not Edward F., he's Franklyn . . . Grant Withers called. Said thanx for your story on his elopement to Lodi, N. J., with Alys Walsh, of Cleveland, last Sunday . . . Why don't you bang the bass drum for the President to liberate all liquor violators still confined in the jails—those, of course, with no criminal records. It would be a nice Christmas present. You have no idea how many men and women are in hoosegows simply for selling a pint!

Lovely girl show at the new Casino de Paree—most of Ziegfeld's girls are in it . . . In the third race at Jefferson Park the other day the horse named "Ben Bernie" paid $26 for place—and the jockey was named Cheatham! . . . Mr. Brown of the Times Sq. Hotel called. Said the same thing goes as last winter—he wants no publicity. But on your recommendation he will give rooms to men and women who will pay their rent when they find a job—or when they can . . . Remember when Arthur Tracey of the Hollywood said he didn't care what you wrote about him—so long as you spelled his name right? . . . Well, henceforth, spell it Arthur Tratsvusky.

The report about the Long Island City K. of C. Christmas Basket Fund being in distress brought the N. Y. American to the rescue . . . The benefit there, however, needs a big name star . . . The guy in Dave's Monday dawning who belittled you for saying that Paul Windels would be LaGuardia's corporation counsel—and he knew who would be, etc. etc. and blah-blah—must have had a time when he read the confirmation in the papers . . . The Betty Compson wedding story in Albuquerque has been in the gazettes daily. Anxious to see the roto photos on it with the whole town throwing rice . . . Other items that clicked included the Gary Leon story—and that Phil Plant went to Hollywood to see Connie Bennett, his ex-wife. But none wised up to why, and if she signed the settlement instead of his continuing yellimony.

Jack Berger phoned. Said that too many of us spell the word—"friendcheap" . . . Martin L. Rittermore, Jr., who was engaged to wed Glenda Moorehead, was accidentally killed in a Canadian motor crash . . . La Guardia, I see, is going to urge the Governor to turn over the armories to the homeless in freezing weather . . . Fiorello also thinks that discarded but equipped structures such as the Lying-in-Hospital can be used for the same purpose. Orchids to LaG!

There was another serious mutiny on Welfare Island Wednesday that the papers didn't get . . . Fred Waring's crew will get 10 Gs a week on the air from Henry Ford . . . Frances Arms was the comedienne who did Mrs. Rubinoff with Cantor. Big hit, too . . . Fabian is the lovely who does the nude in the Casino de Paree's downstairs mirror trick. Very clever stunt—you look into a goldfish bowl and see her as an enticing mermaid.

The law firm of Hartman, Sheridan, Tekulsky, Pecora and Banton (whew!) is sponsoring a revival of an organization formed before prohibition to protect whoopee-soda peddlers . . . Auby Keoskie and his heart, Mildred, were wed in Miami Beach . . . Hilda Knight walked out on Felix Ferry to return to George White . . . An invite comes from a teacher at De Witt Clinton High School to address the boys—I told them you'd be busy in court and no can do at this time. At the same time I heard this about you. A teacher in a school had asked the scholars what they wanted to be when they grew up. Several answered: "Newspapermen" . . . The teacher replied: "I do hope—not like those Broadway columnists — particularly that Winchell?" And one kid said: "Yessum, like him—he's helped people get jobs!" . . . She changed the subject.

Hugh Wedlock Jr., was in. Suggested that when you want to mention Abe Lyman's band at the New Yorker, you call it Abe Lyman's New Yorkestra—which is prurry good, eh? . . . Polly Walters of "She Loves Me Not" was an adagio dancer with Walters, Ellis and LaRue until she hurt one of her shapely shafts. That's why she became a leading lady . . . Jack Kofoed's sports column shifts to the Junnel today . . . Les DuBois was in. Said that "Hold Your Horses" made the entire cast take a cut for the road, and that the show should now be called: "Whoa!" . . . I like Jack Pearl's crack . . . "The only thing you can't repeal—is a banana!"

Ed Plottle says Milton Berle, at a benefit, had remarked that at Lindy's a sandwich was named after him—but he never ate it and didn't know what it was made of. Tell him it's made of plain cheese . . . Billy Glason is clicking big in Boston, and can't figure why you never mention him—he thinks you've forgotten the old days . . . A Bridgeport paper is using "Orchids and Scallions" as a column title . . . You can't copyright a title or expression . . . Tell Maynard Rutherford to contact Lewis Van Epps of Pickwick Orchestras, No. 264 W. Forty-seventh—they have a job for him in response to your recent line about him . . . Well, I'll be darned! The headlines say: "Senator Reed Marries Nell Donnelly." And because you said he would marry her ever so long ago—the Senator sent you a nasty letter. And like a chump—you sent him an apology, yet!

—Your Girl Friday.

'Rope's End' Presented By 'Y' Players

The Playhouse of the Y. M. & W. H. A. presented a mystery play, "Rope's End," to an invited audience in the auditorium in Bellefield avenue Saturday night, and will perform the same play for the general public tomorrow evening. The story is that of a "perfect crime," a murder committed for the thrill of the danger, and made more gruesome by means of a socialable evening by spent by friends of the victim in the rooms of the murderers, in one of which his body is concealed. The solution of the crime by one of the guests is brought about through leads developed in conversation at the party.

Those taking part included Hyman Bennett and David Cornman, as the guilty pair, and Arthur Dimling, who picked up the various threads and pieced out a crime, all done quite well. Also Irving Cahan, Kenneth Raglan, Hannah Golding and John Kane.

Irene Dunne Plans Air Holiday

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18. — If there were any lingering doubt that all is well between Irene Dunne and her doctor husband, the two dispel it with their plans for romantic tryst on Christmas and New Year's Eves.

Miss Dunne

When Dr. Francis Griffen came out here to personally negotiate Irene's new contract with RKO, the understanding was for him to return for the holidays. But now he cannot leave his practice, and, as Irene has begun a new picture, "Transient Love," she can't go to New York.

They solve their difficulty by plans to meet in Chicago. Irene will board a plane here on the evening of December 23. Her husband will fly from New York the same night and they will meet in Chicago, spend Christmas Eve together and fly back to their duties.

The same routine will be followed for New Year's Eve, the actress said.

Now, all they hope for is decent weather.

Mr. Fritsch

Asked, Lilian said she didn't know. All her letters and cables for several weeks have remained unanswered.

Hot report has it that Fritsch is on the high seas.

If not, he'll have to wait a long time to see the blonde star, who has been rumored both as his fiancee and as his wife. Lilian has completed "I Am Suzanne" for Fox, but it will be three months before she returns to Europe.

The strange paradox of Jean Harlow arguing bitterly with MGM about salary while her husband, Hal Rosson, worked amicably for the company appears to be at an end.

The platinum-haired star showed up on the lot Friday for the first time in many weeks. Gossips say the feud is over, that Jean goes back at a salary increase. If plans have not changed, she will work with Marie Dressler in "Living in a Big Way."

They must like Evelyn Venable at Paramount, for the studio is leaving no stone unturned to reassure her professor father, who laid down the ultimatum of no kissing scenes for his one and only.

Evelyn Venable.

First they toned down all love scenes in "Death Takes a Holiday." Now the studio is rushing through a print of the picture, so that the young actress can take it back to show her father when she leaves here December 20 to spend the holidays in Cincinnati.

That very busy swain, Dick Powell, has switched back to Mary Brian again, or, at least, the two were together the other night at the Beverly Wilshire . . . Francesca Braggiotti, dancer after the classic manner and wife of the actor-socialite, John Lodge, is opening a dancing school in Hollywood . . . When Ethel Merman got off the train here, she was greeted by the same man who had told her goodbye in New York. He was, of course, Roger Edens . . . The living example of the fellow who would give you his shirt is reported by Tony Samaniego, brother of Ramon Novarro, who has just returned from Mexico with the "Viva Villa" company. When Tony left the southern capital, a number of officers from the 10th Mexican Cavalry came to see him off. They had ordered a present for him. When it didn't come, a captain tore off his shirt and offered it as a souvenir.

Still very much the honeymooners Adrienne Ames and Bruce Cabot sat with arms entwined at the Borzage cocktail party . . . Maureen O'Sullivan took a few steps yesterday for the first time since her operation . . . Lionel Barrymore is another who looks much improved. He and Mrs. Barrymore plan a vacation after he completes "It Happened One Day."

Did you know: That Maureen O'Sullivan, living in Dublin during the black and tan riots, saw the walls and roof of her home riddled by shell-fire?

Victor Jory has a leading role in "Smoky," film version of the story of a horse by Will James, the noted cowboy artist and author, who also appears in the picture. It will open Thursday in the Fulton.

Federal Pay Cuts Assailed by Union

Condemning salary reduction for government employes, the Pittsburgh Central Labor Union has passed a resolution calling for the repeal of Section 2 of the Economy Act. Repeal of this section, according to the resolution, would "have a wholesome effect on the upward trend of wages in private industry."

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Santa Claus steals the show from the legitimate this week, in consequence of which the Nixon will save on electric lights, while it awaits the coming of Walter Hampden, who will begin his season's tour in that theater next week. He will open Monday night in a modern transcription of "Richelieu," which will be the attraction Christmas night, Wednesday afternoon, Thursday and Saturday nights. The bill for Tuesday and Friday nights will be "The Servant in the House." "Hamlet" will be given Wednesday night and "Macbeth" Saturday afternoon. Supporting Mr. Hampden will be his regular company of 35 artists, many of whom have been with him for years. Among them are Mabel Moore, John Davenport Seymour and Ernest Rowan. The Davenport in Mr. Seymour's name is significant, as Mr. Seymour is a descendant of the famous tragedian, E. L. Davenport, being a grandson of May Davenport Seymour, sister of the noted actress Fanny Davenport. His paternal forebears, too, were noted on the stage. Mr. Seymour until recently was a member of the Uncle Tom's Cabin company starring Mr. Otis Skinner. In that he allowed his own infant son, aged nine months, Peter Simpson Seymour, to make his first appearance before an audience. To have been "carried on" the stage in infancy is the boast of many actors. Peter Simpson Seymour achieved the traditional boon in the arms of Elizabeth Risdon, as Harry, the son of Eliza, portrayed by Miss Risdon, as she crossed that ice, pursued by the bloodhounds. Should Peter himself become a trouper, he, too, will be able to make the cherished boast.

Toby and Pat Wing were to arrive in New York this morning. Advices received from Hollywood recently indicated that Pat's trip will culminate with marriage to William Perry, wealthy young Kentuckian, while she is in the East. Toby, who has just completed a featured role in Paramount's "Search for Beauty," will tarry in New York for a vacation.

Coming Out

Helen I. Peterson, of McKeesport and Wilkinsburg will make her screen debut in "Coming Out Party," film that will star Frances Dee. Miss Peterson, sister of Mrs. Richard J. Guy of Sixth avenue, Wilkinsburg, is a graduate of Wilkinsburg High School.

Odds and Ends

HIGHLY ironic—to me, at least—is the story of the young man who has been studying very earnestly for some time to become a member of the New York police force. He's a lad who spent two years in college, and has had a fling at the business world. But the future looked dark. And things being what they are, he desired the steady income of a copper.

The mental examination didn't worry him at all, but the physical test gave him some concern. His height, weight, reach, eyes, heart and lungs were all perfect. But the arch of his left foot was a little weaker than it might have been.

That might sound silly to you, but I assure you that it wasn't silly to the boy. It's no cinch to get on the police force here today, and Mr. Joe Ruddy and his able assistants will toss a candidate out for the slightest physical defect. So the young man had real cause for concern.

The arch of that left foot had been weak as long as the boy could remember. It didn't pain him at all, but it did cause him to walk with a limp that was barely perceptible. He could move along as fast as the average human and, unless you looked for that one physical deficiency, you'd never see it.

Yet in all, there it was. And the boy knew that if it were detected, his chances for the force were finished. . .

A few days ago, the all-important physical examination took place. Along with seven other youths who were being looked over at the same time, our hero went through the various tests. To his great happiness and his vast relief, the doctors found nothing wrong with his legs. His one little flaw had passed unnoticed.

The last test was the eye examination. The boy's eyes have always been perfect. But just before the charts were held up, a speck of dust flew into his right eye. His vision became blurred—and he was flunked. He failed, not because of a left foot that was imperfect, but because of a speck of dust!

WITH the introduction of repeal, we are treated to the ludicrous spectacle of hardened liquor violators being genuinely afraid of the situation. When it was illegal to sell liquor, everybody sold and nobody worried. Today, when it is legal to sell, very few are selling and everybody worries.

To a casual observer, however, there are plenty of laughs. Near a certain newspaper plant, for example, there is a speakeasy that has been selling cheap liquor to the boys all through prohibition years. The price of a pint of gin has always been 80 cents.

The other night, in accordance with a custom he has been observing for years, one of the men in the pressroom phoned to the speakeasy and ordered a pint of gin sent over. When it arrived, the boy asked for a dollar.

"Can't help it," shrugged the boy. "It's the boss' new rules. Eighty cents for the gin—and 20 cents for the risk!" . . .

THIS sounds like one for Ripley, and it actually happened the other morning. An expectant mother visited her doctor for an examination. The medico is highly efficient, and is one of the best obstetricians in town. But he likes his Broadway. And as such, he is liable to say anything at any time.

"When is the baby arriving?" he asked the woman. A trifle surprised, she said it was due in February.

"I know, I know," said the doctor irritably. "But what time in February?"

The lady, very nervous by this time, asserted that the infant should arrive about the eighth or tenth. The doctor looked at his pad and shook his head angrily.

"It will have to be before that," was his amazing announcement. "I must be in Florida by that time!" . . .

A FEW recommendations:

In the theatrical field, this column suggests "Ah, Wilderness!," "She Loves Me Not," "Sailor, Beware," "Her Master's Voice" and "As Thousands Cheer."

In the world of books, you should find time to read Gene Fowler's "Timber Line," and Fred Pasley's "Not Guilty!" The latter effort has not been given the attention it deserves.

In the Broadway cafe line, you owe yourself a visit to the Casino de Paree, a departure in night club offerings. Max Baer, Bee Palmer and George Givot entertain in a Billy Rose revue that must have cost a fortune. The entire spot is distinctive and different.

This column also recommends plenty of money in the bank, ermine wraps, Mae West, larger hats for women, and—because of the way things are going—the repeal of repeal . . .

Organization Plans Rebuff To Pinchot on P. S. C. Appointees.

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 18.—The Republican organization will refuse to report out the nominations of any of the five Pinchot appointees to the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Shields

It will resist any effort to discharge the committee on executive nominations from their consideration if it is made tonight, as Gov. Pinchot has threatened.

Should he go through with his threat and summon the Senate to a special session immediately after final adjournment Thursday, for no other purpose than considering the nominations, the Senate will go through the motions of a meeting, and again adjourn without heeding the Governor.

These are today's orders from headquarters of the state organization.

Over the week-end both the Pinchot and organization forces busily canvassed the Senate, seeking votes to discharge the committee.

The executive group professed confidence that it had a majority vote in the Senate, necessary to bring the nominations to the floor. This appeared to be based more on optimism than fact.

Allegheny Members Divided on Issue

Organization leaders asserted that the Pinchot group will not have more than 17 votes if it attempted to force this issue tonight. Among the 17 were listed Senators Frank J. Harris, William D. Mansfield and Herman Brandt, of Allegheny County. Senator Morris Einstein was labeled an uncertainty, with Senators Joseph G. Armstrong and James J. Coyne certain to vote with the organization for bottling up the appointments.

The organization, however, has been known to be wrong on its individuals on previous Senate votes. On the historic motion to discharge the Senate committee on old-age pensions in the last regular session, State Chairman Edward Martin believed that Senator Armstrong would vote with the organization to keep the constitutional amendment in committee.

As the vote finally was recorded, Senator Coyne was the only Allegheny County member of the upper house to keep the measure from the floor, a position which became a factor in the recent municipal election in Pittsburgh.

It is conceded that if the question of the Public Service Commissioners once could be brought to the floor, Chairman C. Jay Goodnough and Commissioner P. S. Stahlnecker probably would be confirmed. There might be some chance for Commissioners Fred P. Gruenberg and Herman Goldberg for racial reasons, if no other. The fifth nominee is George W. Woodruff, attorney general in the first Pinchot administration.

Organization Wants To Dodge Direct Vote

The organization wishes to dodge a direct vote on Gruenberg and Goldberg, if that desire can be attained. It does not wish to confirm them, but it recalls the ballot paddling it received when it attempted to sidetrack Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Pittsburgh, for the Superior Court.

Today the effort is the same as it was on the old-age pension vote. The members who vote against discharging the committee will contend that they did not vote against confirmation, but merely against slapping the sanctity of a Senate committee.

Many will say they would have been for confirmation, as they were for old-age pensions, while at the same time they refuse themselves the opportunity to make good the declaration.

Democrats in Harrisburg today discussed with considerable sparkle the proposal to have Percy Williams, some time ago designated by Mayor-elect William N. McNair as his secretary, shunted to the chairmanship of the City Tax Board, while the secretary job would be awarded to James L. O'Toole, defeated in the recent election as a candidate for County Judge.

Mr. Williams, with theories on taxation similar to those of Mr. McNair, would be a secretary entirely in harmony with his chief.

O'Toole Valuable To Guffey, Lawrence

Mr. O'Toole, however, is friendly first to Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey. As secretary to the Mayor he would occupy a strategic position, informed of all the persons who visit the Mayor, and presumably abreast of his opinions on various subjects.

As the situation looks at present, it would be invaluable to Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Guffey to have at the Mayor's elbow some one who was linked to their camp. It is no secret that they are worried politically about the course the Mayor-elect will follow, uncertain as to the snap judgments he will take and the impulsive conclusions he will put into effect.

Incidentally, some Democrats are being urged by one wing of the party to approve the naming of James F. Malone to the Department of Public Safety on the basis that it will be displeasing to Messrs. Lawrence and Guffey. The strangeness of this approach is that it comes from a source which has been presumed to be working hand in glove with the two practical political leaders of the party.

MARY PICKFORD'S LIFE

Pickfair Now Mansion Of Broken Dreams

Mary, Doug Inseparable In Happy Years at Palatial Pickfair

(The Sun-Telegraph presents herewith the dramatic life story of Mary Pickford, who is now suing Douglas Fairbanks for divorce. Earlier chapters told of her childhood, her stage and screen career, her marriage to Owen Moore and the divorce, and her marriage to Fairbanks.)

CHAPTER VII

By MARJORIE DRISCOLL

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 18.—When Christmas comes this year and Hollywood homes are gay with glittering trees and holiday lights, there will be no celebration in Pickfair, that great hilltop mansion that was built out of love and comradeship and that has become a lonely house of broken dreams.

The famous "party room" that Mary Pickford designed and furnished a year ago as a Christmas gift for her husband will be dark and silent.

For the first time in 13 years, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks will be apart on Christmas; Mary in New York, Douglas in Europe, and between them the invisible barrier of impending divorce.

Hollywood still finds it hard to believe it could happen.

For years, Pickfair has been a landmark of Hollywood. It was, perhaps, the first real home of her own that Mary Pickford ever had; the only place that she knew she would not have to leave as professional duties called her here and there.

ARCHITECTURE CHANGED

The great house stands in an estate of 12 acres, surrounded by trees, flowers and spreading lawns. Originally in English style, it was remodeled just before the Olympic games of 1932 and emerged reminiscent of early California, with a guest wing added to accommodate distinguished visitors for the games.

On the main floor of Pickfair are the huge living room, dining room, library, a small movie theater, kitchen and servants' quarters. The east wing on the second floor was given over to Mary, and Fairbanks took the west wing. The entire top floor is a huge gallery filled with art objects, souvenirs of world trips, and gifts from admirers.

Established in Packfair, Mary and Douglas began their reign over Hollywood, and not only filmland, but society outside the circles of the movies welcomed them.

PREFERRED QUITE LIFE

But they preferred to live quietly in their house of dreams. Neither cared much for society at that time. Night clubs, dances, parties had little appeal for them.

They were always together. Dinner hostesses smilingly broke all rules and placed them side by side. They danced together, traveled together, enjoyed most of all spending quiet hours in their own home.

They had few intimate friends, and those few were chosen with discrimination from the old-established folk of the films. Chaplin,

PARK TO APPEAL DECISION ON BARDOLPH

District Attorney to Fight Setting Aside Of Conviction

The Superior Court decision reversing the conviction of Charles A. Bardolph, former president of the closed Franking Savings and Trust Company, for alleged false entries on the company's books, will be appealed to the Pennsylvania Supreme Court this week, District Attorney Andrew T. Park said today.

Park's decision to appeal followed a conference today with Assistant District Attorney Harry R. Phillips, who prosecuted Bardolph. After the conference Park said:

"The question involved in this case, we believe, is of considerable importance in its effect on banking procedure in Pennsylvania.

"In view of the fact that three judges of the Superior Court joined in a dissenting opinion, holding that the conviction should be affirmed, we feel that a petition should be filed in the Supreme Court asking for a review of the findings."

Bardolph's conviction climaxed a series of episodes in the case of the Franklin Trust Company beginning when its doors were closed in 1931.

Specifically he was charged with false entries in connection with drafts deposited for collection by the Agricultural Exchange, a produce house which was a customer of the bank.

Bardolph, the evidence at his trial disclosed, had credited the exchange with the amounts of the drafts before they were collected in other cities. Eleven items were involved. They were carried as cash on the bank's books but were never paid.

The Superior Court decision, reversing his conviction, held that he may have been guilty of bad banking practices but that he was not guilty of a criminal offense.

SAFE CRACKERS BRING LADDER TO GET $300

Thieves Crack Window Of Homewood Ave. Jewelry Store

One woman was beaten and robbed, a second, employed in the J. B. Laughlin home, was held up, a Homewood jewelry shop was pilfered, a North Side clothes company was ransacked, a Penn avenue wholesale house was robbed, and the safe in a Donahoe store was cracked early today and yesterday.

Miss Betty Fally, an employe in the Laughlin home at 400 Devonshire street, Shadyside, was walking in Fifth avenue, near Morewood avenue, when three stickup men stopped her and took her purse containing $2.

THUGS BEAT WOMAN

Less fortunate was Miss Anna Barto, 37, of 1815 Federal street extension. Near Chestnut and East Ohio streets two thugs pulled her into an alleyway, beat her on the face and head with their fists, took her purse containing a few dollars, and her hat and gloves. She was treated at Allegheny General Hospital.

$800 IN LOOT TAKEN

At the Economy Pants Company, 505 East Ohio street, robbers forced a rear door, ransacked the place and made off with men's clothes valued at $600 and $20 in cash. The robbery was discovered early today by Sidney Ehrenfeld, the manager, of 6347 Walnut street.

This was the third robbery in the Economy shop in less than two months. Two weeks ago the owner, G. T. Ehrenfeld, was held up and relieved of jewels and cash. In November robbers carted away clothes.

The robbers who dropped through the tihrd-floor skylight of the Donahoe store at 730 East Ohio street, North Side, brought along their own ladder. Then they chiseled off the safe lock, took perhaps $300 and departed.

In July the same Donahoe store was robbed in a similar fashion and $300 taken.

PROBE MYSTERY INJURY TO MAN

South Side police today planned to question Peter Forney, 50, of 515 Michigan avenue, in South Side Hospital, suffering from a probable fracture of the skull, to learn how he was injured.

Forney was found by Patrolman Edward Kilkeary leaning against a building at Twelfth and Carson streets. Taken to the South Side Police Station, a scalp wound was found and he was taken to the hospital.

Bandit Tries Holdup, Flees Without Loot

Robert Harper, of 619 Turrett street, reported to East End police early today he had been held up by a Negro, who fled without obtaining any loot.

Napoleon Knew How to Reverse National Slump

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

When it comes to getting your nation out of a slump call on the Little Corporal.

The convention, the ancients and the directory struggled with paper, gold and silver for years.

Finally, a man named Napoleon crossed the Alps, walloped everybody and collected everything that wasn't nailed down. If it was, he took the nails also.

All he grabbed he sent back home to Paris. Nap was a bayonet financier. He took what he liked and he liked everything.

He put France back in the money, became head man and finally stepped on a roller skate in a dark hallway.

Old Santa Claus, that kindly, big-hearted saint, has many helpers at the Pittsburgh Toy Mission, but none have accomplished a bigger job this year than Mrs. John Potter, of 5625 Elgin avenue, East End.

OPERATOR 13

Youthful Confederate Spy Is Killed in Clash With Police

(Reproduced from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

The Twentieth Precinct then telegraphed: "Mob torturing and hanging Negroes. Send help. Hurry!"

Then the Twenty-first Precinct wired: "Has the Eighteenth Precinct Station house been burned?" And Acton answered: "Yes, look out for the gas house in Fourteenth street."

"General," said Acton calmly; and the brigadier wired instructions to Gen. Sandford at the arsenal.

Another telegram: "A huge mob is marching downtown through Union Square. Their object is the 20,000 muskets in storage at 56 Greenwich street. I have no reserves to cope with them."

No Reserves

Another dispatch followed from the Twenty-ninth Precinct: "The mob is firing buildings in Second avenue, near Twenty-eighth street, and sacking houses at Twenty-seventh street and Seventh avenue. No force here to send out."

"Riot at Pier 4, North River," telegraphed the First Precinct, Capt. Warlow; "mob murdering colored people."

Then, from Capt. Walling, Twentieth Precinct: "Capt. Hedden, Sixteenth Precinct, telegraphed that a disciplined mob on Fifth avenue is gathering under the leadership of men who are supposed to be Confederate officers. They have two field pieces, muskets and pistols. They have taken 100 horses from the Red Bird omnibus stables and are mounting rioters as cavalry. It is believed that they are going to destroy the Dunderberg. A secret service agent should get in touch with them and report their destination to headquarters."

"Well, ma'am," said Acton quietly, handing her the scribbled message passed up by a police telegrapher.

The girl read it, paled a little, but rose immediately.

Gen. Brown remarked: "This 'disciplined mob' they speak of looks like Cleburne's and John Gailliard's work."

"Yes," said Acton. "Telegraph me from the Sixteenth Precinct, ma'am; and I'll put the police force there at your disposal. I want this Capt. Gailliard, dead or alive." . . .

Operator 13 was examining her revolver. The brigadier watched her reload it.

"Be very careful not to do or say anything to annoy the mob or arouse its suspicions," he cautioned. "Mingle with the rioters and get your information; then go to the Sixteenth Precinct and telegraph Police Headquarters."

Desperate Mobs

"I can send you in a city hack as far as Grace Church," added Action.

So Operator 13 went out into the street and got into a waiting hack. At Tenth street she got out, crossed Fourteenth into Broadway, and walked north to Twenty-third—once the very heart and center of swarming life and activity in the noisy city.

It was noon but all the shops were closed, the streets deserted; not a living soul was stirring. In the terrifying silence the sun poured down on the pavements through a foul haze of smoke.

The girl looked fearfully around her; and, for the first time, saw men lying on the pavement across Twenty-third street. For a moment she did not realize they were dead.

Then, gradually, she became aware of the distant crash and rattle of firing, and from far up

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 18.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

You sure got to give it to this administration for trying to do something for the down and out.

Will Rogers

Over in Phoenix, Ariz., the other day I ran onto something that I had not read about, but I understand there is quite a few in Southwestern states. It's called a government transient camp.

I went out to see 'em, there was about 700 men and boys, (lots of 'em very young) and they kept 'em there and fed 'em, and gave 'em clothes.

They received no money, good food, good cots and blankets. All had to work. Lot of 'em were making wooden toys for the children in Phoenix for Christmas. A taxpayer can't kick on his money being spent if it's on food.

Yours, WILL.

FALL ROUND-UP HELD FOR NEWSBOYS

If it hadn't been for the fact that the pie-eating contest at yesterday's Sun-Telegraph branch carrier boy Fall Round-Up in the Hunt Armory, preceding the serving of big broiled half chickens, there would not have been a pie-eating contest. When the 300 youngsters who participated in this affair had finished their chicken and all the good things served with it, there was not enough appetite remaining to create any enthusiasm for pie.

Yesterday's "Round-Up" was the climax of a successful drive for Sun-Telegraph home delivery subscriptions. Louis L. Kaufman, Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter, was master of ceremonies. The greater part of the afternoon was devoted to field events for attractive prizes. Here is a list of the winners:

One-Mile Race—William Snyder, first.

Hundred Yard Dash—Joseph Nichols, first; Charles Warfield second; Willard Craighead, third.

Aside from the field events there were several stunts in the way of entertainment, including the aforesaid pie-eating contest, which was won by Joseph Sacone. William Sklar carried off the honors for the best amateur act.

1 DEAD, 2 HURT IN EXPLOSION

SOMERSET, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—A blast of dynamite killed one man and seriously injured two others at Jennerstown, where the State Highway Department is eliminating a curve on the Lincoln highway.

William Good, 61, of Boswell, father of four children, was hurled 35 feet to his death by the explosion of two charges placed 12 feet apart in a rock wall. His head was partly blown off and his right leg broken.

John McHale, 41, of Pottersville, and Alex Moskey, 35, of Boswell, two other workmen, are in a Johnstown hospital suffering from wounds of the face, eyes and neck.

Y's Jobless School Seeks Typewriters

Typewriters are the greatest material need at the School for Unemployed at the Center Avenue Y. M. C. A., according to an appeal today by Howard C. McKinney, director. He urges anyone having a typewriter which they are not using to lend the machine to the "Y" until the end of the school year. Their safe return is guaranteed.

Ambitious Schoolboys Aided in Paper Work

This afternoon, promptly after school is out, several hundred thousand boys, in cities, towns and hamlets from coast to coast, will hasten to attend to a highly important matter of business. It is a business of the greatest social significance and a service which the country couldn't very well get along without—the delivery of its newspapers. Incidentally, it is the only big business in this country largely conducted by schoolboys.

In an hour, most of them will have covered their routes and be ready for play. Many of them, carriers for out-of-town newspapers in their home villages or younger boys getting their first training, will have finished their daily chore when they have delivered 10 to 20 newspapers. Tomorrow morning, another army of boys will deliver the morning newspapers to the breakfast tables of the nation. On the average, the 588,287 boys who deliver and sell newspapers put in an hour and a half a day. They earn, in the course of a year, approximately 100 million dollars.

OPPORTUNITY FOR BOYS

These impressive figures, brought out recently during hearings on the Daily Newspaper Code, have brought to publishers, social workers, parents and school authorities the country over a new realization of the social and economic importance of this part-time work to the boyhood of the nation.

Under the conditions of modern life, there are few jobs that a boy can do, outside of school hours, to earn his spending money, although boys today have more leisure than formerly. For the average city boy, there is no wood to chop, no coal to carry, no cows to bring in from the pasture at milking time—none of the chores that boys used to do. The depression, while making it more difficult for parents to supply the money for many of the things boys need and want, has reduced the number of errands and odd-jobs by which boys can earn money for themselves. The 588,287 part-time jobs provided by newspapers, therefore, have helped mightily in the solution of this depression problem.

Delivering newspapers is now by far the largest field of activity in which boys can engage without interfering with their school work. The 100 million dollars earned annually in this manner represents the economic independence of more than half a million young Americans. That 100 million dollars doubtless pays for a good share of all the baseball and football equipment, bicycles, skates and fishing tackle sold in this country. It helps to pay for such things as Boy Scout, Y. M. C. A. and boys' club memberships, trips to camp and other activities important to the welfare of boys, which many of them could not otherwise afford.

TEACHES VALUE OF MONEY

More important still, it is enabling thousands of ambitious boys to remain in school, to clothe themselves and to contribute to the support of families that sorely need this small, but regular income.

The whole theory of modern circulation management is based on two things: selecting steady, ambitious boys to start with and encouraging them, by rewards and increased opportunity, to do good work. Good grades in school help a boy to obtain his paper route. Promptness, diligence, lack of complaints from subscribers and good school work help him to obtain a larger district and to earn more.

The boy learns self-reliance and business fundamentals by conducting a small-scale business of his own. He buys his papers at wholesale and sells them at retail. His profit depends on the difference between what he pays for them and what he collects. He is a merchant, salesman, deliveryman, credit man and collector.

Surely practical training of this sort, teaching boys the value of a dollar in terms of honest effort and inculcating the fundamental principles of business, is a highly desirable supplement to what they learn at school.

(This is the first of a series of articles on the newspaper boy. Tomorrow's article will tell about earlier conditions and how the modern "boy delivery system" was developed as a more enlightened method of handling this work.)

MARY, DOUG HAPPY AT PICKFAIR

'MOBBED' ABROAD

Of course, publicity followed them. When they traveled, they were literally pursued by crowds. In London, Douglas had to come to the aid of police and snatch his tiny wife to the safety of his brawny shoulder when the throng nearly trampled her underfoot in its eagerness to see.

The same thing happened in Rome, in Moscow and in other cities.

Mary and Douglas were entertained by distinguished people in America and abroad, and they entertained distinguished guests. They dined at the White House. When Prince George of England, traveling as Lieut. Windsor, visited California he was a guest at Pickfair.

MARY KEEPS SIMPLICITY

All the while, Mary Pickford, still a little bewildered by the rush and clamor of movie stardom and the adulation of the crowds, kept her simplicity and her charm. She played Santa Claus to residents at the county farm.

She found little Martha Miller, lost and crying in a downtown store, and bought her a ring to console her while she started a search for Martha's grandmother.

One shadow rested on the happiness at Pickfair for two years after the romantic wedding.

The validity of Mary's divorce from Owen Moore was attacked in the courts on the ground that her claim to an intended residence in Nevada was not true. The case was fought through the higher courts until 1922, when the Nevada Supreme Court sustained the decree.

Until three years ago, Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks were inseparable. When cynics said that a happy marriage was impossible in Hollywood, Hollywood replied:

"Look at Mary and Doug."

DOUG SPURNS JOURNEYS

Sometimes, when Fairbanks was called to go on location trips which would have kept him away for long periods, he flatly refused to leave Mary, and sets were built on the studio lot so that he might stay at home.

It was studio gossip that more than once, when Fairbanks had to play a love scene calling for an ardent embrace, the leading lady's back was to the camera—because, if the audience had seen her face, they would have recognized Mary Pickford.

The production of that picture was an example of Mary's unceasing solicitude for her husband's career. She deliberately let Katharine become a secondary role and gave Petruchio the center of the stage.

QUANDARY FOR MARY

Mary was in a difficult situation. For herself, she would have been content to do anything that would have given Douglas a better chance. But, on the other hand, she did not want to displease her countless unknown friends.

Douglas Fairbanks went to Europe alone.

(Tomorrow's installment will tell of the separation of Mary and Doug, the reasons for parting, and her final decision to seek a divorce.)

Man and Wife Slain In 'Love Theft' Case

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Aaron Taylor, 38, was under a murder charge here today after allegedly shooting to death Alfred Wink, 35, and his wife, Mrs. Rose Phillips Wink, 44.

Police said Taylor ran from the Winks' rooming house yesterday shouting that he had killed the couple. The officers said Taylor accused Mr. and Mrs. Wink of "alienating" his wife's affections.

Little Girls Rescue Santa Who Ran Afoul of Law

BURLINGTON, N. C., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Two little girls in Oklahoma, stirred by news that Santa Claus had been arrested here for delivering circulars without a license, secured his release through habeas corpus proceedings.

Juliette Marie Stolpher, aged 7, and her sister, Henrietta, 9, of Muskogee, Okla., served the papers upon Mayor Earl B. Horner by mail. Their father, an attorney, who said he had been retained by them at a fee of 10 cents a day, drew them up.

FRANCE FIGHTS HITLER ON ARMS

PARIS, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The war chieftains of France, in a secret session attended by Gen. Maxime Weygand and former Premier Edouard Daladier, today decided they were flatly opposed to a rearmament of Germany.

The army leaders met as the Superior War Council, carefully surveyed the reiterated demands of Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, for increased armaments for his nation, decided adversely against his demands, and prepared to pass on their recommendations to the government.

FOR MEN WHO DON'T KNOW WHAT TO GET THE FAMILY FOR CHRISTMAS

SANTA CLAUS, internationally famous gift expert, urged the purchase of gas appliances as gifts in an exclusive interview with our staff correspondent yesterday.

"I cannot stress too strongly that this is the year for practical presents," said he. "Men puzzled as to a gift for the family should by all means look at the line of gas refrigerators, ranges, water heaters, and radiantfires on display at the Show Rooms of the Peoples Natural Gas Company. These appliances are calculated to delight and to benefit the whole family; they will be delivered for a small down payment; and the time-payment terms are so generous that the money won't be missed. What more could be asked?"

We agree—and you will too, if you come in and look around. We hope to see you.

We don't need to tell you all that this gift would mean to the whole family. Just think of all the good things that any automatic refrigerator can offer—then add the fact that this Gas Refrigerator has no moving parts to wear out or make noise—causes no radio interference—and costs less than 2 cents a day to operate.

Mother spends one year out of every five in the kitchen . . . think what a fine new range would mean to her. The automatic control saves worry, assures uniformly good results; the insulated oven means comfort, all through the hot months. The family benefits from the finer things that she can more easily prepare.

Proper Christmas festivities call for an open fire . . . one of these splendid Radiantfires provides it. Ready, always, at a moment's notice to banish chill, make home more cozy.

And remember . . . the generous terms let you pay in monthly installments. They also let you use the savings that the use of these appliances effect to pay part of the installments.

O'DUFFY TAKEN BY DE VALERA SOLDIERS

WESTPORT, Mayo, I. F. S., Dec. 18.—(AP.)—It was the government's next move today in the bitter political warfare climaxed last night by the long-expected arrest of Gen. Eoin O'Duffy.

Officials were silent about the whole matter, but the opinion was expressed that the Blue Shirt leader would be notified to prepare for arraignment before a military tribunal.

In such an event, the government could hold him a month while completing its case.

FOLLOWERS SCATTER

Meanwhile Gen. O'Duffy's followers were scattered for the time, nursing bumps and bruises received in last night's affrays.

Among leaders of the league of youth movement, sponsored by the United Ireland Party, it was said Ernest Blythe, who served in the cabinet of former President William T. Cosgrave, was most likely to succeed O'Duffy as chief of that group, should he be long detained.

Cosgrave was expected to preside at a meeting of the United Ireland Party today at which it was planned to consider the imprisoned leader's case fully.

It was assumed the party eventually would test the question of the general's arrest in the courts.

FLEES ACROSS FIELD

Motoring toward Westport to address a party meeting, the general was halted by police. He escaped, however, and fled across a field only to be greeted by helmeted soldiers.

A crowd of supporters had formed by this time, they succeeded in raising O'Duffy upon their shoulders. He shouted a few words before police, batons rapping, broke through and hauled him down.

The Blue Shirt Party was ordered banned last week, a warrant was issued for O'Duffy at the time, but as evidenced in his attempt to keep a speaking engagement last night — he continued defiantly on his way.

Maria Olszewska, internationally famous contralto, sang a fine recital at the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association last night. It was her first appearance here after five years. Since that time she has been a star at all the great festivals and in both great American opera houses and fully demonstrated the reasons for her popularity last night.

Mr. Lissfelt

Everyone is immediately impressed with the true contralto quality of this voice, with the vivacious personality behind it, of her breadth of style and, of course, with the splendid music she sings.

Since last hearing strange things have come into her voice, however, rather into her style of declamation and the smooth flow of the music line.

Perhaps due to the excessive opera appearances, but nevertheless there is a marked line between the high and low voices which need not appear in so gifted a singer, and an explosiveness in declamation which leaves on far too many words and phrases a blur in diction and a diminution of voice which is neither artistic nor right.

It may be merely a temporary affectation but Olszewska should save herself from its inevitable influences.

This was especially noticeable in the Handel air where the vocal line is so imposingly straightforward. Her Italian songs she enlivened with natural charm. Of the lieder the Strauss suspassed the Brahms, and the "Ruhe Meine Seele" was the high spot of the program.

Her operatic flair came in the "Carmen" aria to which she added Brahms' "Vergebliches Staendchen" and Strauss' "Zueignung." She has originality enough to create a tempest about her interpretations, and that we must allow her, for she is unquestionably a pleasing singer; indeed, more than that, and has much still to bring us.

Frederick Schauwecker played accompaniments.

Bits of Wood Made Into Likeness of President

A wood mosaic portrait of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, copied from a photograph by Stanley Waligora, of 340 Pine street, Ambridge, contains more than a million, five hundred thousand separate pieces of wood, he estimated today.

Different kinds of wood, including rosewood, boxwood, white holly, and ironwood, color the background. As Waligora says:

"I got a letter from President Roosevelt giving me permission to copy his picture. Now I hope I can sell it. I am poor and I spent seven months hard work making it."

SPORTS COMMENT

By JAMES J. LONG

Uniform Ball Not Enough. Stanford No Bowl Terror. Similar Park Rule Asked. Light Record in Scoring. Weinstock Again Honored. Top Rating for Walker.

BUC CHIEFS URGE STANDARDIZED BALLYARDS

While pleased that the major leagues have agreed to use a uniform ball next year, President W. E. Benswanger and Vice President S. E. Watters, of the Pittsburgh baseball club, take the stand that the new deal will not be generally fair or satisfactory until the ball parks, too, are standardized. That is in the matter of home-run distances. They think a screening arrangement or a zoning system is needed to do away with burlesque home runs in those ball yards with short fields where the home batters have the advantage of close stands or fences in 77 games each season.

W. E. Benswanger

The Pittsburgh magnates point out that baseball is about the only sport that has no fixed standards of measurement for general use. Only the infield distances are made the same everywhere by rule or law, and yet it is the outfield distances that decide many games. Benswanger and Watters will continue to advocate the adoption of a system that will make conditions equal at all major league parks. They can see no good reason why a fly ball that is only a putout at Forbes Field or any other real park should be a home run in New York, Philadelphia or elsewhere.

WEINSTOCK NAMED ON JEWISH ALL-AMERICA

Showing that Pittsburgh's collegiate football material this year was as varied as it was high in quality, it seems that they can't pick any kind of an "all" team from the national gridiron ranks without including one or more players from this city. Other races having had their fling in submitting all-star elevens, Seymour Shub, of the Chicago Daily Jewish Courier, now selects a Jewish all-America team, on which he awards the fullback position to Izzy Weinstock, of Pitt. Jewish stars stand out every year among the best players in American football, and the team picked by Shub from the 1933 ranks could go far in any company.

In addition to Weinstock at fullback, the players selected are: Ends, Gillman and Padlow, both of Ohio State; tackles, Kopans, of Harvard, and Isaacson, of Washington; guards, Rosenberg, of Southern California, and Blum, of Colgate; center, Frankel, of Dartmouth; quarterback, Siegel, of New York U.; and halfbacks, Kaufman, of Princeton, and Samuel, of Colgate. Another tribute that came to Weinstock recently was paid by Coach Rip Miller, of Navy, who named Izzy at fullback on the Middies' all-opponents team, along with Kopcsak, of Army, and Matal, of Columbia, at ends; Krause, of Notre Dame, and Burger, of Virginia, as tackles; Dzamba, of Columbia, and Jablonsky, of Army, as guards; Engle, of Penn, as center; Montgomery, of Columbia, as quarterback, and Johnson, of Army, and Lee, of Mercer, as halfbacks.

STANFORD NEVER TERROR IN ROSE BOWL

About the only hope that can be held out to Columbia supporters in connection with the forthcoming football debate in Pasadena is that Stanford, in spite of its generally good intersectional record, never has been particularly potent in Rose Bowl engagements. The three Cardinal teams that Pop Warner took to the Bowl emerged with only one victory, and that just scored by only a single point over Pitt, against one tie and one defeat.

Pop Warner

In none of the three games did Stanford make more than one touchdown. In 1925, Warner's charges were swamped by Notre Dame, 27 to 10; in 1927, they were tied by Alabama, 7 to 7, and in 1928 they nosed out the Panthers, 7 to 6. And who can say that the present Stanford team is better than any of the previous trio? The 1925 eleven had Ernie Nevers, Jim Lawson, Harry Shukey and others bearing some of the greatest names in Stanford history. That team won the Coast championship without losing a game. The 1927 outfit had Dick Hyland, whom opponents called a team in himself. And the 1933 aggregation was no combination of weaklings, what with Post, Robesky, Hoffman and others.

ONLY THIRTY POINTS IN SIX BIG GAMES

And for all the fine record of the present Stanford team, even Coast critics admit that the eleven has been no raging scourge of the gridiron. Assuming that the six major opponents of the Redskins this year were Southern California, California, Santa Clara, Northwestern, Washington and U. C. L. A., what do you get in summing up the scores? A total of only 30 points, or an average of less than one touchdown per game.

True, Stanford won four of those six games, and a win is a win no matter how close the score. But the point is that there is nothing in Stanford's offensive record, either past or present to indicate that the Cardinals will slaughter Columbia two weeks from today. The opinion sticks that Columbia is not the best team that could have been selected for the classic, and does not have the strength or the replacements necessary to win. But unless Stanford can unleash more attacking power than it has shown so far, and rises above its offensive form of other years in the Bowl, the game may be close and hard fought instead of a walk-away for the Californians.

BELANGER RATES WALKER ABLEST FOEMAN

The fight in which he knocked out Dick Daniels in four rounds at Detroit the other night made a total of 202 in which Charley Belanger has engaged since he entered the professional ring in 1922, and when he looks back over that long string of battles the Canadian light-heavyweight singles out Mickey Walker as the ablest of all his opponents. That is, in the matter of all-around fighting class.

Charley Belanger

Mickey has been excelled in a particular department or style of milling. For instance, Belanger says the hardest puncher he ever faced was Frankie Campbell. The latter did not knock Charley down, but hurt him more than did opponents who actually floored the Canadian. Belanger says he was in a daze all through their bout from Campbell's punches, and though winning by a knockout in the fifth round declares he knew nothing of it until told in the dressing room afterward, having no clear recollection of what happened. Campbell died following a knockout by Max Baer. Belanger says Frankie would have gone far, but couldn't take it.

Maxie Rosenbloom is rated the cleverest and most elusive foeman Belanger has met, a boxer with a baffling hit-and-run style and able to slap from any angle, but taking it all around, Belanger says Walker had more stuff than any of the others, fairly clever, a great puncher, especially to the body, aggressive and the owner of a rare fighting heart.

Babe Ruth's All-America Team of Recent Years

Team selected by the All-America Board of Baseball at the dinner given by Babe Ruth in New York last night. Members of the board balloted on the players selected annually for the past 12 years by Ruth and his committees. Pie Traynor, of the Pirates, thus is recognized as the premier third baseman over a period of a little more than a decade. The American League holds an edge over the National loop, and the A's lead as a club in the matter of developing players selected. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and International News Photograph Service pictures.

GROVE, HUBBELL HONORED BY BABE RUTH

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Once a southpaw always a southpaw, or at least so it would seem.

At a banquet tossed for the members of the All-America Board of Baseball in the New York Athletic Club and broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hookup at midnight, Babe Ruth last night named two fellow lefties as the greatest pitchers in the last 12 years. He broke in himself as a southpaw pitcher. They are Lefty Grove, just sold by Connie Mack to the Boston Red Sox, and Carl Hubbell, of the New York Giants, who pitched his team to the National League pennant and world series title this year.

MEMBERS PRESENT

The selections represented the vote of the members of the All-America Board, all but two of whom were present. Those on hand were James Isaminger, Philadelphia; Ed Wray, St. Louis; Ed Bang, Cleveland; Bud Shaver, Detroit; Tom Swope, Cincinnati; Jack Malaney, Boston; Kirk Miller, Washington, and the writer.

Pie Traynor, captain of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was named the greatest third baseman of the span of a dozen years, dating back to 1922, when the Babe named an all-star team for the first time. The complete lineup follows:

NOTABLES ATTEND

Christy Walsh, sponsor of the All-America Board of Baseball, acted as master of ceremonies, despite a heavy cold, and in addition to the scribes called upon Heywood Broun, Hendrick William Van Loon, Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees; Lefty Grove, Mickey Cochrane, the new manager of the Detroit Tigers, who joins Grove in leaving the Athletics; Jimmy Foxx, first baseman who remains with the A's; Bill Slocum, Sid Mercer, and Daniel, New York writers; Artie McGovern, the Babe's trainer; Joseph Connolly, King Features Syndicate chief; Whitey Witt, formerly of the Yankees; Bob Shawkey, former Yankee manager and pitcher; Al Munro Elias, the statistician, and Walter Hoban, the cartoonist.

Mrs. Ruth and the Babe's daughter, Julia, were introduced as the festivities opened.

With upward of 100 celebrities in the sporting and newspaper world attending, the affair was one of the notable parties of recent times.

Prior to the banquet, the members of the All-America Board were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ruth at a luncheon in the den of the Babe's apartment, which is full of pictures and trophies of his colorful career and recently has had a bar installed.

PITT, GENEVA AND TITANS ON ROAD

GAMES TONIGHT

Pitt vs. Butler U., Indianapolis.
Westminster vs. John Marshall, Jersey City.
Princeton vs. Rutgers, New Brunswick.
Michigan vs. Maryland, College Park.

By JESS CARVER

Affairs are not progressing quite so hotsy-totsy for district college basketball teams as the 1933-34 campaign picks up a bit of speed, especially in the matter of intersectional competition. The boys are a game down to the opposition with five contests played to date and the outlook for the present week is not particularly encouraging.

Pitt's Golden Panthers, who complete their first Western trip tonight by engaging Butler University at Indianapolis, are the only passers who've been able to win an intersectional game so far. True, Westminster is the only other district varsity which has met out-of-the-district opposition, but usually the tall Titans of New Wilmington have been able to do quite well against most any sort of competition. To date, the Titans have played and lost two games, bowing before St. Thomas, of Scranton and City College of New York, and tonight, tomorrow and Wednesday, the touring Blue and White aggregation faces tough Eastern opponents in contests in which the Western Pennsylvanians will have no better than 50-50 chances of winning.

PITT BREAKS EVEN

Pitt got an even break for the first two games of its trip through the Mid-West by beating Northwestern at Evanston Saturday night. The game was the second rough and tumble affair the Panthers were forced to engage in in two nights. It looks as if the boys in the corn belt were transferring some of the gridiron's roughness to the basketball court.

In two games, against Purdue and the Wildcats, a total of 49 personal fouls were called, which are a lot of personal fouls in any league. In fact, it was the Panther fouls that enabled Northwestern to stay in the ball game Saturday, for the Pitts outscored the Purple 11 field goals to six from the floor.

Fortunately, Pitt teams always have been able to take it as well as give, or rather, give as well as take, and Dr. Carlson's charges may be depended upon to hold their own, no matter how rough the going.

Coach Sleepy Glenn's Mountaineers, of West Virginia, started off on the right foot, or feet, against West Virginia Wesleyan at Morgantown Sat'day night and must be counted to furnish a real threat to Pitt's supremacy in the Eastern Intercollegiate Conference this season. Wesleyan threw a veteran aggregation against the Morgantowners, but the latter were too fast and too snappy for the Bob Kitties.

The departure of Francis Stansvold as head coach at West Virginia after a long tenure of office was regretted, but a change in system and style of play may do West Virginia a whale of a lot of good.

The local Dukes, of course, ap-

Playing in the same form that won him his last national professional title, in 1929, Diegel finished with a sparkling 69 to lead the field by four strokes.

Tied for second place were Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica, Cal., and K. Laffoon, of Denver, with cards of 286. Fourth place went to Willie Hunter, of Los Angeles, with 287, still one stroke to the good under par for this lake-strewn course.

MORGAN ADVANCES IN SOCCER TITLE TOURNEY

LOCAL ELEVEN VICTOR OVER ROCHESTER

By TOM BIRKS

Playing on a slippery, muddy field, and in a heavy downpour of rain that lasted throughout the game, the Morgan club, of the Keystone League, repelled the first interstate invasion in the national challenge cup competition, defeating the crack Rochester Celtics, of Rochester, N. Y., 2 to 1, at Greenlee Field, yesterday afternoon.

The downpour of rain that lasted throughout Saturday night and Sunday morning left the field in a bad way, but the 1,500 fans who watched the thrilling struggle were rewarded by seeing one of the finest games staged in the national tourney over a period of years.

GAME HARD FOUGHT

The Celtics came into Pittsburgh with the reputation of having eliminated many crack soccer clubs in the Western New York district, and the wearers of the Green and White gave the local aggregation many anxious moments before they were counted out.

It was a typical Morgan start and the local club soon had the New York staters on the defensive. The Celtics, unperturbed at the first onslaught, after five minutes of action removed the play to the other end of the field. Harry Nelson cleared his line with a good pass to Cairney, and the inside left, drawing Dalfuzzo out of position, crossed in front of the Morgan goal. Dresnich failed to see the danger, and McEwan, the Celtic center, slipped the ball into the corner of the net.

Morgan rallied following that reverse, and Tom Hart crossed in front of the Celtic goal, but Dresnich was offside. With 15 minutes to go, Felix Mitchell tangled up the Rochester defense and went in to score a fine goal.

LOCALS MISS CHANCES

Morgan at this stage was dominating the play, but halftime arrived with the score unchanged, Morgan having missed quite a few easy chances to take the lead.

Twenty minutes had elapsed in the second half when Gordon Hart set the stage for the winning goal. He slipped past the Celtic halfback line, and finding the blue shirt of Felix Mitchell unmarked, sent the ball through, and before the hard-working Morris could come out of the Celtic goal, Mitchell had the ball in the corner of the net and the ball game won.

Many fans thought that in the heavy mud the Celtics would fold up, but they outlasted the locals, and the last 15 minutes of the game found Morgan battling desperately to hold its slender lead.

Rochester lived up to the advance dope. It was a smart team, but the heavy field did not help its style of play. Matters were even on that score, as the mud hampered Morgan when in scoring position upon numerous occasions.

Felix Mitchell again was the hero for Morgan and apparently is the only Morgan forward capable of getting goals. Gordon Hart and Vallani, together with Cyic and Manager Matthews played good, hard soccer. The team deserved to advance in the national tourney. The lineup:

Morgan—2.		Celtics—1.
C. Dresnich	G	Norris
Villani	R.B.	Murray
Cyic	L.B.	H. Nelson
Dalfuzzo	R.H.	Fyfe

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

AIRLINES PLAN TO HANDLE GAINS

Preparations are being made by Pennsylvania Airlines to handle an unusually heavy volume of air express between now and Christmas, it was announced today by W. J. Austin, vice president in charge of traffic.

Expectations are based on the remarkable increase in this form of express transportation shown since the organization of General Air Express, which is a combination of four other air lines with the local air transportation company, and provides direct service to more than 123 major cities. Door-to-door pickup and delivery is also furnished by Postal Telegraph messengers who handle all details of the shipments.

This service is a boon to last-minute Christmas shoppers since it enables gifts to be delivered to friends in Washington, Cleveland and Akron within a few hours. These cities are served directly by Pennsylvania Airlines. More distant cities such as Miami, Detroit and Los Angeles are reached within a maximum of 24 hours.

So popular has this service proved that many of Pittsburgh's larger department stores are offering it to their customers.

In adidtion to a larger volume of air express, passenger bookings on Pennsylvania Airlines, 10 daily trips are unusually heavy.

By JOSEPH STAGG LAWRENCE
Editor, The Econostat

A group of diligent statisticians, working under the auspices of the NRA, has just produced the blueprints for a super-recovery construction program. This totals approximately 14 billion dollars and is intended to cover a period of two years.

The controversy between those who believe construction to be the road out of the depression and those opposed to it has been sharpened by former Gov. Al Smith's caustic criticism of the P. W. A. and C. W. A. His allegation that the C. W. A. is merely an attempt to cover the failure of the P. W. A. has been vigorously denied by Secretary Ickes. The controversy between public works advocates and their opponents is much more deep-seated than the criticism of former Gov. Smith indicates.

The English have tried two major forms of unemployment relief. One is the so-called dole, which is really unemployment insurance. Employers, the government and the worker join in weekly contributions to a fund which is used to make benefit payments to unemployed. This system has actually been developed to a point where it is now self-sustaining, that is to say, the fund created by weekly contributions is sufficient to meet the charges against it.

The British have also tried housing projects and public works as means of reducing unemployment. This, they have found, in the first instance, to be far more costly than unemployment insurance.

However, the advocates of public works return to the fray with the able support of John Maynard Keynes, noted British economist. Mr. Keynes claims that it is all wrong to consider merely the first cost of a construction program. When the American government, for example, spends a thousand dollars a year per worker for Civilian Conservation Corps employes, it is true that less than half goes directly to the men employed. However, the other half is used for the purchase of trucks, steam shovels, lumber and other products which give employment to additional thousands.

It is this secondary and more remote employment which should be added to those directly engaged as a result of such work. Making allowance for this more remote effect, Keynes comes to the conclusion that outlay for construction is a justifiable method of stimulating recovery.

U. S. ADVANCES GOLD PRICE TO $34.06

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—The government jumped its gold price to $34.06 an ounce today for the first upward movement since December 1.

The 5-cent increase resumed the upward trend begun when a price of $31.36 was fixed October 25 at the beginning of President Roosevelt's effort intended to boost commodity prices by raising gold values.

It also was the first price increase since the disclosure of recent heavy gold purchases abroad, estimated to have exceeded 35 million dollars.

This foreign buying was believed to have taken place during the December weeks that the domestic price has remained stationary. Whether the new increase in the RFC's quotation represented a return of emphasis to the domestic price and a lessening of foreign purchases could not be learned officially.

Bar gold was bringing $32.48 an ounce in London today on the basis of sterling opening at $5.12½ to the pound. Apparently by coincidence, the new gold price increase followed two group statements relating to the country's monetary and financial condition.

MORE OPPOSITION

One was a study by the Brookings Institution, holding that the administration's gold purchase plan cannot be relied upon to bring higher price levels. It called for a reconsideration of monetary policies in relation to economic recovery, arguing that monetary uncertainty "sooner or later leads to a deterioration of government credit."

The second development was a demand of the National Economy League for a balancing of the budget which would bring all expenditures, both ordinary and emergency, within receipts.

The league contended the present rate of spending would produce unsound money and estimated the government would close its fiscal year next June 30 with a four thousand million dollars.

Treasury officials, busy with preparations of the 1935 budget, had no immediate comment on the league's petition to the White House. A mid-December statement of the Treasury's condition, however, showed a deficit close to the billion-dollar mark and just about equally the amount of expenditures classified as "emergency."

DEFICIT UNDER BILLION

In five and one-half months of the fiscal year the government's receipts were $1,309,305,475, but $129,254,000 of this was derived from farm processing taxes.

Expenditures during the same period for ordinary government operations were $1,308,348,307, while the so-called emergency expenditures, including such functions as the RFC, Farm Credit Administration, Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the NRA, the Civil Works Administration and public works, were $909,211,312.

The excess of expenditures, or deficit piled up in five and one-half months, was $908,254,144, or less than a million under the emergency outlays.

The Treasury's cash balance was $1,277,607,004, a considerable boost over the preceding day's figure of $988,889,876. Mid-December financing, including the sale of $992,496,500 in one-year securities and the retirement of seven hundred and twenty-seven million dollars in maturities, provided most of this cash increase.

Actual cash outlays by the Public Works Administration came to $152,244,385, only a fraction of the nearly three billion dollars allotments. It was expected the spring months would bring a huge increase in public works cash expenditures.

REPEAL, WORKS STIMULATE BUSINESS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—The closing period of the year has been characterized by distinctly improved business feeling, but by no important statistical indications of a significant change in trend.

Mr. Rukeyser

The stimulus given by repeal and by increased governmental spending helped to counteract declining tendencies. The process of priming the economic pump is well under way, and it is important to seek quickly to remove trade interrupting disparities under the protection of the present government aid to business.

Statistically, there has been some improvement in steel, in mail order and chain store sales, and in power consumption. Construction activity reflects the increasing effect of governmental spending. Ordinary manufacturing has been running into further seasonal decline.

DEBATE RUN DOWN

The sound money debate has run down. Business men and the public showed little interest in the dire prophecies of the bitter-enders.

With the government temporarily steadying the price of gold, there has been a feeling that perhaps both the advocates and the critics had overestimated the possible influence of the gold policy.

An examination of the data shows that the chief effect on commodities has been on those which go largely into international trade, such as cotton. The payment of the same gold price by foreigners brings the American planter a larger number of dollars.

But the effect of the depreciation of the dollar on foreign exchange is circumscribed by the relatively small part that international trade plays in the American economy. In the peak years, 1927-29, our export trade produced only six per cent of our national income. In New Zealand, where at least 60 per cent of the national income comes from exports, the effect since the beginning of the year of cutting the sterling exchange value of the currency in half has naturally had a more far-reaching influence on the domestic price level.

In view of the trend toward nationalism, perhaps we are somewhat out of step in seeking to induce England, Germany and other intermediary manufacturing nations to buy our surplus raw cotton. England habitually bought cotton to manufacture for re-export to the Orient. If through national policy we sold exportable cotton at a lower price to home textile mills to use for export purposes, we would not only find a market for our raw cotton but would also increase the opportunity for profitable use of labor and capital in American mills. Perhaps the setting up of the able George N. Peek as special advisor to the President on foreign trade will provide a mechanism for canvassing this idea and relating it to the present farm relief program.

PRICES STEADY

In the absence of further changes in mark-ups of the price of gold on the blackboard, commodity prices have continued steady.

Stock prices tapered off toward the close of the week, reflecting the Wall street folklore that the tail end of the year is not the time for bullish pyrotechnics.

The initiative of the street is partially paralyzed by uncertainty as to how much freedom it will have after Congress addresses itself to the problem of federal regulation of security and commodity markets. Those who have read the annals of history recognize the tendency in such regulatory efforts to overshoot the mark.

Wall Street Firm Gives Workers 20% Bonus

TACK'S SLUMP UNDER QUIZ

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 18. — The bottom fell out of the market today for the common stock of Atlas Tack Corporation, which collapsed on Saturday.

Closing at $21.62½ a share on Saturday, the stock finally opened at $15 after a series of bid-and-asked quotations on the tape. It then fell to $14.12½, a drop of $7.50 a share after the tumble of $11.50 on Saturday, before some support appeared and a slight recovery developed.

In the meantime, the business conduct committee of the New York Stock Exchange pressed its investigation into the stock's fluctuations, though officials refused to make any statement.

Wall street, which for some time had heard of a pool operation in the stock after it went from $1.50 a share to $34.75, today received reports that the headquarters of the market operation was in Boston.

The directors of the corporation who could be reached for explanations reported themselves mystified.

CAFE OCCUPIES LANDMARK SITE

It takes the memory of our oldest citizens to hark back to the days when the one time famous Lafayette dance hall was the center of gaiety at this time of year. Back in the days just before the Civil War folks came from miles around to attend affairs held in the famous old Lafayette ballroom, which at that time was the bright spot of Pittsburgh.

In 1862 the old Lafayette dance hall was torn down to make way for the present building at the corner of Wood street and Fourth avenue. The building erected was one of Pittsburgh's earliest sky scrapers and became the home of the Tradesmen's Bank. In this building was placed the first power elevators to be used in Pittsburgh which was one of the outstanding engineering accomplishments of that age.

Later the Columbia Bank took over the building and until a few years ago used the entire first floor of the building as banking quarters. It still is called the Columbia Bank Building and is a spot filled with memories both romantic and otherwise to the many old timers who even now stroll in to sit and recall the days of the past.

The big banking room is now, as of old, daily filled with a continual crowd of downtown Pittsburgh business people, but now they gather there at the Woodforth Cafe, one of Pittsburgh's newest restaurants, which occupies the high ceilinged room that was formerly the main room of the Columbia Bank. Few changes have been made, and there still remains the rare old woodwork of mahogany and the old fireplace at the end of the room and the fresh clear water from the artesian well hundreds of feet below ground.

STOCK MARKET MOVEMENT IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Financial markets, as a whole, failed to exhibit any exuberance today, following the lifting of the domestic gold rate a nickel an ounce, and prices generally were nervous and irregular.

The small tilt of the gold figure furnished little surprise to speculative circles and the inflationary implications of the raise brought no rush for either equities or commodities. Stocks pointed lower with some specialties quite heavy. Grains and cotton were only a little better than even, although silver and rubber were firm. Both sterling and French francs moved up around 4 cents and .05 of a cent, respectively. United States government securities sagged and corporate bonds were hesitant.

Extreme dullness characterized share trading. Atlas Tack dropped more than 7 points in addition to its 11½ point loss Saturday.

Most market commentators were of the opinion that dull and featureless pre-Christmas market sessions could be expected unless some unforeseen stimulus is furnished by Washington activities.

Business and industrial sentiment, however, continued highly optimistic for the early part of the year. Trade reviews found that consumer response to Christmas offerings in all types of retail stores has been exceeding the expectations of many merchants who had previously turned a little gloomy following the let-down after Thanksgiving Day. Sales returns were said to be running substantially ahead of last year.

Hopes of near-future currency stabilization apparently were fading in Wall street and there were many conjectures as to how much higher the gold rate would be raised and the quantity of metal which might be acquired abroad under the existing administrative policy. Indications that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had bought some 35 million dollars of foreign gold since it began the price-fixing program, although interesting to the banking sector, were not conclusive evidence to most financiers that the bidding would be raised to any great extent in European centers. It was pointed out that if the international gold rate is to be boosted appreciably, the United States might have to bring in much larger shipments of the metal.

Some brokerage houses with European connections reported a moderate renewal of equity buying from abroad during the past week. Small orders were said to have been received from London, Paris, Switzerland and Amsterdam. Purchasers, it was said, have been exceptionally selective and more for investment than speculative purposes.

DOLLAR LOWER IN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—(AP.)—Foreign exchanges firmed in terms of the dollar today as the domestic gold price was lifted 5 cents an ounce to $34.06. The British pound advanced around 5 cents and then dropped back to $5.14, where it was up 2 cents. French francs showed a gain of .02½ of a cent at 6.17 cents; Dutch guilders were up .30 of a cent at 63.35 cents, and Belgian belgas and Swiss francs were .10 and .13 of a cent higher, respectively. Moderate improvement was shown by German marks, the Scandinavians and Canadian dollars.

DEMAND SLOW, WHEAT FALLS

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—Despite an upturn in the Washington quotation on gold, grain prices averaged lower early today. Speculative demand for wheat lacked volume. Opening unchanged to ⅝ off, wheat later held near the initial limits. Corn started at ⅛ decline to ½ advance, and subsequently altered little.

Later, the wheat market scored fractional gains, helped by comparative firmness of corn and oats prices.

Tending somewhat to strengthen wheat values were advices that official estimates of the 1933 Australian crop were reduced to 160 million bushels, against 210 million last year.

Provisions were responsive to steadiness of hog values.

Business Losing Fear

By B. C. FORBES

THE MOST important change recently has not been in statistics, but in sentiment.

WHEN THE overdone midsummer, pre-NRA code boom flattened out, and when Washington's gold-boosting program was announced at the same time that Gen. Johnson was alarming employers by his swinging of the big stick and his associates were threatening to bring about the "closed shop" throughout America, the financial world became alarmed over prospects of currency inflation and industrialists likewise became acutely disturbed.

Mr. Forbes

Nervousness has abated notably since then both among financiers and industrialists.

WHILE conservatives are as anxious as ever to have the dollar "stabilized" on a gold basis, they have largely ceased to fear that the money printing presses will be set in motion. More: The majority of them have become reconciled to a drastically depreciated dollar, a dollar ranging anywhere from 65 cents to as low as 50 cents. Notwithstanding emphatic denials towards the week end that negotiations were under way with Britain and France for instituting currency stabilization, the belief persists that definite action will be taken in the near future.

MOST EMPLOYERS have become more resigned to NRA and to the codes adopted for their industries.

While the first effects of NRA were to raise wages and reduce work hours, benefits arising from elimination or modification of unfair price cutting are beginning to be felt by various industries. Also there has been some abandonment of the dictatorial attitude originally assumed by bureaucrats. There is now growing expectation that trade associations will be allowed reasonable opportunity to evolve a rational measure of self government and that NRA will intervene only when flagrant abuses are persisted in.

SENTIMENT has been strengthened too, by improvement in buying throughout many sections of the country.

Purchasing power is at last being potently increased by governmental disbursements. The Civil Works Administration claims that four million have been placed on its payrolls during recent weeks. Loans and largesse to farmers are materially expanding. Progress is being made in reopening closed banks and releasing deposits under the "allotting" of hundreds of millions of public funds for federal construction, and to finance state and municipal projects is being followed by the actual starting of operations on a more substantial scale.

ON TOP of this, sentiment has been helped by restoration of firmness in United States government bonds, steadiness in security quotations, the announcement of larger dividend disbursements, the daily issuance of earnings statements exceeding expectations, fairly satisfactory retail trade reports and other indications that the reaction which logically followed the summer rebound has spent its force.

These developments have fully counteracted the failure of Washington's limited gold buying scheme to yield the price-lifting results confidentially promised by its ardent sponsors. Apparently the ineffectiveness of the plan is now recognized; the officially quoted gold price of $34.01 has not been changed in two weeks. Mystery still surrounds the administration's objectives. But, as already stated, fears that rampant inflation will be launched have materially subsided. The advent of Congress excited only mild apprehension.

THE LATEST intimations from Washington are that the stupendous task of examining banks to make sure that they are entitled to have their deposits (up to $2,500) insured during the first half of 1934, will be completed in time and that the nation will not awaken on the morning of January 8 to find that hundreds of institutions have not opened. If such a performance can be fully achieved, the effect should be reassuring and stimulating.

THE ATMOSPHERE as 1933 draws to a close is very different from what the atmosphere was in the closing weeks of 1932.

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Broadway she saw a crowd coming. It was lead by half-grown boys and women.

Behind them, jamming Broadway from curb to curb, trampled men with fire-blackened hands and faces. They were armed with axes, pitchforks, bludgeons, burning torches, pistols and muskets. They had a red flannel flag, and they were brawling: "Down with the rich! Down with the police! Down with property! Down with the war! Kill the rich; burn everything!"

Clattering in their wake came an uncouth company mounted on clumsy omnibus horses and flourishing swords and pistols. Behind these marched masses of dirty, desperate-looking men with shouldered muskets, dragging two iron cannon by long, tarry ropes.

Swept Along

The shrilling, roaring tumult nearly deafened the girl; yelling men, boys and women swarmed past her, shouldering her ahead with them.

"Where are we going?" The navy yards and burn the ironclad," he said hoarsely.

There came a sudden halt in the procession; the omnibus cavalry began to gallop heavily to and fro, disputing with some of the mob that wished to go to Ninth avenue and start killing Negroes before they destroyed the ironclad.

Shouting and haranguing, their leaders argued and cursed until the disorder, spreading, became a fierce mutiny. All semblance of discipline disappeared.

Then Operator 13 saw a young man with military bearing, evidently a gentleman although wearing overalls and red flannel shirt, ride up on a handsome horse and urge the mob to continue its march to the water front.

Off to Report

In the yelling confusion the girl slipped away into Twentieth street and hurried across Sixth avenue to the Sixteenth Precinct Police Station where Capt. Hedden and Inspector Dilks had just arrived from a terrific fight at Twenty-second street and Second avenue.

The station house was full of wounded policemen when Operator 13 entered. Inspector Dilks caught sight of her and recognized her; she asked him to listen while she dictated a telegram to Mulberry street. Capt. Hedden also came to the telegrapher's desk to listen.

"'To Commissioner Acton,' she began breathlessly. 'A mob numbering several thousand is at Broadway and Twenty-first street. Their avowed intention is to destroy the ironclad. They have two iron cannon, and many muskets. There are perhaps fifty of them mounted on omnibus horses. A kind of discipline was maintained among them until a dispute arose regarding a proposed raid into a Negro district on the West Side.

"'I think the Confederate spy Cleburne is in command. I think I saw him.

"'If you could send a body of troops and a hundred policemen to the Sixteenth Precinct, Capt. Hedden and Inspector Dilks will join them with the force here, Operator 13.'"

"Yes, ma'am, we will," said Inspector Dilks coolly.

Exhausted

In a few minutes the telegraphic reply came back: "Four hundred ex-soldiers of New York Guard regiments, under Col. Nevers, will march to Webb's shipyard. I have no police to send you. Capt. Hedden will support Col. Nevers if required to protect the big ironclad. Tell Inspector Dilks to arrest or kill Cleburne if possible. Is Capt. Gailliard with that mob?"

"I did not see him," replied Operator 13. She dictated in a steady voice, but her body was shivering in the July heat.

Capt. Hedden brought her a sandwich and a cup of coffee. She tried to eat but couldn't.

Police scouts, in touch with the mob, reported it still halted and undecided.

Sergt. Wright, in ragged disguise, arrived to report. He appared to be convinced that Confederate agents were in command of this particular mob. They were preaching a northern revolution, not a local riot. One of them—a fair-haired, graceful youth—had a small Confederate battle flag in his hand, and he was demanding that it replace the red flannel rag tied to a rioter's rusty bayonet.

A moment later another police scout in plain clothes—Officer Warner—ran into the station house to report that part of the mob had gone west to chase Negroes, and that a thousand of them were marching to attack the Sixteenth Precinct Police Station.

"You'd better go, ma'am," said Inspector Dilks to Operator 13.

But the girl shook her head, saying that she preferred to remain in telegraphic touch with Police Headquarters.

Already the roar of the coming mob filled Twentieth street. Hedden was coolly giving his orders; the Metropolitan loaded their revolvers, drew their locust clubs, and marched out to do battle.

Cleburne Killed

Into the street surged the mob from both Sixth and Seventh avenues; and into them tore the police, their locusts swinging like flails, their revolvers darting flame. And beside them, loading and firing her revolver, stood Operator 13.

Then, through the nauseating battle mist, in the thick of the mob, she saw a young man on horseback. He wore around his neck a Confederate battle flag; he was shooting right and left with his revolver and shouting encouragement to the screaming mob which had recoiled before the police toward a spiked iron railing flanking the station house.

Operator 13 fired at him. He saw her do it, laughed, and took off his hat to her. At that instant a policeman fired and shot him through the body.

The boy was dying when he turned his horse to escape. But he was unable to keep his saddle; he fell, headfirst, on the iron fence, and one of the pickets pierced his throat. And there he died under the sickened eyes of Operator 13.

The police were driving the mob toward Sixth avenue when a police surgeon and Operator 13 lifted the dead youth and laid him on the sidewalk. The boy had delicately moulded features and fine white skin under the red shirt and overalls of a workman. Under these, also, he was dressed in a brand new Confederate naval uniform; and on a handkerchief in his pocket was embroidered "G. C. Gordon Cleburne."

Operator 13, feeling ill, went into the station house for a glass of water. The police telegrapher was busy, telegraphing the news to Mulberry street.

"Say to Mr. Acton that Cleburne has been killed," she said faintly.

Clickity-click, the message was on its way.

TYPICAL NRA CODE HEARING

The National Recovery Administration provides for hearings concerning the codes governing the various industries and businesses. Participating in the hearings are the representatives of the concerned employers, employes, consumers, the committee on planning and research, the deputy administrator, with legal advisers and experts. They aim to agree on rules, fair to all, to create more jobs by shortening working hours and eliminating child labor, to increase buying power by setting minimum wages, to improve business by eliminating cut throat competition and other unfair practices. The accepted code, signed by the President, becomes law for the respective industries. Where voluntary agreement cannot be obtained the President may impose a code; he can also bind the industries by license. The National Recovery Act was designed to help lift the country out of economic distress and to stimulate social progress.

MUFFLE FURNACE TO MAKE HYDROGEN CHLORIDE

Hydrogen chloride (HCl) is made commercially from salt and sulphuric acid in the muffle furnace. The mixture is heated in iron pan A; reaction: NaCl+H2SO4=NaHSO4 (sodium acid sulphate) + HCl (drawn off at C). The residue (NaCl+NaHSO4) is transferred into the reverberatory hearth (B) and highly heated: NaHSO4 + NaCl = Na2SO4 + HCl (drawn off with the combustion gases). The liberated HCl in each process is carried into water which absorbs it giving the commercial hydrochloric acid. The remaining sodium sulphate—a white solid, in crystallized and hydrated form the Glauber's salt—is used in glass manufacture. (Chemistry)

COMPOSITION OF FOODS

Seeds are high in protein; roots, bulbs and tubers rich in carbohydrates; rinds, leaves, stems contain chiefly minerals. Eggs, cheese, meat are concentrated protein food. Butter, lard, vegetable oils are fats. (Gen. Science)

CHARLEMAGNE—TEACHER OF HIS PEOPLE

He united the greater part of the Teutonic peoples under his rule, broke the power of the Lombards in Italy, introduced Christianity into the conquered lands.

In 800 Pope Leo III crowned Charlemagne Roman emperor. Soon after his death the empire fell apart and from its debris there developed later the nations of Western Europe. (World History)

MEDICINE DANCE OF THE WINNEBAGO INDIANS

With the medicine dance, Indians believed they could drive out the evil spirit of sickness and bad luck. The Winnebago is an important Sioux (Dakota) tribe. The Sioux were the mightiest tribe of the United States.

During the French-American War (1755-1763) they sided with the French; in the War of 1812 with the British. But after the Treaty of Ghent (December, 1814) was signed between the United States and Great Britain, some of the Eastern Sioux made friendly treaties with Washington, although terrible border clashes and massacres of the advancing Whites continued almost to the close of the nineteenth century. NEWCOMEN'S STEAM ENGINE

Courtesy of The MacMillan Co. (Hadley: Everyday Physics)

DIAGRAM OF STEAM ENGINE

The modern steam engine converts heat into mechanical work by permitting steam to expand in a cylinder and act on a piston against load. The steam generator (boiler) is a separate unit.

Thomas Newcomen, English blacksmith, made the first steam engine (1711) to pump water (left). Steam lifted piston then was condensed by a jet of water; atmospheric pressure forced piston into initial position. Valves were turned by hand.

James Watt (1736-1819) made improvements still used, so he is called the inventor of the steam engine. He admitted steam on both sides of piston by distributing and regulating mechanism and condensed it outside the cylinder (1775). (Transportation)

Too Many Discoveries

Although known as a humane citizen we have no sympathy with balloons in stratosphere.

We see no reason to discover the North Pole more than once. We still visualize Peary there chewing a walrus sandwich and hoping the pictures will turn out fine.

The spirit of exploration is rampant in the chests of men. We concede that the mysteries of the lost continent of Atlantis are intriguing. But we would rather stay at home and guess.

Curiosity massacred the cat. Information brought it to life again. That's why Prof. Beebe lowered himself into an iron egg and descended one mile into the ocean. He saw some funny looking fish and was as happy as a boy in an apple tree.

Why does Frank Buck insist on bringing in his tigers alive? To avoid the import duty on rugs? No, Frank has the explorer's spirit magnified to the vanishing point. He invited us to go to thickest Africa with him and catch some brand new wild animals.

But, when a man wraps his panthers up in boa constrictors he is too tidy for us.

We care neither for the bundle nor for the string.

We like to see those things in the movies and become so terrified that we hug the strange lady in the next seat for mutual protection. It leads to some drum head court-martials by ushers. But also to a few dates.

Bob Ripley has seen almost every country in the world. He requested us to be his boon companion on his recent journey to the Khyber Pass. We have no innate desire to chin ourselves on the Himalayas. If you want to dance around something these December days you won't find any better May pole than the old parlor stove.

So, The Bug will let the intrepid wayfarers wander to the four rounded corners of the globe and continue to be the doormat on the welcoming committee. What if the Martin Johnsons have become personal photographers to the rhinos and hippos of Muggistan?

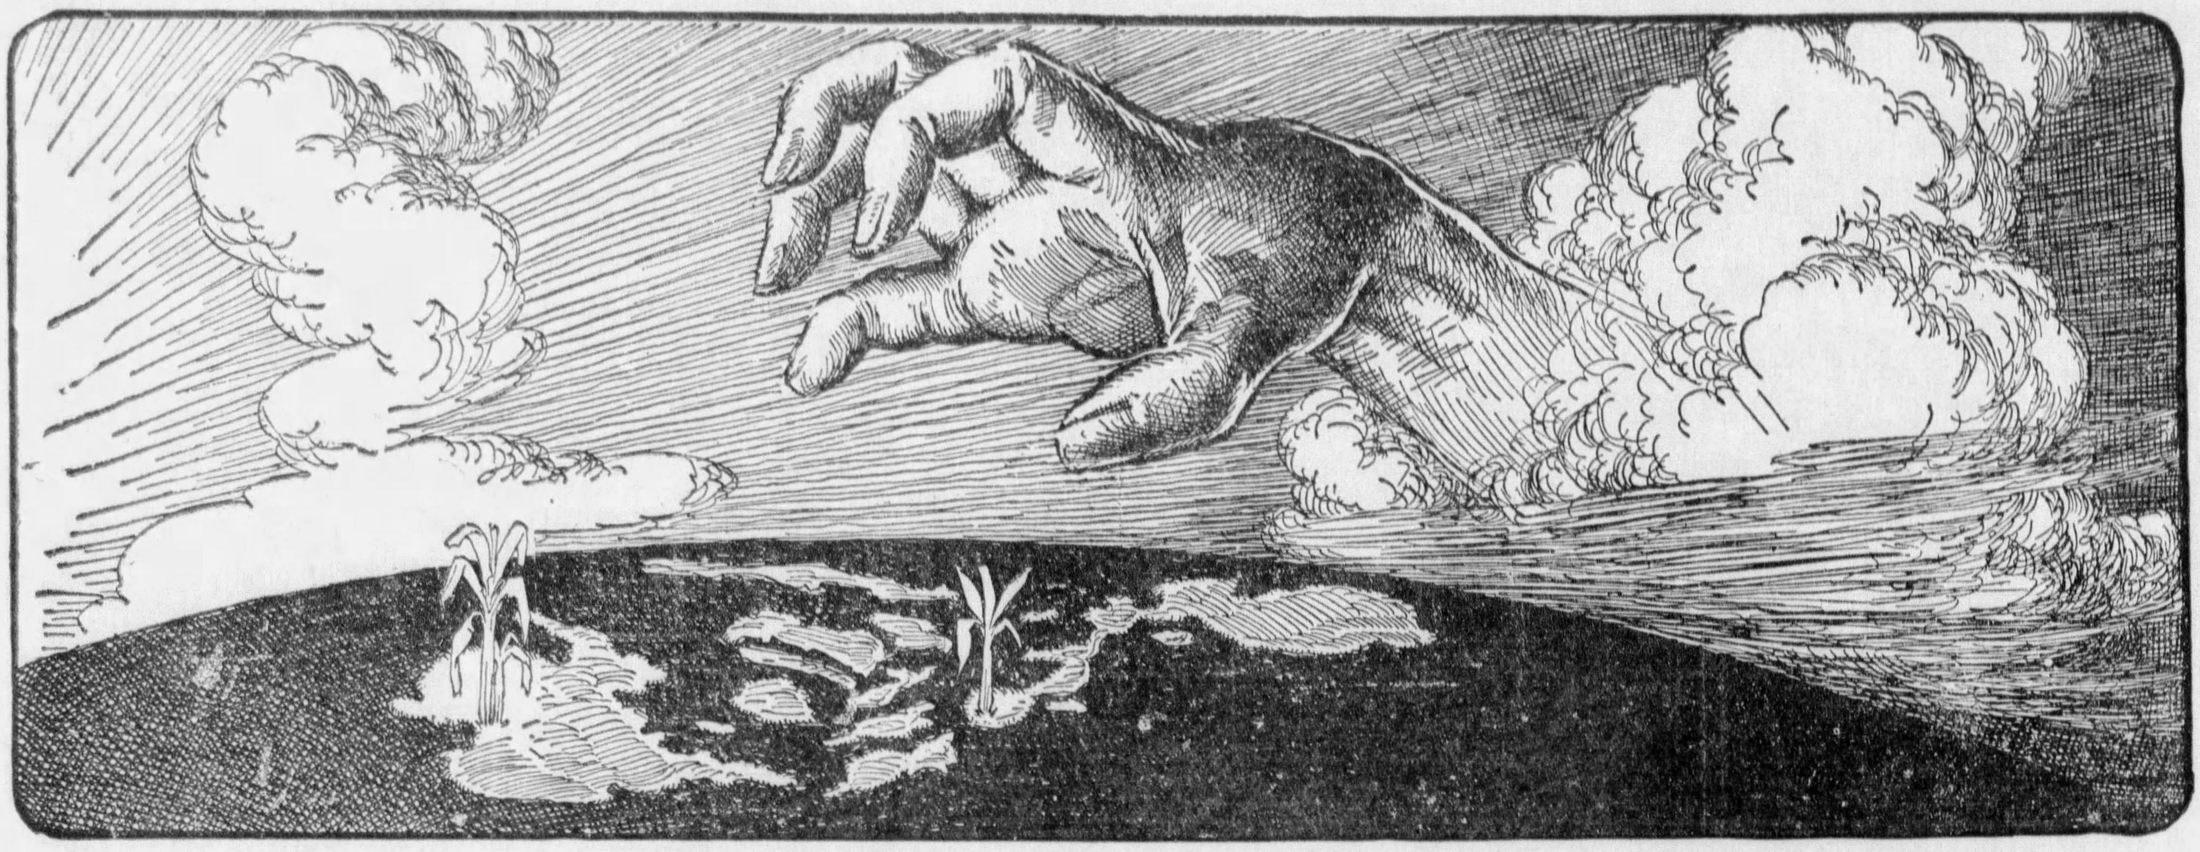
The Surrender of a Heritage



Japan's Grasping Hand Closing on Philippines

The cartoon above, and the editorial accompanying this one, are from the Philippines Herald, a fine, alert and loyal newspaper published in Manila.

You should read the editorial and think seriously about it. A little thought now will save a lot of later worry.

The plain facts show that Japan is beginning to populate the Philippines AS IT HAS ALREADY POPULATED HAWAII.

The facts show that Japan is beginning to control the industries of the Philippines, and to reach out a greedy hand for the business as well as the territory of these magnificent islands — almost a continent.

Japan has already acquired complete control of the hemp industry in the important Philippine province of Davao.

Now the Japanese,—backed by the Japanese government, mind you,—are reaching out into other great hemp districts of the Philippines; Albay, the Camarines provinces, and Leyte.

The Philippines, these fine American possessions, are being invaded by Japan, — peacefully, of course, but actually and surely and with the definite purpose of occupying them eventually.

Back of the invasion, encouraging it and supporting it, is the Japanese militaristic government.

No matter how much we may wish to live in friendship with the Japanese we do not want them to appropriate our possessions.

Nor do we want the Philippines and Hawaii to be in a position to be declared a part of the Japanese empire at the pleasure of Japan.

These two island possessions of ours, of YOURS, are connected by an archipelago of Pacific islands which Japan controls without right but refuses to surrender.

The Philippines and Hawaii would complete the link and bring the Japanese empire three thousand miles nearer our shores.

How long do you think Hawaii would remain a possession of the United States if the Japanese, which now constitute so vast a proportion of the population, should decide to co-operate with the Japanese military forces in delivering these islands to Japan?

How long do you think the Philippines would remain our possession or remain free when the Japanese shall have populated those islands as they have populated Hawaii?

And if the grasping hand of Japan shall clutch the Philippines and Hawaii as it has already grasped Korea and Manchuria, the east coast of the military empire of Japan will be within striking distance of the west coast of America.

THINK ABOUT these important facts a little now, fellow Americans, and save a lot of bitter thought later on.

We are rather smug and self-satisfied, we Americans,—rather self-centered and shortsighted,—rather indifferent to what is happening and what may happen outside of our congressional district.

We are carelessly watching "the surrender of a heritage," OUR heritage; and that heritage is an empire.

Perhaps you think we have not the capacity to govern this island empire, but we have given it one of the best governments that prevail anywhere in the world.

Perhaps you think that we should consider only our own land, but this island empire IS our land.

We wrested it from Spain in war, and to make our title doubly sure we paid for it in cash besides.

It is just as much ours as California and Nevada and New Mexico and Arizona and Texas are ours, which were acquired in the same way, but without so formidable a cash payment.

Perhaps you think we have not the business intelligence to develop the products and control the commerce of these islands.

But we have the keenest business minds in the world, if only we were not serfs of the trusts and subjects of the financial oligarchy of Wall Street.

Napoleon called the plain people "cannon fodder," and the despots of our great corporations have the same contempt for our people.

And why not?

Our Congress has not served us.

It has responded to the dictation of the sugar trust.

It has betrayed American interests.

It has sacrificed the nation's safety.

It has surrendered the heritage of the American people for a mess of corporation contributions and sugar trust support.

And mess is the right word. Dirty mess is a better description.

Perhaps, fellow Americans, you regard the Philippines as far away in the dim distance.

The Philippines are not as far away from Washington today, in point of time, as California was when we acquired it from Mexico.

And in a few years we can travel from San Francisco to Manila in half the time it now takes to travel by train from San Francisco to New York.

Indeed, the day will come when you can have your breakfast in San Francisco, your luncheon in Hawaii, and your dinner in the Philippines.

If you do not think the Philippines are rather near, let them fall into the eager hands of Japan, and you will soon find how near they are.

From the Philippines and Hawaii, the Japanese could be on the Pacific coast almost before their declaration of war could be printed in our newspapers.

Men of America! Women of America! Are you going to allow the Pacific possessions of the United States to fall into the clutching hand of Japan?

If not, YOU must act, you, yourselves.

Congress is not only shortsighted, but disloyal.

Congressmen are thinking of themselves, not of you.

They are thinking of the support of the sugar trust, not of your welfare and your safety.

Our appeal is to the thoughtful, patriotic voters of the United States.

Japan is controlling your Pacific possessions, and will shortly acquire them.

Then you will have the frontier of Japan at your doors.

The hand of Japan will then cast its black shadow on your own shores.

And it is a grasping hand, a heavy hand, a mailed fist, hard to deal with.

Better tell your congressmen to be patriotic statesmen instead of peanut politicians.

Tell them to do a little foresighted thinking now or we will all have to do a lot of futile grieving later.

Tell them not to believe that they are escaping the oriental menace by abandoning our Philippines.

They are merely opening our front door and inviting the menace into our very homes.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

A National Tragedy—Let the People Judge

The following editorial is the editorial to which Mr. Hearst refers, and is reprinted from the Philippines Herald of October 25, 1933:

IN OUR estimates of the possibilities of the future we have often neglected to reckon with one economic factor which well might be our salvation after other factors, now the basis of our artificial prosperity, shall have tottered to the ground. That factor is no other than HEMP.

Philippine hemp is also the world's hemp. That is the curious fact about it—that this product which is peculiarly the exclusive property of the Philippines is also the product of the whole world because without it the world would not be able to carry on with many of its present activities.

Manila rope, manufactured from the fiber of the abaca plant, is used almost everywhere as marine cordage. The tensile strength of hemp is the guarantee of the universally recognized endurance of this rope.

It can be said that hemp is an absolute necessity and that it cannot be replaced. There are other hard fibers used as substitutes, such as the Mexican sisal and maguey, but they cannot replace hemp for a great number of uses. Thus hemp has had a steadily growing demand in all parts of the world.

But irreplaceable as it is in its present extensive and numerous uses, we have not taken due advantage of its supremacy.

The abaca planter has been a forgotten man. He has been left entirely to his resources, and as he has been forgotten so have his crude methods of planting been denied our attention.

On the other hand, witness what is happening today in the Philippine province of Davao—that miniature Japanese empire where the hemp industry is now in the highest stage of its development. The record of Davao's progress as a hemp-producing section of the Philippines does not show that Filipino capital has ever ventured there. American money has been invested to a considerable extent, but the larger percentage of the business is in Japanese hands.

The Japanese government, seeing the promise that Davao meant for Japanese settlers, has been quick to encourage a wholesale occupation of the province, offering all kinds of facilities to emigrants and undertaking an exhaustive investigation of the possibilities of abaca culture for prospective investors.

Thousands of Japanese have emigrated to Davao and settled there. Schools have been built after the imperial pattern and temples established for the worship of Buddha. The laborers of the hemp plantations have been provided with comfortable homes. An unmistakable Japanese atmosphere pervades the whole length and breadth of the province.

The Japanese have assiduously dedicated themselves to the hemp industry to the extent that they are now in full control of the business in Davao. Their competition, backed up by the home government, is becoming more and more formidable every day.

Now it is no longer Davao alone, for the Japanese are quietly but steadily spreading out into the other hemp districts of the Philippines. Albay, the Camarines provinces and Leyte are the new goals of Japanese enterprise.

The significance of Japan's control of our hemp business cannot be overemphasized. Our hemp trade enjoys the peculiar advantage of not being dependent upon any favored market. Whereas our sugar, our cocoanut oil, and possibly our cigars, will suffer if free trade between this country and the United States is abolished, hemp will remain in its present position without need of any artificial protection.

When our sugar plantations will have felt the effects of the restriction of production which the discontinuance of the free trade scheme between the Philippines and the United States will compel; when our copra will be rotting in the kilns because our cocoanut oil will have been shut off the American market; when thousands and thousands of our laborers will have lost their jobs as a result of the collapse of these two industries, and our government coffers will have felt the lack of the usual revenues from these industries—it will then be our national tragedy to find that the only export product on which we may yet depend is no longer ours but Japan's.

Hemp is indigenous to the Philippines. It has been shown that it does not grow as well on foreign soils, and that if it grows in few exceptional cases, its fiber is inferior to that of the Philippine plant. The substitute fibers sold on the markets of the world are admittedly lacking in the tensile strength which is the peculiar merit of Manila hemp.

Yet, what have we done to take full advantage of it? What have we done but allow it to pass into the hands of foreigners who are now reaping the fruits of their initiative and industry at the expense of what is legitimately our own wealth?

THE STORY OF JAPANESE PROSPERITY IN DAVAO IS THE STORY OF THE SURRENDER OF A NATIONAL HERITAGE, OF UNPARDONABLE INDIFFERENCE, OF SHAMEFUL NEGLECT. IN IT ARE REFLECTED THE PROCRASTINATION OF OUR GOVERNMENT AND THE APATHY OF OUR PEOPLE. OUR GENERATIONS TO COME WILL READ IN THAT STORY THE DISMEMBERMENT OF THEIR NATIONAL DOMAIN AND THE BARTER OF THEIR RIGHTS.

Unless our government acts right now to assume the responsibility for the promotion of the Philippine hemp industry, encouraging Filipino participation in the business to the fullest extent still possible, checking the further increase of Japanese investment through the acquisition of more plantations, and buying out Japanese interests while the buying is yet good, the day will come when the destinies of this natural monopoly which providence has placed in our hands will be controlled in Tokio rather than in Manila.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 18.—Diary: Up to find scribbles from Mrs. Ernest Torrence, Charles M. Schwab, Helen Astor and Sumner Blossom. So far a leg to the park to whip up hunger for cakes made of ground corn meal Ted Woodward sent. From a 100-year-old water mill. Few writers are so mourned as W. O. McGeehan.

Most of the afternoon penning a magazine panegyric to the bravest of all novelists and once neighbor, J. Breckenridge Ellis. Then with my wife to Walter Chrysler, Jr.'s tea to Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone, and talked to Lois Moran, especially fetching in a sheath of red velvet.

Dinner with the R. M. Brinkerhoffs, the Ray Rohns and H. T. Websters from Stamford to reune. And recalling the jinky days when we floriated in an 165 street apartment where Polly, the black cook, would daily inquire wistfully: "Am there any vittle money today?"

A salary raise of $3 a week denied Robert Ripley when on the art staff of a San Francisco paper caused him to pack in a pet and trek to New York—and deathless fame. Ripley's stipend was $15 a week. He desired $18. Vague promises from the inner sanctum failed to jell. One day his dander flared and, bearding the editorial ogre in his den, he was prettily decorated with a roundhouse sized wash-boiler. Another striking example of the value sometimes in getting the gate.

George McManus looks more like his drawings than any other American artist. His Jiggs is a travesty of his roly-poly self even to white spats. It would be difficult to conceive anyone resembling Don Herold's characters but Herold does. Neysa McMein resembles many of her magazine girls and Charles Dana Gibson is a double for some of the salty types that run through his drawings. Briggs was the forlorn shaver, always needing the handkerchief, grown up. O, yes, Soglow is a ringer for his undersized, waddly and ermined king.

Ring Lardner's last hand-written letter was penned in a New York hospital to a friend in Washington who inquired how he was. He replied: "You can tell how I am by where I am."

Uncle Joe Cannon had a pronounced aversion to re-crossing trails of his youth. He liked to enfold them in membranes of memory only. One day motoring through a town of his beginnings, someone called attention to a house with: "There's where you were born." He cried, closing his eyes: "The hell it is. Drive on!"

Bagatelles: Katharine Cornell charges 50 cents for her autograph and sends collections to an actor fund . . . Jed Harris, who never shaves until he has to, likes to loll around his apartment in a loin cloth . . . Daniel Frohman is a collector of dolls . . . McClelland Barclay, to while away the tedium of an alimony imprisonment, tried his hand at poetry for the first time and sold two poems . . . Bernhardt would never lick a postage stamp . . . Helen Wills Moody spends her convalescing period painting . . . Montague Glass laughs uproariously when writing Potash and Perlmutter stories . . . Ann Pennington and George White, once in love, exchange letters once a month . . . Jack Howard is going to Indianapolis to work on his father's newspaper.

Mrs. Fontaine Fox decided not to bother her cartoonist husband about her enthusiasm for flying. So several times a week, ostensibly to attend bridge parties, she absented herself from home to master technique in aviation. One morning under his breakfast plate Fox found her flying license. He paled, then grinned.
